Lancaster Farming

Vol. 41 No. 32 | 60¢ Per Copy | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, June 15, 1996 | Four Sections | $27.50 Per Year

State FFA president Andrew Young and eastern regional FFA vice president Joy Young got a head start on working together. Both grew up together on Red Knob Farm, which is farmed in partnership with their dads and with grandparents Henry and Jean Young, standing in the center. Kneeling at left is Andrew with his parents Matthew and Linda and sisters Rebecca and Stacy. Kneeling at far right is Joy with parents David and Linda, and siblings, Jason, Debra, and Elizabeth. Another brother David Jr. attends college in Ohio. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

Both From Red Knob Farm Partnership

Cousins Named State FFA President and Regional Vice President

LOU ANN GOOD

WAKEFIELD (Lancaster Co.) — Two cousins, both graduates of Solanco High School this week, were named Pennsylvania State FFA officers on Thursday. Andrew Young is the new state president and his cousin Joy is the eastern regional vice president.

Working together is nothing new for these cousins. This past year, Joy was president of both the Solanco Chapter and the county FFA while Andrew was vice president of both chapters.

But working together extends back far longer than the cousin's FFA affiliation. Both grew up on Red Knob Farm where their dads and grandfather farm in partnership.

With 400 milking cows and 370 rented acres in addition to the 240-acre farm spread, Red Knob Farm is no ordinary farm. It is run by three families in partnership —

No More Tobacco Research At Landisville

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "Tobacco breeding has been shut down," said John Yocum about the discontinuation of Penn State tobacco research at the Ag Issues Forum meeting here Thursday morning. "In other words, tobacco breeding programs are pretty much going by the wayside at Penn State."

Not long ago, the Penn State Southeastern Agricultural Research and Extension Center, of which Yocum manages, received a directive: no more tobacco

Harold Probst has "tested" milk for Ken Beiler's herd for 31 years, the entire time the herd has been in existence. They met in Beiler's milk house last week to remember some of their experiences over the years. See story page A30. Alter Named Interim Dean At Penn State UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State University this week announced that it has named Dr. Theodore Alter to serve as interim dean of the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences.

Alter is a Penn State professor and head of the Penn State Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, within the College of Agricultural Sciences since 1994. He also has extensive background in extension activities.

Effective July 1, Alter is to assume the position of interim dean, replacing James Starling, current interim dean and professor

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

JUNE 7, 1996

Price ranges were unchanged to lower. The market tone was cautiously steady to weak. Demand centered on immediate needs only, and was generally no better than fair. Floor stocks were adequate. Shell egg offerings were at least adequate from regular suppliers, and prices were unchanged to lower with light weight eggs in the weakest position. Edible liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending June 1, 1996 were 16% less than last week, and 2% more than the same week last year.

National Egg Market

Prices were unchanged to lower in the Midwest, elsewhere, unchanged. The market tone remained steady to weak. Demand was light to good, mostly moderate, and best into food service and retail features. Supplies continued adequate to ample, with mediums in the longest position. Breaking stock supplies were adequate. Live supplies of light type hens were ample.

Delmarva Broiler

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light and insufficient to keep offerings of over 3 pound sizes from building. Smaller sizes were short of needs. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights remained generally heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 2 cents lower at 68 to 80 cents. Trade sentiment was barely steady to mostly weak. In the parts complex, breast items were in excess of a limited buying interest. Leg items were balanced to fully adequate. Wings were in generally good balance.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JUNE 12, 1996

Wheat and bean bids continued to decline, today, pressured by lack of export activity and improved planting weather. Corn bids moved moderately higher due to China's overnight purchase and fund buying on the board. Wheat 9 to 13 cents lower. Corn 6 to 8 cents higher. Sorghum 12 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 9 cents lower. Warmer, drier weather and farmers are back in fields. Spring wheat planting is progressing and winter wheat harvest continues to pressure bids. The lack of new export business so far this week, also weighed on bids. Corn bids were moderately higher due to good export interest from China. Fund buying was noted on the board. Lower soybean bids were also due to lack of fresh export sales and improved planting weather. Export News: Commodity Tonnage Del date China Corn 50,000 Jun Totals: Corn 50,000 tonnes. OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
JUNE 12, 1996

Compared to last Monday: Feeder cattle and calves 1.00-2.00 higher. Demand very good on English and exotic cross cattle, excellent for Brahma crosses. Combelt buyers very active. Quality average, moderate end attractive. Feeder flesh condition medium. Weigh-ups gaunt to full. General attitude in the feeder and slaughter cattle circles is bullish for first time in a year. Low placements in feedlots, smaller show lists, short day slaughter cattle, expected good corn crop, high cow slaughter, and less replacement cows held for breeding are all combining to create this atmosphere of hope. Slaughter cows and bulls firm to 2.00 higher. Packer demand very good with best action from Northern buyers. Demand improved from Texas buyers as the large cow runs in the drought stricken south are winding down. 1,025 cows and bulls sold with 85 percent to packers. Receipts this week 11,775; last week 15,264; last year 9,544. Supply consisted of 72 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 19 percent calves and yearlings under 600 lbs; 9 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis. Feeder Steers: Medium and Large 1 350-400 lbs (382 lbs) 62.50-67.00 (64.54); 400-500 lbs (450 lbs) 59.50-63.50 (62.63); 500-600 lbs (550 lbs) 60.00-64.50 (62.50); 600-650 lbs (621 lbs) 58.75-61.00 (59.96); 650-700 lbs (675 lbs) 59.25-64.25 (61.92); 700-750 lbs (718 lbs) 60.00-63.75 (62.02); 750-800 lbs (780 lbs) 59.00-63.50 (60.83); 800-900 lbs (850 lbs) 58.00-62.00 (59.65); 900-975 lbs (950 lbs) 57.00-61.00 (58.87); 1050-1075 (1058) 54.50-55.50 (55.12). The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 17-23, 1996

FOREHANDED FARMERS

The successful farmer is always forehanded. He pushes his work instead of allowing his work to push him. He plans his necessary work well ahead and gets much of it done before the rush season . This policy gives opportunity for more thorough, intelligent, and productive work" (1927 Old Farmer's Almanac) To have a productive gardening year, tend to your watering and fertilizing now, and continue to plant seeds of fast-growing plants such as beans, squashes, marigolds, and nasturtiums. Prune azaleas after they've finished blooming, and thin fruits such as apples, pears, and peaches if too many flowers have set fruit. Tend to weeding and stake plants early.

Weeds never die. – German proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

SHRIMP GRECCO

2 pounds raw shrimp
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 small onion, chopped
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup dry vermouth
2 cups canned crushed tomatoes
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1 tablespoon oregano
1 tablespoon basil
salt and pepper to taste
dash of Tabasco
1/2 pound feta cheese, cut in chunks

Shell and devein shrimp. Sauté garlic and onion in olive oil until limp. Add vermouth; simmer 3 minutes. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, oregano, and basil. Simmer 10 minutes; add salt, pepper, and Tabasco to taste. Add shrimp and cook 3 to 4 minutes, until pink. Add feta cheese and cook until shrimp is completely cooked and cheese is heated but not melted. Serve with rice.

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A summer fog for fair, a winter fog for rain; a fact most everywhere, in valley or on plain.

A rainy wedding day makes the sky of marriage gray.

FOR DOUBLE-CROP SOYBEANS, THE ONLY POST THAT CONTROLS GRASSES AND BROADLEAVES.

PURSUIT® herbicide is today's best tool for double-crop beans. It not only delivers the highest degree of overall weed control but also is the only postemergence product that combines contact and residual activity to give you superior control of more than 40 tough-to-control grasses and broadleaf weeds including velvetleaf, foxtail, cocklebur, pigweeds, nightshade, common ragweed, giant ragweed, sunflower, shattercane and seedling Johnsongrass. Without causing soybean injury. And because of its advanced chemistry and low rates of application, PURSUIT offers a responsible choice for the environment. That's the kind of strength everyone can respect. And reason enough to try PURSUIT.

OPINION

Point To Your Head And Smile Knowingly

In his book It Was on Fire When I Lay Down on It, Robert Fulghum says the single most powerful statement to come out of brain research in the last 25 years is that we humans are as different from one another on the inside of our heads as we appear to be different from one another on the outside of our heads.

"Look around and see the infinite variety of human heads—skin, hair, age, ethnic characteristics, size, color, and shape," Fulghum said. "And know that on the inside such differences are even greater—what we know, how we learn, how we process information, what we remember and forget, our strategies for functioning and coping. Add to that the understanding that the 'world' out 'there' is as much a projection from inside our heads as it is a perception, and pretty soon you are up against the realization that it is a miracle that we communicate at all. It is almost unbelievable that we are dealing with the same reality. We operate on a kind of loose consensus about existence, at best.

"From a practical point of view, day by day, this kind of information makes me a little more patient with the people I live with. I am less inclined to protest, "Why don't you see it the way I do?" and more inclined to say, "You see it that way? Holy cow! How amazing!"

Farmers have added differences to overcome. In addition to not being exactly like anyone else on the planet, we have also polarized ourselves around different methods of farming and specie or commodity enterprises: high input vs low input; grazers vs drylot; dairy vs livestock; hay or grain vs row crop.

Now is the time to stop looking at our small individual differences and start to look at the large overall sameness we farmers share. All farmers can work together if they put their heads to it.

The dairy promotion programs have overcome some of their differences and are now not competing for consumer attention. In addition, the president of one of the larger farm organizations has stated that his major goal is to get all different kinds of farmers to communicate so we can approach our political and social challenges together.

Albert Einstein's brain was studied to see if it was special in some way. However, it wasn't his equipment but what he did with his brain that broke through the mysteries of science. In fact, someone asked Einstein to see his laboratory, and he smiled and pointed to his head.

When farmers in all segments of agriculture start communicating and working together for the good of everyone, not just our own little agricultural nitch, we also will be able to point to our heads and smile knowingly.

Now Is The Time

To Salute The Egg Industry

May 31, 1996 marked a very important day for the Pennsylvania egg industry.

The Pennsylvania Poultry Federation and the Pennsylvania secretaries of agriculture and health signed a memorandum of understanding officially establishing the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP).

This marks a joint effort between industry and government to establish a food safety program for egg production. Based on research and pilot program between industry, Pennsylvania and United States departments of agriculture, University of Pennsylvania and Penn State, a management program has been developed that reduces bacteria contamination of eggs.

The industry is responsible for implementing this voluntary program with egg producers while the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture will monitor industry compliance. A new logo and educational programs have been developed to inform consumers of the program.

This is an excellent model how industry, government, and universities can work together to solve a major industry problem.

To Ground Electric Fences

When utilizing electric fencing, you cannot have too many ground rods, according to Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent.

Sometimes one ground rod will work, but three are better.

When an animal touches the fence, the electricity must travel through the animal into the soil and through the soil to a ground rod. The current then travels from the ground rod to the fence charger, where the circuit is completed. Only then does the animal feel the shock. Therefore, the more ground rods, the more electricity gets back to the fence charger.

That is why the best ground system consists of three galvanized ground rods at least six feet deep and spaced 10 feet apart. For best results, install your ground rods where soil moisture is constant. Always use clamps to attach the ground wire to the ground rods. Hughes reminds us that your electric fence is only as good as its ground system.

To Clean Sprayers Thoroughly

The newer herbicides may cause injury to other crops even at very low concentrations. This could be especially true for corn herbicides accidentally applied to soybeans.

For example, water alone will not remove hormone-type herbicides like 2,4-D, Banvel, Clarity, etc. The Banvel and Clarity labels recommend the tank be rinsed with water, flushed out, and filled with an ammonia and water solution and left stand for several hours. If proper cleaning procedures are not followed, herbicide adhering to the walls of the sprayer will be released and applied to the crop, thus causing crop injury.

HOW MUCH IS YOUR FAITH WORTH?

HOW MUCH IS YOUR FAITH WORTH?
June 16, 1996

Background Scripture:
James 2:14-26; 5:7-20
Devotional Reading:
Genesis 22:1-8

I can't think of a text more appropriate for our time than James 2, especially 2:15, 16, where James asks, "If a fellow man or woman has no clothes to wear and nothing to eat, and one of you say, 'Good luck to you. I hope you keep warm and find enough to eat,' and yet give them nothing to meet their physical needs, what on earth is the good of that?" (J.B. Phillips).

It is a hard-hitting question; yet, I cannot help smiling because it is so strikingly sarcastic. Can you think of anything more ridiculous than responding to a person in need with nothing but good wishes? I am both amused and chagrined because I realize that the ridiculous person to whom James is referring here is sometimes myself. I sometimes respond to wrenching human need with little more than good wishes.

So do many of us who claim to follow Jesus as Christ and Lord.

When confronted by human need, we are likely to want to know first if they are doing anything for themselves and second whether being in need has become self-righteous we may demand that they first get a job — any job — before we will consider helping them. We may even want to know something about their morals before we consider giving them aid.

INESCAPABLE LOGIC

There's something to be said for that. It has an inescapable logic. Some people are too lazy to help themselves. Some people do make being in need a life's vocation. Some people will continue to take from us as long as we continue to give. We don't want to encourage that!

But, the gospel is not really about inescapable logic. The scribes and the Pharisees were logical. The Sadducees and priests were very rational. There was also a lot of common sense on the part of the Zealots who wanted to overthrow Roman rule by force. And we can perfectly understand others who held back from following Jesus because there was far too much emphasis upon love and not enough upon law.

Some people today still take comfort in Paul's dictum that "we hold that a man is justified by faith apart from works of the law" (Romans 3:28). Saved by their faith, they place little value in works. Sometimes it is assumed that Paul and James were at loggerheads over this issue: Paul holding solely to faith and James similarly championing works. What they overlook is that by "faith," Paul meant trust, while James meant belief. Both Paul and James would agree, I am sure, that no one is saved by their beliefs — only those beliefs in which they trust to the extent that they are willing to act on them.

SOMETHING YOU DO

So, the theology of Paul is nowhere for us to hide. In Romans, Paul also says "For he will render to every man according to his works..." and "For it is not the hearers of the law who are righteous before God, but the doers of the law..." (2:13).

Faith, then, is not something you merely believe — although that is a starting point — but a belief in which you trust and that moves you to do something appropriate about that belief. Faith is something that feeds the hungry, clothes the naked, comforts the afflicted, visits the prisoners, and heals brokenness wherever it is found.

Leslie Weatherhead tells a story of a boy carrying a basket of eggs on a London street. Tripping over the curb, he dropped the basket, smashing the eggs. A few people gathered round the sobbing boy. "What a pity!" one said. "Poor little chap!" exclaimed another. Then, one man stepped forward, put his hand in his pocket and said. "I care a half-a-crown," Turning to the man next to him, he asked: "How much do you care?" and the man responded, "I care a shilling." "In a little time," wrote Weatherhead, "they translated feeling into action."

So, how much is your faith worth?

The Heart And Soul Of GLEANER®

Our Natural Flow System Treats Your Grain Gently.

The unique transverse mounting of the Natural Flow processing cylinder moves your crop in a ribbon-like fashion from the concave through the cage. Your crop never changes direction before threshing, giving you higher grain quality and a better return at the elevator.

NATURAL FLOW

Nobody Beats Our System.

Instead of making your grain twist and turn our unloading system has a long reach auger which gives safe clearance into trucks and wagons, even on hilly terrain. Our new grain sample door is conveniently located on the front panel of the grain tank which provides quick, safe access to obtain a grain sample. The grain trough delivers grain right to the sample area for increased safety and convenience. Other grain tank features include a full grain tank indicator, and warning buzzer and light on the overhead panel to alert you when it's time to unload.

Accelerator Rolls
... patented accelerator rolls propel grain ... high-velocity air blast. This system accelerates ... uphill side and reduces the "downhill shift of ... slope conditions which increases the cleaning ... and reduces grain loss.

Transverse Flow Fan
... transverse flow fan ... With a straight-through ... this will get uniform air flow.

Distribution Auger(s)
... uniform manner to the accelerator ... grain and chaff is separated ... redistribute(s) the ... for even shoe distribution.

Dual Stage Outlet
... cleaning at the upper duct and final ... The upper outlet (duct) directs its volume ... accelerator rolls which pre-clean the ... area. The lower duct provides air to ... final cleaning. This two-stage cleaning ... and cleaner grain samples.

Cleaning Shoe
The new 14.6 inch longer cleaning shoe area ... trains an adjustable chaffer and sieve to ensure proper cleaning and even finer separation. Recent cleaning shoe upgrades include:

A 4-degree sloped chaffer and sieve to improve coarse cleaning and separation which saves additional grain in slope conditions.

Chaffer
Provides high quality clean grain and reduces frequency of adjustments giving you ... harvest rates and higher profitability.

Sieve

Foreign Object/Rock Door (Opposite Side)
You don't have to worry about rocks and other foreign objects because all GLEANER combines have an exclusive foreign object/rock door that automatically ejects damaging objects before they enter the cylinder and concave. This allows you to run the head close to the ground to get all of the crop. We also have an optional easy-close door with a new latching wrench that reduces the effort required to latch the foreign object/rock door. This allows you to latch the door from the ground, saving you precious time in the field.

WILL THE IRS INHERIT YOUR ESTATE?

We can help prevent the loss of your estate due to taxes

New York Life's Survivorship Whole Life policy was created to provide you and your spouse with life insurance coverage, and needed liquidity, when your estate taxes are due.

It works like this: When one spouse dies, the resulting estate tax can be deferred until after the death of the surviving spouse. At that time, the policy's proceeds become available, and can be used to help pay the usually heavy estate tax. In other words, New York Life makes the proceeds available when they're needed the most.

You've worked hard all of your life, and shouldn't have to spend time worrying about what will happen to your estate. Call us for all the details and let us show you why New York Life is The Company You Keep.

All epoxy powder coated

At our plant we are capable of providing any type of heavy or light metal fabrication including welding. Contact us for a free estimate for your next fabrication job.

Custom Powder Coatings

Our in-line process takes your raw product through the blast cleaning, iron phosphate, and baked on powder coat finishing process all from one location. This provides the highest quality product because the product has no opportunity to be contaminated between processes. Our coatings provide excellent chemical resistance which is effective against animal wastes along with cleaning agents and other chemicals.

We can powder coat your existing equipment or fabricate from start to finish in our plant. A variety of colors are available for indoor and outdoor use. We also have USDA approved coatings available for the food processing industry

We will do an expert evaluation of your needs to determine the exact powder coating needed based on the conditions of use.

Precast Concrete
Hog Slats*
Pillars
Cattle Slats
Beams

Contractors Can Buy Direct and Save!

June is Dairy Month:

a time Farm Credit also salutes

"Future" Dairy Farmers

Farm Credit will be there for dairy farmers generation after generation.

For generations dairy farmers have helped keep America healthy, and Farm Credit has been there providing credit. In fact, for over 75 years we have been a dependable source of credit to agriculture.

Our loan officers know the dairy industry and can help tailor a financial package to fit your situation. We offer loans at competitive rates to purchase or construct dairy facilities, purchase dairy cows and equipment as well as for general operating expenses.

So, whether you are a commercial operator, a part-time farmer or simply like living in the country, we want to do business with you.

CoreStates Bank believes "THE FAMILY FARM IS THE BACKBONE OF AGRICULTURE." On behalf of all dairymen, we are pleased to salute the success of Glenn and Jean Eaves and their family at 10236 Oak Hill Road, Woodsboro, Frederick County, Maryland. The Eaves' family has been dairying for nearly 40 years and includes sons, Douglas, Glenn, Jr., Richard and also daughter-in-laws, Rebecca and Tammy. The operation includes eight farms and the farming of over 3,500 acres of which 1,600 are owned. The total herd is comprised of 3,300 cows and 1,300 heifers. The current milking herd of 2,600 holsteins has an average of 18,500 lbs. of milk. The Eaves' family have served in various civic and community organizations in Frederick County all of their lives, as well as being active in many state and regional organizations.

A SALUTE TO DAIRY FARMERS. EVERY MONTH IS DAIRY MONTH WITH US.

June is National Dairy Month and at CoreStates Bank we feel you deserve credit more than one month out of the year. Managing a successful dairy operation requires working capital all year round. We're here to help you meet your financial needs.

Dairy is a major agricultural enterprise in Pennsylvania and Maryland and at CoreStates Bank we are proud to be a major lending source to agriculture.

Schuylkill Farm Leaders Urge Support For Property Tax Fairness

SACRAMENTO (Schuylkill Co.) — Schuylkill County farmers face an up-hill battle to achieve fairness in property taxes in the new Countywide reassessment. If fair results are not obtained now, farmers, their families and their children will be crippled by high, unjustified taxes for the indefinite future to come.

Schuylkill County farm leaders, who have been following the reassessment, have identified at least two serious problems in valuation. First, the new Act 319 Clean and Green values to be placed on farmland reflect values at least 15-20 percent too high under a "use value" assessment. Secondly, the homesite base acre, the acre under the home which is not assessed as farmland, is being set at more than double its actuai value. Reasons for these overassessments range from the use of outdated numbers for valuation to comparison of farm lots to building lots in residential subdivisions where there is no real comparison between the two. Other problems with the reassessment include misclassification of property and measurement and description errors.

The battle in Schuylkill County is a virtual repeat of the war that has been waged in Lancaster County, PA, where the County issued farm assessments several times the original assessments on the properties. Farmers in Lancaster County, horrified by the impact of these unjustified increases, fought the County with statewide support and won. The reassessment was halted in 1995, and the numbers rolled back until the County reviewed them for fairness and accuracy.

Our County farmers need to take action now. Appeals of the informal results have taken place. In July, the formal numbers will be issued. A Schuylkill County Farm Bureau Tax Appeal Fund has been established through the Farm Bureau to challenge the increases, and petitions have been circulated. Support is being sought and obtained from farm owners throughout the County. It has been over 35 years since the last reassessment. The numbers that are put into effect now will form the basis for farm property taxes for generations to come.

Md. Grain Checkoff

EDGEWATER, Md. — The Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA) announces the date of the referendum to reaffirm the Maryland Grain Checkoff as August 16. This announcement was made by the president of the MGPA, grain producer Robert Hutchison of Cordova, Md.

The referendum will be held from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the county cooperative extension office. Absentee ballots will be available from extension offices after July 15, or can be obtained by writing to MGPA, 53 Slama Road, Edgewater, MD 21037.

To be eligible to vote a person must be financially engaged in the growing of grain as an owner, tenant, or sharecropper.

If passed by a majority of those voting who are eligible to vote, the 5-year-old Maryland Grain Checkoff Program will continue for a further five years from October 1. An assessment of one half of one percent will be collected on the net value of each bushel of grain sold. The checkoff will be deducted at the first point of sale on all grain, with the exception of soybeans which is already under a checkoff program. Any producer who does not wish to participate in the program can get a full or partial refund upon written request sent to the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB), which administers the program.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — A group of agribusiness people representing different republics within the Commonwealth of Independent State (CIS, formerly the Soviet Union) recently toured the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (Pa.DHIA) testing laboratory.

The group's main purpose for setting up tours in the United States is to learn about Pennsylvania's and the United States' dairy and meat industries.

At the Pa.DHIA laboratory, staff explained to the CIS representatives how milk samples are collected at the farm and shipped to State College for testing for fat, protein, somatic cell and milk urea nitrogen content.

They were also told about the processing of reports and the role of the DHIA technician in getting accurate information and transmitting it to headquarters.

Tour participants were part of a program designed to provide hands-on, and on-site experiences that can provide a solid base of understanding of the real scope of the dairy and meat industry here and across the nation.

Throughout their tour, of which the visit to Pa.DHIA was but a part, the delegation was to participate in case studies, demonstrations of practices, different discussion forums and seminars.

The goal of the program is to teach modern dairy business and meat processing procedures, along with production techniques, that are expected to increase profitability of CIS agricultural business and ideally enhance the stability of economies among CIS republic communities.

They found out that our food system's farm-to-table approach is safe and provides the highest quality to the consumer, as well as the fact that essential to United States agricultural business is the research and extension programming that supports a progressive and profitable agricultural industry.

The staff of Pa.DHIA enjoyed meeting with the visitors and showing them the day-to-day operations of Pa.DHIA.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

EPA Asks Ag Community For Feedback

PHILADELPHIA — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) wants to hear from employers and workers who use and handle agricultural pesticides.

On June 26, the EPA will hold a public meeting in Biglerville, to get feedback on its federal regulations governing the protection of employees on farms, forests, nurseries, and greenhouses from pesticide poisonings and injuries.

EPA will hold its public meeting at the Biglerville High School, North Main Street, beginning at 7 p.m. Registration will take place immediately before the meeting from 5 to 7 p.m., during which time federal and state representatives will be available to speak one-on-one with people prior to the open meeting.

In 1992, the EPA issued more stringent regulations to protect agricultural workers and pesticide handlers from work-related exposures to pesticides. The EPA allowed for the regulations to be phased in, and 1995 was the first full year of implementation by employers and workers. Officially called the Worker Protection Standard regulations, the federal regulations require safety training for pesticide workers, specific procedures for applying pesticides, and other measures to protect workers.

"This is an opportunity for the people directly affected by these worker protection regulations to tell us how they are being impacted," said Thomas J. Maslany, director of the air radiation and toxics division at EPA's Region III office in Philadelphia. "We will use the public's input for improving the way we administer the regulations."

Maslany said the agency needs to find out if employers and workers understand the federal requirements, and if there's been success or difficulty in implementing the requirements. Information on available assistance will be offered.

Henry Young and his two sons Matthew and David.

There's much camaraderie among the three families who live in separate houses on the farm. The children joke that they aren't sure to which family they belong.

Linda and Matthew also have two daughters, Stacey, 16, and Rebecca, 14.

Dave and Carol's children include David, 19, who is studying diesel mechanics at Northwestern College in Lima, Ohio; Joy, 18; Jason, 16; Elizabeth, 13; and Debbie, 10.

The patriach of the family, Henry, had been farming in partnership with his own brothers until Matthew was out of high school and Dave was a senior in high school.

In 1974, the father and two sons decided to go into partnership at Red Rock, which has two farmhouses. Later, the parents built a home at the end of the lane.

"We started small and grew slowly," said Matthew.

In August 1974, they started milking cows, and Matt and Linda married in November of that same year.

"It was a circus," Linda recalled. "Because it was a new herd, we had to push the cows into the milking parlor and it took forever. Those first five years, Matt rarely had any time off. We ate supper at 9 or 10 o'clock every night."

Matthew jokes that he married a city girl. In reality, Linda grew up in the town of Quarryville. She reported that she had no trouble adapting to life on the farm.

"I loved the animals and we were young," Linda said.

Linda enters all the cow and calf records on the computer. Dave's and Matt's mom takes care of all the finances. Carol has an off-the farm bookkeeping job.

The three daughters of David and Linda Young, Joy, 18; Debra, 10; and Elizabeth, 13; excel in 4-H Horse Club. Son Jason, 16, is in 4-H archery.

Jean picks strawberries from her weedless garden. She uses black plastic to keep the weeds down in the cantaloupe and watermelon hills.

As general manager for the operation Matthew said that he and his brother work well together because they complement each other's abilities.

Although they continue to work on the farm, Henry and Jean Young are taking a more supportive role as their sons David and Matthew assume leadership. Notice the water spraying in the background is part of the flush system used with the manure separator.

The children all work part time on the farm. Each family is allowed to decide how much or how little each child should work. The children receive working schedules but are allowed to trade off and on with others.

Just as their dad provided a farming opportunity for them, the brothers hope they are able to work something out for any of the children who want to make a career of working on the farm.

At this point, both Andrew and Joy plan some type of career in agriculture. Both were accepted and planned to attend college in the fall, but since both have been elected state FFA officers, they will take the year off to devote time to giving their best to the FFA program. The following year, Joy plans to attend Delaware Valley College to study large animal science. Andrew plans to study ag economics at the University of Delaware and return to the family farm. He would like to combine farming with some pastor work and is considering attending seminary.

Of the cousins excelling in FFA, Joy said, "We work well together. We got an 18-year head start on working together."

"I think its because we have complementing giftings and our Judeo-Christian upbringing helped us developed the philosophy that we are not leading to lead but to serve others," Andrew said.

Both families are active at Faith Reformed Presbyterian Church, where Andrew assists the youth pastor.

Joy said that she, like most children on the farm, started out caring for the calves. "But as I grew older, that became my least favorite job. Now I mostly milk," she said.

Joy has also excelled in 4-H Horse Club.

"My pride and joy is KoKo. I raised him from a baby," she said of the quarter horse throughbred cross.

When it comes to 4-H, Joy has been involved in clubs such as pet care, public speaking, handyman, crosstitch, and Woolies. Although the cows are not registered on the farm, Joy raised a registered cow to show and also shows market lambs at Solanco Fair. Joy has also been active in the 4-H Exchange Club.

"Growing up on a farm, I didn't have a chance to travel much, but through the Exchange Club I traveled to Kansas and Arizona, and hosted a 4-H'er from Oklahoma," Joy said.

In FFA, Andrew excelled at business management and public speaking, which has reinforced his career choice. Andrew has also excelled in scholastic studies. At the school's awards ceremony last week, he received 11 awards, more than any other student. These included a $5,000 University of Delaware Scholarship, a $1,000 Cargill Scholarship, a $500 David

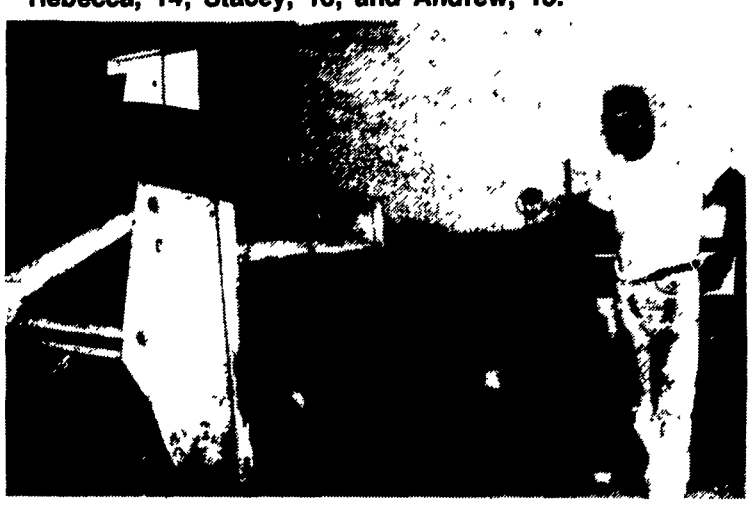
The family of Matthew and Linda Young include children, Rebecca, 14; Stacey, 16, and Andrew, 18.



David is responsible for fixing machinery, maintenance, and building on the farm. Since the partnership was formed, Dave said, "We poured a lot of concrete."

New Milking Unit Unveiled At Open House

Amos Fisher, Fisher & Thompson, Inc., standing, and Leonard Smoker, dairyman, show the new flat barn milking parlor unit that is the first of its kind in southeast Pennsylania.

PARKESBURG (Chester Co.) — A new milking system was unveiled at the farm of Leonard Smoker this week. Several hundred farmers stopped by at an open house to see the new equipment.

Used in California for quite some time, this flat barn milking parlor has moved into southeastern Pennsylvania now as a result of farmers looking for economic ways to expand their herds.

Basically, the Agromatic system that is manufactured in Wisconsin features individual stalls with milking units, milk meters, and automatic takeoffs that are installed at the end of a tiestall barn or in a special location to be accessed from the freestall barn.

At Smoker's farm, a group of eight milking stalls have been placed within easy access to the freestall barn. The cows come in the center of the cluster of stalls, and each cow steps up 15 inches onto the milking platform where an automatic tie mechanism locks her into place. The cow's slight elevation allows the milking machine to be easily attached from the operator's seat that is part of the unit.

When the milk stops flowing, the milking machine is removed with an automatic take off, and the headlock is released to open wide enough to let the cow walk out through the front on a level walkway back to the barn.

In this system a slow milking cow does not hold up the group. Cows are brought in from the holding area through a gate operated by a garage door opener. When one of the stalls has been vacated, the operator hits the remote control button and the gate allows the next cow access to the milking area.

Leonard and his son Greg report that milking is easier with the new system. They save time and SCC counts have been lowered. One person can milk 87 cows in one and one-half hours.

Since this system can be made to fit into existing barns, it has been called a good transition parlor to help begin to increase herd size.

Sponsors of the open house included Fisher & Thompson, Inc.; Agri-Basics, Inc.; Genex Cooperative, Inc.; Lapp's Barn Equipment; Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, and Rufus Brubaker Refrigeration.

BACS Summer Field Days-

You are cordially invited to attend one or all of the three scheduled field days to be sponsored and hosted by Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Inc. (BACS) at our Hibshman Homestead Research Farm in Ephrata, Lancaster County.

Dates of the field days are June 25, July 25 and September 4, 1996.

Currently, there are 40+ plots being used for a variety of research projects such as:

- Fertility Trials
- Pesticide Trials
- Herbicide-Resistant Crops
- Variety Trials
- Row Width Studies

The field days will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A free lunch will be provided and guided tours of the plots will be given by Rob Kauffman and BACS agronomists. In addition, various agribusiness representatives will be on hand to answer any questions you may have.

Please call the BACS office at (717)859-3276 if you have questions, need directions, or would like to make reservations.

Eschbach Citizenship Award, a $1,400 Farm and Home Scholarship, a $100 savings bond from Farm Women 15, $500 Norman Wood Scholarship, a $100 PECO/Solanco Science Award, a $150 Solanco High School Scholarship, a Tandy Technology Scholars certificate, and a President's Education Award certificate.

Although Joy and Andrew have competed with each other in some FFA programs, they said they haven't ever felt like they were in competition, but are happy for the person who wins.

"We are working for the chapter, not our own goals. To do that, we need to get along," she said.

In the beginning, Matt said, like any one starting a new dairy, we struggled. "It was blood, sweat, tears, and hard work."

The partners credit some of their success toward spelling everything out in an employee manual they compiled.

Matthew said, "We're a commercial dairy farm concentrating on efficient production of milk and growing high quality forages necessary to feed cows, operated by owners and an excellent group of employees."

The Youngs employ four full-time workers in addition to family members.

"My brother is my best friend next to my wife," Matthew said. "The reason I think we work so well together is that we complement each other."

Matt is the general manager and Dave is responsible for fixing machinery, maintenance, and everything else in the operation. They put in freestalls and mattresses.

"We poured a lot of concrete since we bought this place. Since they purchased the farm, they added calf hutches, a springer barn, freestalls, feed rows, milking parlor, offices, feed barn, and shop area.

"We complement each other extremely well because neither of us want to do what the other does," Matt said.

"That's not really true," his brother interjected. "We both want to hunt and fish but don't have time."

To be successful, Dave said, "You've got to keep up with the latest technology and be ready for change. You've got to move ahead yet keep as many options open as possible."

"The cows are not registered because we feel it's a waste of time and paperwork if you don't show cattle," Andrew said.

His chores on the farm are "a bit of everything," but centers more on construction and maintenance. "We do most of our own maintenance and build our own equipment," Andrew said.

Dump trucks, pickup trucks, and various other vehicles seem to be everywhere on the farm.

"That's because we have three rented farms in addition to Red Knob and need to haul crops in and feed out," Andrew explained about the farms that are not adjacent but within a five mile radius of the main farm.

"Farming is a business, not a hobby for us. If it were a hobby, I wouldn't be milking cows," Matt said.

About 100 acres are in pasture. Another 500 tillable acres are cropped, with 420 acres of corn, 80 of hay, and 200 are doublecropped with rye.

"We don't want to be big just for the sake of being big, but we've got to make money in what we do," said Dave about Red Knob Farm.

They've done a significant amount of notill farming in the past 15 years, but they reject trying intensive grazing.

"When numbers are up, it's impracticable to implement intensive grazing," Dave said.

The Youngs installed a manure separator. A flush system moves manure out of the barns. The water is collected and run across a separator to remove solids, which are sold to a local composter who processes it and sells it as dry cow manure. The water is used in field irrigation.

Unlike many fathers, Henry said that it was easy for him to turn more and more farm responsibilities over to his sons as he assumes a more supportive role. Henry's main duties are to see to the young stock and help wherever needed.

While Joy and Andrew have excelled in agricultural-related activities, the children said that they are not pushed into those areas but have the freedom to choose.

Joy said, "Between our two families, most of us have been in every program offered—music, sports, and 4-H."

Stacey participates in color guard, band, and Young Educators of America. In addition to working on the farm, she also holds an off-farm job at a local retirement community.

Becky was in 4-H but now the following activities fill her spare time: soccer, track, band, orchestra, president of National Junior Honor Society, and the peer helper program.

Jason is in 4-H archery club and enjoys hunting, fishing, and riding cycle.

Like their older sister Joy, Elizabeth and Debra ride horses and are in 4-H horse club and in the 4-H Woolies Club. In addition Elizabeth plays the flute, takes art lessons for several years, and enjoys crafts and reading.

In addition to horse, sheep and archery 4-H clubs, Debra plays the piano, and participates in school basketball and soccer.

State FFA Selects Officers

PENN STATE (Centre Co.) — Newly-elected state FFA officers include Andrew Young from Solanco FFA, president; Mike Clark from West Perry FFA, vice president; Elizabeth Hollenback from West Snyder FFA, secretary; Heather Lehman from Cumberland Valley FFA, treasurer; Joy Young from Solanco FFA, eastern regional vice president; Bobby Jo Robbins form Central Columbia FFA, northcentral regional vice president; Kristina Watson from West Perry FFA, southcentral regional vice president; John Ewing from West Snyder FFA, sentinel; Dan Geissinger from Juniata FFA, chaplain; and Amy Hauck from Central Columbia FFA, reporter.

More information about the officers and pictures will be printed in next week's issue of Lancaster Farming.

N.Y. Farm Bureau Debuts Homepage

ALBANY, N.Y. — New York Farm Bureau President John Lincoln said his organization is bringing information about the state's number one industry onto the Internet.

"Individuals traveling on the 'Information Highway' will be able to learn about farming in the Empire State through a challenging quiz, and through information about the economic impact of agriculture on a county-by-county basis, as well as information about New York Farm Bureau and our many service to member programs. They'll also get to see a couple of scenic photos of New York agriculture. In addition, 'net surfers' will be able to access a wealth of information about agriculture on the national front and those states that are on the 'Net.'

He said, "In this fast-paced world, it is critical for farmers to be able to communicate as quickly as possible. Having a Homepage adds a whole new mode of communication to those engaged in farming or in business in the rural areas of the state and gives us another tool to tell agriculture's story."

The NY Farm Bureau homepage can be accessed through the American Farm Bureau "Voice of Agriculture" site at http://www.fb.com.

ADVERTISEMENTS . . . SLOGANS TO SELL OUR PRODUCT

Thinking is the hardest work there is, which is probably the reason so few engage in it.
— Henry Ford

Think about the most recent time you read a newspaper or a magazine, watched TV, or listened to the radio. How many advertisements did you see or hear? What companies were featured in those advertisements? Why do companies advertise? What were they selling?

Typically, a company has a product or service that benefits people directly or indirectly. People have to want or need a product or service in order to pay for it. Although we are virtually bombarded with several hundred or thousands of advertisements daily, we only recall certain slogans that companies use to feature their products.

In junior livestock programs we have a few slogans that many of us recall with ease. For instance, the 4-H motto is, "To make the best better."

Have you ever thought about slogans or mottos that could be taken from their original context and used elsewhere?

I have classified advertising slogans used by major companies into three categories: (1) slogans a livestock jockey might use, (2) slogans junior livestock program participants should use, and (3) slogans for adults and parents involved with junior livestock programs.

Some of these ads have been modified slightly to fit the situation and the original words are presented in parentheses. I realize that some of these slogans could be reclassified and have dramatically different connotations. You may want to read the entire list the first time, then as you read the list for the second time omit the name of the company.

I hope you find the lists intriguing, with the ultimate goal of stimulating additional dialog among those of us who support ethical junior livestock programs.

Slogans A Livestock Jockey Might Use

Some examples are:

- Holiday Inn . . . Inn Keeping With The Times
- Acer . . . Everything You Aspire To
- Mercury . . . Imagine Yourself In "The Winner's Circle" (a Mercury)
- Nike . . . Just Do It

Slogans Junior Livestock Program Participants Should Use

Some examples are:

- United States savings bonds . . . Take Stock In America
- Coldwell Banker . . . Expect the Best
- IBM . . . Solutions for a Small Planet
- Ford . . . Quality is Job 1 (or Quality Assurance Is Job 1)
- Army . . . Be All That You Can Be
- Cadillac . . . Creating a Higher Standard
- Transitions Comfort Lenses . . . Right in any Light
- Golden Books . . . Special Moments that Last a Lifetime.
- Pizza Hut . . . You'll Love the Stuff We're Made of
- ITT Hartford . . . No One's Better Prepared for Tomorrow

Slogans For Adults And Parents Involved With Junior Livestock Programs

- Embassy Suites . . . Don't Surrender to the Pressures of the World . . .
- The Prudential . . . Live Well. Make A PLan. Be Your Own Rock.
- The Berger Funds . . . Together We Can Move Mountains
- State Farm Insurance . . . Like A Good Neighbor, "Parents Are" (State Farm is) There
- Michelin . . . Because So Much Is Riding On Your "Integrity" (Tires)
- The Harvest Life Insurance Company . . . Strong Roots to Grow Secure Futures
- Merrill Lynch . . . A Tradition of Trust
- Post Grape-Nuts Flakes- . . . The Experience Is Pure

Lastly, the postscript to the most recent Nike commercials includes the acronym PLAY, which stands for PARTICIPATE in the LIVES of AMERICA'S YOUTH.

Let us not forget that we need to continually sell our product. We all work hard, but we also need to "PLAY" just as hard!

Markets Large For Poultry Manure Fertilizer

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — In Neal Anglin's words, putting organic fertilizer into a lawn and garden center may be as difficult as trying to get shelf space for eggs in a dairy counter.

"You have to do all kinds of gymnastics to get these people to listen to you," he said.

But if you do, the payoff in terms of removing (as some see it) a liability from a poultry broiler or layer operation and making money on top of it can be huge.

Anglin, representing Nutriganics, a company which helps to further process dried poultry house manure, spoke to about 30 producers and agri-industry representatives on Monday afternoon at the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant.

While it may be tough to get garden center stories to carry poultry manure fertilizer, in Anglin's experience, stores in Ohio realize a 100-400 percent profit margin on the material. One store in Toledo, Ohio, moved 22 tons through a store in a season. The Toledo store purchased the product at $3.80 per bag and sold it at $12 a bag. "And the people really, really like the material," he said.

The challenge involves getting the manure out of the house in a reduced moisture form so it can be further processed by biofermenation, which increases its microbial content, or by pelletizing and blending with blood- and feathermeal.

In Anglin's experience with processors that sell dried manure in bulk, the process of removing the manure from the operation is key.

For producers to realize ease of handling and fast drydown, the battery-belt systems are a distinct improvement over the high rise, pit-type houses. Not only can the moisture be removed more readily for processing and marketing of the manure, but the bird environment temperature is easily managed (less variation in house temperature), more eggs are produced, and ammonia levels are reduced, thus preventing degradation of steel and wire. The equipment life is extended.

If you can get the manure out of the house and get it down to that 25-30 percent moisture range, the manure can be handled more readily and composted.

Many producers take the manure and pile it in windrows. Using special equipment, the material in the windrow is composted. The finished product, at 18 percent moisture, completely odorless, can be then further blended, either with bloodmeal or feathermeal, and pelletized.

One Lancaster County farmer sold the composted manure to an operation on Long Island for organic gardeners at $110 per ton. For large-scale, high production agriculture, the N-P-K value reaches about $50/ton. Bagged, in some areas, the value approaches $350 per ton, according to Anglin.

University analysis of the material provides N-P-K values. One estimate of the material, at 15 pounds, was equal to a one-pound application of 18-4-10 commercial fertilizer.

The material is useful mostly for new lawns. Not only does it lime the grass, but it also includes the necessary microbial activity to break down nitrogen for plant use. In the pelletized form, there are about two million microbes per gram. The biofermented material contains about 80 million microbes per gram.

Neal Anglin, representing Nutriganics, a company which helps to further process dried poultry house manure, spoke to about 30 producers and agri-industry representatives on Monday afternoon at the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant.

Anglin said that he worked a test plot that included a two-inch layer of the material beneath sod. Because of the excellent root system feeding, the sod had to be cut every three days.

The material is in use by many athletic turf companies. Anglin said there is two inches of the material underneath Joe Robey Stadium in Miami, Fla., RFK Stadium in Washington, D.C., 3Com (formerly Candlestick) Park in San Francisco, Calif., at the soon-to-be named Dodger's Stadium, Anaheim, Calif., and the Olympic Stadium in Atlanta, Ga.

For those who want to direct market the manure, it is important to document the N-P-K value by university analysis. Those figures should be clearly labeled on the package.

"It gets down to promoting the product," he said. "A lot of things I've suggested to many people is they get in touch with a good agronomist, someone that is aquainted with organics, (and have) someone that is willing to promote organics become part of your operation."

Anglin emphasized educating the store manager and owner. "Go out and talk with these lawn and garden retailers with some degree of understanding about the process and how the material works in the soil," he said. The material is best with newly seeded lawns and restoring damaged lawns.

Also, many golf course managers are using the product because of it's all-natural, organic label.

Milk Tester On Job For Herd's Lifetime

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

VINTAGE (Lancaster Co.) — In the old days, they were called milk testers. But now they have a much more sophisticated title: technicians. Somewhere in the middle of time, they also had been called supervisors.

Harold Probst, Georgetown, has come through all the names while serving dairy farmers in Lancaster DHIA for 39 years in the Quarryville, Kinzers, Gap, and surrounding areas. Later this month an era will end.

No, Harold is not retiring. Ken Beiler, one of his farmers, is selling his herd, a herd that Harold has tested for all 31 years it has been in existence. And in all those 31 years, Harold missed only one month when he was at a DHIA seminar at Penn State.

When you visit a farm for 750 milkings (that's over a year's worth of days) you get to know the farmer, and the farmer gets to know you rather well. At 5 a.m. sitting under an uncooperative cow next to the barn cleaning gutter does not always bring out the best personality traits in a person. But for Harold and Ken and their families, the rigors of these monthly meetings has forged a bond of friendship that will never be broken.

Their experiences go beyond these early morning and late night meetings at the rear end of the cows. Simultaneous deaths in their families brought them closer together. And Harold likes to tell how he got stuck in Ken's dad's farm lane the first month he tested their herd as a new, young person on the job. Since that first month, Harold and Ken have known each other, and when Ken and his brothers started farming, Harold took on their herds as well. Now a nephew is the third generation on the home Beiler farm under Harold's supervision.

"Harold has always been part of the family," Ken said. "And we depended on his work through the years. He was always very meticulous with the figures and always gave us confidence we had the correct information."

Over the years changes have been seen. The herd average went from 14,000 pounds in the early days to 20,000 pounds now. While the number of cows in the herd only increased from 40 to 55, individual records increased to the present 30,000m and 1,200f. "I remember when we first had cows that milked 100 pounds of milk a day," Ken said. "We went out to eat when that happened. Now it is a rather common occurrence."

Harold also adapted to change over the years. From the old centrifuge, whirling out the butterfat tests to modern testing equipment, and computers to do a lot of the crunch work Harold has seen the progression of the dairy industry.

"Yes, I have enjoyed testing for Kenny over the years," Harold said. "It wouldn't be the same not coming here to test."

Harold Probst and Ken Beiler have a lot of memories built around 31 years of obtaining DHIA records, good memories that have made them friends for a life.

Adams Farm Bureau Holds Meeting

YORK SPRINGS (Adams Co.) — The annual spring meeting of the Adams County Farm Bureau was held recently at the York Springs Community Fire Hall with a commodity queen reception preceding the business meeting.

"The purpose of the meeting is to familiarize the membership with special programs and business services offered to our members, such as the insurance, farm management benefits, Safemark products, and the legislative efforts conducted by the special committees," said committee chairperson Fred Kammerer.

Also included in the program were the legislative update reports from the Governmental Relations Committees after meeting with state and national legislators in Washington, D.C. and Harrisburg. National representatives John Peters and Ed Wilkinson met with State Representative Steve Maitland, Rep. Steve Nichols, and Sen. Terry Punt, who also endorsed the farming issues facing the county. In addition, Governor Ridge was contacted for a few moments to hear of agricultural concerns.

The members of the organization in attendance voted to redistrict the county. This will divide the county into four equal sections based on membership. By redistricting, the board will now consist of two board members from each section and four board members at large enabling a more supportive and comprehensive board membership. Each board member will serve two years as one term and the chairperson from the Women's Committee will act as an ex officio member with equal voting rights. The new districts will be: District I - Franklin, Menallen; District II - Butler, Huntington, Latimore, Reading, Tyrone; District III - Berwick, Hamilton, Conewago, Germany, Oxford, Mount Pleasant, Straban, Union; District IV - Cumberland, Freedom, Hamiltonban, Highland, Liberty, Mount Joy.

New Hatchery To House 11.1 Million Birds Per Year

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Groundbreaking ceremonies for Hy-Line International's new 48,000 square foot hatchery took place Tuesday afternoon in the Conewago Industrial Park.

Construction under way by Benchmark Construction Company, Inc., Brownstown, will be finished at the end of the year, according to Bob Kreider, regional manager for Hy-Line International, based in Mount Joy.

When completed, the new facility, at a cost of about $5 million, will house 11.1 million pullet chicks per year. The facility will include all single-stage incubation and will be fully automated with the latest technology.

In addition, Hy-Line will transfer its headquarters in Mount Joy to the new location at the Conewago Industrial Park, northwest of Elizabethtown.

According to Bryan Eberle, hatchery manager, the first hatch in the new facility is scheduled for Jan. 20, 1997. The building will employ 15-20 full-time (from the Mount Joy location) and will operate four days a week, Monday-Thursday, turning out 200,000 birds per week for about 120 customers in the Northeast.

Maryland's Best To Shine In Europe

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

KNOXVILLE, Md. — The Maryland 4-H dairy judging team will soon travel to The Royal Highland livestock show in Edinburgh to participate in a judging contest.

The four-member team has dominated in dairy judging at the national level, with a winning streak that culminated in their laying claim to the largest victory ever by a team at Madison.

The competition in Scotland will give the youth an opportunity to compete with their peers at the international level.

The group got together recently at Savage-Leigh Farm, Knoxville, for a practice session; their first since the big win at Madison. The award winning Savage-Leigh cows provided an excellent opportunity to get in some judging practice before heading overseas.

The members of the team were selected at the state fair in September after a grueling competition where 30 classes of dairy cattle were judged in an intense day and a half of competition. These four young people came out on top. "After that workout, the rest is fun," said Lee Majeskie, coach for the team.

Treveling abroad for the competition has a special meaning for 16-year-old Mark Schnebly. His father was a member of the winning 4-H dairy judging team that went to Europe in 1967.

Mark, the son of William and Susan Schnebly of Clearspring, has been in 4-H since he was eight years old and is a member of the Washington County dairy and calf club. He lives on Crown Stone Farms, where his father and uncle John Schnebly far in a partnership, milking 80 Guernseys. Mark tends the heifers, feeds calves, and helps with the milking.

Howard County's Chris Seymour lives on a sheep farm and has been judging livestock for eight years. Last year the 17-year-old was on the State livestock judging team before switching to dairy judging. Chris plays saxophone in the jazz and symphonic bands at his school and has been in the Maryland Allstate Band. He also runs track, and his relay team will be competing at the nationals in North Carolina this month. He is a nine-year member of the West Friendship 4-H Club. His parents are Sam and Judy Seymour. He will be attending Duke University next year and plans to major in biochemistry.

Sixteen-year-old Jessica Fritz of New Windsor started judging dairy cattle through 4-H when she was eight years old. She demonstrated her skill at Madison last year by taking home the highest score ever in oral reasons; 243 points out of a possible 250. Jessica, the daughter of Daniel and Sharon Fritz, also finds time to represent Carroll County as the dairy princess and to volunteer in her church nursery. She lives on a dairy farm in New Windsor, where she feeds calves. The family milks approximately 65 Holsteins.

Darren Remsburg is a 10-year member of the Middletown Valley dairy club. For nine of those 10 years he has been involved in judging. Darren himself owns approximately 10 animals. His grandmother, Helen Remsburg, raises heifers, and Darren helps out on her farm. He is also editor-in-chief of his high school newspaper. Darren, the 18-year-old son of Denny and Marsha Remsburg of Jefferson, will be attending Virginia Tech. this fall, where he plans to study dairy science.

Dr. Lee Majeskie is the driving force behind the University of Maryland's consistent success in dairy judging at the regional and national levels. In the 14 years he has been coaching at Maryland, the judging teams have come in first place at the national level four times, second place five times, third place three times, and fourth one time. Majeskie is an extension dairy specialist with the cooperative extension service and also a professor at the University in College Park. From 1970-1975 he was director of program development with the Brown Swiss Association, a position which he says gave him excellent experience in working with a lot of different people.

Jeff Semler, 4-H agent from Harford County, also coaches the team. Semler is very active in youth dairy projects. He is superintendent of the 4-H dairy show at the state fair and is in charge of the junior dairyman's contest. He coached dairy judging as a grad student at the University of Connecticut. While he was with the West Virginia Extension Service in Berkeley County, he coached the first place dairy judging team at the county level.

Majeskie and Semler stress that they are not training cattle judges; rather, they are training students to have the kind of discipline and that will make them better individuals.

"Even if they hadn't won the national contest, going to Wisconsin was a very worthwhile experience," said Majeskie. He says traveling to Europe will expose the youth group to a variety of new experiences that will enrich their lives, while at the same time reinforcing fundamental values such as responsibility.

But it is the team members' excellence in dairy judging that will be their ticket to Europe. Majeskie said he stresses oral reasons in his coaching. In fact, the team was the highest placing team ever at Madison in oral reasons.

"Don't use negative words in your reasons," he told the group during their recent practice ses-

Jessica, Darren, Mark, and Chris listen as Dr. Majeskie and Jeff Semler, coaches for the dairy judging team, talk about the high points of a 4-year-old cow from the Savage-Leigh herd. Chip Savage is at the halter. The cow, C Mapledeul Aerostar Hazel, is classified Ex 90 and was fresh in September.

Darren, Chris, Mark, and Jessica look over a class of senior 2-year-olds in the Savage-Leigh barn during the practice judging session.

Maryland Correspondent Karen Butler lives in Yellow Springs, Frederick County. She holds a degree in art history and history from Western Maryland College, Westminster. Her past experiences include research work at the Baltimore Museum of Art and a year as education specialist for the Maryland Museum of African Art in Columbia, Md.

Karen is a homemaker. She and her husband Bryan have some cows, too many chickens, and assorted other animals at home. They also grow produce and fruit. Karen enjoys writing, gardening, and decorating cakes.

Karen and her husband have two sons — Beau, age 4, and Tommy, age 3, and a daughter, Erin Eleanore, who is 18 months old. They are looking forward to the arrival of baby number four late this summer.

SRBC Moves Foward With Ag Water Storage Proposal

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Work is progressing on a proposal to store water in existing dams on the Susquehanna River and its tributaries for release during periods of drought on behalf of the state's production agriculture industry.

According to a recent publication of the Susquehanna River Basin Commission — a tri-state/federal compact that has authority over the regulation of flows in the entire Susquehanna River Basin — a 1995-developed water use proposal to purchase and store adequate water supplies to compensate for water lost because of consumptive uses by the state's agricultural sector appears to be proceeding well.

As background, in 1992 the SRBC proposed regulations that called for those who consume large quantities of water to either pay the SRBC for the storage of water lost, or to create water storage to be released during drought.

The proposal for agriculture was suspended until further study could be done.

The term "consumed" in this case refers to any act which changes the form of water from liquid to its gaseous state and then releases the gas freely into the atmosphere. (Water can be changed to a gas, as in steam-electric generation, and then recondensed to preserve it in liquid form.)

Such things as evaporation and evapotranspiration are consumptive uses because when water is changed into a gas form and released into the atmosphere, it generally does not stay within the basin, nor can it be recontributed to the river flow.

While this may challenge some of the more simplistic understandings of water cycles, consumed water is basically that which is removed from the flows of the water.

The cooling towers at Three Mile Island south of Harrisburg send large volumes of water from the river into the atmosphere. The nuclear electricity-generating plant operators pay SRBC a prescribed amount of money to compensate for the loss of water in the river.

That money is used by the SRBC to pay the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for the storage of water in up-river reservoirs to be released during drought.

Over the past years, as the SRBC sought to consolidate its piecemeal regulations into a comprehensive and logical system, it held public hearings and received testimony from many farmers and landowners.

Though the issue of compensatory payments for consumptive water use has not been the main issue of those hearings, many landowners and farmers questioned why they should have to pay any amount to the SRBC for consumptive use in light of the fact that many of the operations of farms and some landowners have installed water and soil conservation practices on their land, and through keeping their land free of buildings and the soil porous, allow rainfall to seep into the ground and recharge groundwater aquifers.

At the same time, residential, retail and commercial developments, especially those installed more than 10 years ago, have been done so with minimal regard for the effects on groundwater.

Currently, local interpretation (the prescribed authority according to the late 1970s DER regulations) of effective storm water runoff controls and flood plain management has allowed less than desirable situations, as buildings require well-drained soils, and local expertise has been slow to develop.

Even as the more recent urbanization sprawl has occured throughout the basin, the older towns and cities and systems of storm water sewers continue to shoot storm water quickly toward the Chesapeake Bay.

Lawsuits and court interpretations of regulations, complaints from landowners seeking to continue the practice of draining land to create suitably dry building lots at the cost of recharging the immediate groundwater, and a general free-for-all for tapping into groundwater supplies have all allowed local problems to be exacerbated.

While the SRBC has authority to protect groundwater aquifers from being over-tapped, and general authority to regulate flows, it has been proceeding in a cautious manner.

Some politicians have expressed a desire to dismantle the hybrid governmental authority, because it is regional and actually is considered to be able to supercede state authority over some water flow issues.

As a compromise measure to individual farms being required to pay out for the amount of water consumed (used to irrigate, water animals, etc.), the SRBC has proposed that the entire basin's agricultural consumptive use be assessed and paid for through general tax funds.

Seeking to help agriculture to continue in the basin not only benefits the general population's economic opportunities, but it also ensures better water resource protections.

The SRBC Agricultural Water Use Advisory Committee approved the proposal in September.

The committee is comprised mainly of farmer-landowners.

Support was also issued by the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, which stated to the SRBC, "We recommend the support of government-funded reservoir storage of make-up water to satisfy the SRBC consumptive use regulations for agriculture."

Currently, the SRBC has been encouraging farmers to register their water use, both for their own water-use protection, and for the SRBC to have a better grasp on water use within the basin.

There is no registration cost for agriculture and formulas are applied to calculate the amount consumed, versus the amount used.

Once the state's agricultural registered water use is completed, and the amount of agricultural consumptive use calculated, the SRBC can progress toward securing funding to support agricultural consumptive uses.

For more information, or to register use, contact the SRBC at its Harrisburg headquarters building by writing to it at 1721 North Front Street, Harrisburg, PA 17102-2391, or by dialing (717) 238-0423.

Steam Flaking Grains Can Have Benefits

NEW ORLEANS — Steam flaking of grains to gain more feeding benefits for milk cows has shown promise, according to a news release from the North American Region Animal Health Group of Pfizer Inc., and according to M.F. Hutjens, University of Illinois, in response to a letter to the editor in the May 25 issue of Hoard's Dairyman.

Both the Pfizer news release and the response by Hutjens refer to research done at the University of Arizona.

According to the news release, Dr. J.T. Huber, a professor in the Department of Animal Sciences at University of Arizona, "Estimated increases in income over feed costs resulting from flaking grains depends on milk and feed prices, and observed responses, but they have ranged from 20 cents to 40 cents per day per cow in the California market to 50 cents to $1 per day per cow in the Texas market."

In response to a question from a Hoard's reader about the price advantage to steam-flaked corn over regular corn, Hutjens referred to research done at the University of Arizona on steamed milo, qualifying his response that he did not have research data available on the effects of steam-flaking on corn.

Hutjens did express that there is a feeding and milk production benefit to steam-flaked milo and assumed that the response to steam-flaking corn would be somewhat less, but probably improved over dry rolling.

The Pfizer news release was based on a presentation made by Dr. Huber last week at the 44th annual Pfizer research conference held in New Orleans.

"According to Dr. J.T. Huber ... dairy producers now can design feed ration programs to improve milk protein yields by understanding the advantages of flaking, versus other methods of processing sorghum and corn," the news release stated.

In the response by Hutjens, he calculated a milk production benefit of $73 per ton; 56 cents per cow for protein (based on $1.83 per pound protein); 5 cents per cow for fat (based on 60 cents per pound fat); and 28 cents per cow for other milk solids (based on a 80 cents per pound value).

According to Hutjens, the Arizona-research showed a response benefit of steam-flaked milo over dry rolled milo of seven pounds in milk yield, a .31-pound increase in protein, and a .09-pound increase in fat production.

He calculated the per-ton benefit using a best-case scenario.

"This analysis is a 'best-case' scenario reflecting rations needing fermentable carbohydrate, containing modest levels of grain and a grain that is not as available in the rumen.

"You could see similar results with high-moisture corn, more finely ground grain, or substituting barley or wheat."

He added that, "Finally, all steam-flaked grain is not equal. It varies, depending on its processing and density."

According to the Pfizer news release, Huber said there has been widespread acceptance of feeding steam-flaked grain to lactating cows in Southwestern states.

The Pfizer research conference is the kickoff event for the annual American Feed Industry Association convention.

Other scientific reports that were to be presented this year include discussions on branched-chain amino acids in sow nutrition research, folic acid effects in broiler chicks, and the effects of small intestine digestion in regulating nutrients in ruminants.

Foliar Fertilization Works!

Give Your Plants the Spark They Need!

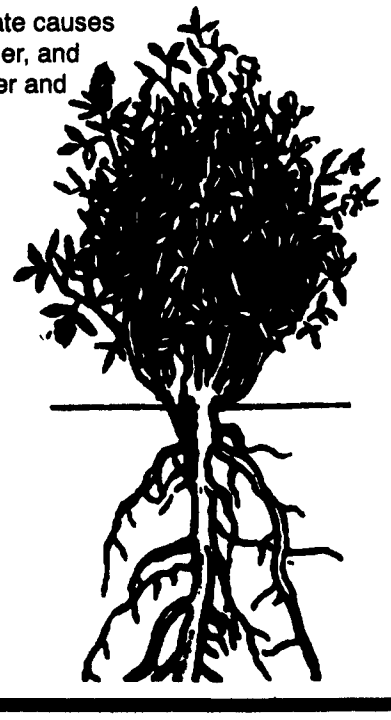
A foliar spray of Alpine liquid plant food concentrate causes a cycle of growth, which helps plants to grow larger, and mature earlier, but most important, provides bigger and better yields.

Here's how it works:

1st: [redacted]
Our plant food is applied later in the afternoon or evening when absorption is greatest.

2nd: [redacted]
The product is absorbed by all parts of the plant and begins moving through the system. As much as 95% of the fertilizer applied to the plant is absorbed, so there's optimum utilization.

3rd: [redacted]
Fertilizer moves throughout the plant, carrying nutrients up and out to the leaves and down to the roots.



4th: [redacted]
Nutrients reach to the most distant roots, helping to stimulate additional root growth. These new roots are able to uptake even more nutrients that are already present in the soil.

5th: [redacted]
The greatest concentration of fertilizer goes where it's needed most: to the young growing portions of the plant, such as new leaves and buds.

6th: [redacted]
(Labor Saving Tip)
Mix the plant foot with your insecticide or herbicide when spraying your alfalfa and soybeans.

Manager Tells Forum: No More Tobacco Research At Landisville

This, in a county that has 8,250 acres of tobacco.

Lancaster County's number one field cash crop makes up 92 percent of the tobacco grown in the state. While nearly 50 percent of the growers are of the Plain sects, some areas of Millersville grow 40-60 acres of it at a bound. Tax revenue alone from tobacco comes to about $28,000 per acre.

Total income from sale in the county is $18.13 million, according to the 1994-1995 state department of agriculture Statistical Summary.

One year, research into a treatment for blue mold saved county tobacco growers about $3 million, according to Yocum.

And now the cutoff. What's going on?

Penn State, like other Northeast universities, has been feeling the pressure to downsize, cut costs, and divest themselves of so-called "controversial" research. Even though tobacco is a legal crop, the connotations placed upon it by environmental and special interests has led to this decision.

In the mid-1950s, "tobacco was grown in every county except the county with the city of Pittsburgh," although a great deal was still grown in the southeastern part of the state.

Penn State manages about 5,000 acres in the University Park region and has research stations in at the Fruit Research Center in Biglerville and a regional reserarch site in Erie County.

The soils are the same in Rockspring, home of the main Penn State research center, as they are in Lancaster. However, the environments differ: the southeastern portion, including Lancaster County, is more humid with a longer growing season compared to Rockspring.

The Landisville center has been a Pennsylvania National Weather Service reporting station for so long, that 50 years ago, Yocum recalled, they were given an award for 50 years of service.

The center encompasses 110 acres. Yocum is a full-time faculty member. The center employs two full-time technicians, a part-time secretary, and three summer college students.

Most budgeting for the center comes from state and federal sources — "your tax money," said Yocum. But because of constant cutbacks in both federal and university money, the center has had to rely on sources of income from producer agencies such as the state soybean board and other sources.

The center is host to many field days, including a weed day in July, during the year. It also publishes the summer results on yields of corn, soybeans, small grains, and forages. Yocum also takes time in the winter to speak at crops days and other events.

The research at Landisville, according to Yocum, is all small-plot, sometimes down to a single plant. When Yocum first started work at the station they planted and harvested all the crops by hand. As funding and other resources improved, mechanical harvesting and measuring became the mainstay at the center.

They examine a wide array of varieties and response to herbicides and pesticides on corn, soybeans, small grains, forages, ornamentals, potatoes and other vegetables, and small fruits. Included are extensive corn and soybean variety testing, in addition to forage varieties (60 entries in the alfalfa trial), clover (20 entries), and small grains (36 wheat varieties and 20 barley). There are 200 flowering crabapple trees under test, making up 75 varieties. This year there are 60 different varieties of germaniums, 116 varieties of impatiens, and 30 super petunia varieties.

Potato varieties in test include the "novel colors," such as the red skin, blue skin, Yukon gold, and others. Also, wine and table grapes are in scrutiny.

One of the big attractions is the enormous growth of the herbicide-resistant and tolerant corn and soybean varieties in test. These are part of the annual weed and variety tour scheduled on July 8 at the center.

Like other universities, Penn State has been feeling the budget crunch. This will play on how much information on and work with varieties can continue at the center.

"The day of a lot of free information and free seeds are gone," said Yocum. "Farmers must learn this."

As a result, Yocum can serve in an extension capacity as a source of information. But tobacco cannot be grown on any approved Penn State testing areas.

But all is not lost. There are many other test programs still being carried out with a great deal of investment and time by the Penn State extension program, including crops with lots of promise such as herbicide-resistant field varieties of corn and soybeans, vegetables, flower bedding, and many others.

Yocum spoke to about 18 producers and agri-industry representatives who attended the forum, which discussed some of the research being conducted at the field laboratory.

Ironically, the center began as the tobacco research station in 1909 and was based on a few acres in Ephrata, according to Yocum. Shortly thereafter, the center moved to 10 acres of rented ground on Roseville Road, now a fully developed site with houses and professional offices. The station was moved to Landisville in the early 1950s and, after a time, moved again to a 40-acre plot that officially became the Penn State Southeast Field Research Laboratory, encompassing about 88 acres, in 1956.

Incidentally, the farm sold for $40,000 in 1956. "At the time, the neighbors said Penn State was crazy to pay that much money for a farm," said Yocum. Now, with the new assessment, the farm is worth something on the order of about $550,000, according to Yocum.

sion. "Approach everything from the positive. Look at size, scale, strength, dairyness, udders, feet and legs."

He said if there was a fault with a cow, to acknowledge it only after mentioning the positive.

Majeskie credits a strong program in place at the county level with preparing the youth for higher level competition. Often the lay leaders of the 4-H clubs have been through the program themselves and are familiar with the way he likes reasons. Their commitment to the success of the program is passed on to the youth at an early age.

There are several differences between judging in the U.S. and in Scotland. Most basic is the difference in the way the cows are presented. When the team gets to the show they will find themselves in the middle of a ring with the cows being led around outside of them, as opposed to the cows being in the middle. Second, the timing of the competition is greatly compressed for each class at the Royal Highland show. The youth will be allowed only eight minutes for each class, and that includes placing and reasons.

At the national competition in the U.S., they get 12 minutes to place and eight for reasons, and even as long as 15 minutes in several other domestic shows. Another difference is that the judges are allowed to touch the cattle at the Royal Highland show.

The youth will also wear white lab coats while judging, a tradition from when cows were classified in the 1940s. Finally, the cows are labeled A,B,X,Y as opposed to 1,2,3,4.

Breeds judged will include Holsteins, British Friesans, and Ayrshires. The animals may be somewhat different from domestic dairy animals, said Dr. Majeskie. Although American and Canadian sires are increasingly influencing the herds in England and Scotland, the ideal cow may not be as dairy as the ideal cow here in the U.S. Type preferences lean toward stockier, more compact animals.

In addition to the Royal Highland Show at Edinburgh, the trip will be jam-packed with opportunities for the youth to experience other aspects of European agriculture and culture. The itinerary includes stops at farms in Scotland and tours of Buckingham Palace, Westminister Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral in London. In Paris, the group will see the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral, and Vêrsailles, as well as getting a briefing by the minister-counselor for agricultural affairs. They will also visit the Institut National Agronomique Paris-Grignon, the leading agricultural university in France, famous for its experimental livestock. In Belgium they will meet with a Belgian farm service specialist and visit several typical livestock operations, and there will be more farm tours in the Netherlands.

While the group is in Switzerland, Majeskie will do a type classification clinic on a Swiss farm for the technical people from the Swiss Brown Swiss association.

Alter Named Interim Dean of agronomy, who has announced his retirement.

Starling was named interim dean in January and took over the post while Penn State searched for someone to hire as dean to replace Lambertine Hood, who resigned from the post last year.

While the search for a permanent dean is continuing, Alter is to serve as interim dean; until a new dean has been identified, or for one year.

"Ted Alter has a distinguished record of administrative experience at Penn State. He is recognized for the success of his tenure as regional director of the Southeast Region for Cooperative Extension, as well as for his research in the areas of public sector economics, public finance and community and regional economics," said John Brighton, executive vice president and provost, in a news release.

Brighton also said he thanked Starling for delaying his retirement in order to serve the college and University as interim dean during a period of transition.

Alter has a career, interest and activities background that places him at the forefront of several issues for the state and nation — those involving land use and government taxation.

Alter also is currently director of the Pennslvania Food System Professions Education Initiative.

In addition to having served as professor and head of the agricultural economics and rural sociology department since 1994, and director of the Southeast Region of Cooperative Extension from 1989 to 1994, he was responsible for programming and administration in all extension areas, including 4-H and urban gardening, horticulture, agronomy, livestock, dairy, agricultural marketing, farm management, resource management, urban and community forestry, family living, family finance, nutrition, and the expanded food, nutrition and education program.

Joining the Penn State faculty in 1976 as an assistant professor of agricultural economics, Alter was named associate professor in 1982 and professor in 1989.

His primary areas of teaching have included state and local government finance, local government financial management, land and water resource policy, land economics, cost-benefit analysis and institutional economics.

For extension, he has conducted statewide programs on understanding local government finance policy, local government tax reform, property tax assessment and administration, and local government budgeting, as well as paying for public services and general education on public issues.

His research has included a study of the impact of public school finance reform on Michigan's agricultural population; the evaluation of land-use policies, primarily use-value assessment of farm and open space land and other issues related to land and fiscal impacts; property taxes; and rural development.

During his sabbatical in 1986-87, he conducted a comparative analysis of local public finance and management issues for rural areas of the United States and Europe.

Among other administrative duties, he has served as director of the college urban programs study from 1987 to 1990, and as advisor and analyst for the Rural Public Management Project for the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development in Paris, France from 1987-89.

Among his honors and awards, he was named intern for the National Extension Leadership Development Program in 1991-92; and has received recognition from the American Agricultural Economics Association Distinguished Extension Program, and Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary extension fraternity.

Alter received a bachelor's degree in economics from University of Rochester, graduating with distinction in 1968, and a master's and doctorate in resource economics and policy from Michigan State University in 1973 and 1976, respectively. He was also a National Defense Education Act Fellow.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Junior Angus Breeders from across the Mid-Atlantic states paraded 228 head of cattle in front of judge Greg McCurry, Sedgwick, Kan., at the 1996 Atlantic National Junior Angus Show in Timonium, Md.

WK Kisses 5227 claimed grand champion honors in the owned heifer show. Nick Wagner, Wolcott, Ind., showed the February 1995 heifer out of Westwind Rito 8503 DJH 019. She first won early spring heifer calf.

The reserve grand champion owned female was shown by Jason Michael, Mt. Solon, Va. His entry, Champion Hill Tanya, is an April 1995 heifer sired by Century Touchstone 131. She first won late spring heifer calf.

In the bred-and-owned heifer show, the grand champion female honors were presented to Daltons Belle Anna. Judson Dalton, Altavista, Va., showed the May 1994 daughter of VDAR Northern Exposure. She was first named intermediate champion. Daltons Belle Anna also claimed top cow-calf pair honors with her March bull calf out of Rito 2RT2 of OB5 RR Traveler.

Kruegers Scaara Cassidy was presented with reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female honors. Amy Krueger, Coatesville, Pa., showed the May 1994 heifer by GDAR Executive 727. She was earlier named reserve intermediate champion heifer.

Lisa Bloom, Westville, Ind., was presented with reserve grand champion honors for her cow-calf pair. Car Don Miss Bonnie B268 is a September 1992 cow sired by R&J Maxima. A January 1996 bull calf sired by GAR Precision was at her side.

In the bred-and-owned bull show, grand champion laurels were presented to Erin Kruger, Coatesville, Pa. Her entry, Krueger 1483 Scotch Cap 1103, is a January 1995 son of RR9440 Scotch Cap 1483.

Pa. Farm Bureau Is On Internet

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau recently launched its home page on the Internet, according to announcement by Louis Sallie, PFB administrative secretary.

"The website is designed to communicate with Farm Bureau members, the general public, and the news media," Sallie said. The Farm Bureau website address is http://www.fb.com/ and is part of American Farm Bureau Federation website.

"We are attempting to answer questions about farm and rural issues, and the Farm Bureau organization," Sallie said. "Our home page will continue to evolve."

Sallie explained that the Home Page took more than eight months to develop and launch. It was designed and developed by the PFB Computer Services, while the initial contents was the responsibility of the PFB Public Relations Division.

PFB's website features access to information about PFB programs, services, and benefits. It has the most recent issue of Country Focus, the group's official publication. Organizational and leadership information, along with background information, is also available. In addition, it provides "hotlinks" to other ag-related Internet sites such as Penn State's "PenPages," the National Agricultural Library, various commodity promotion organizations, as well as numerous other websites that should be of interest to members.

American Farm Bureau's Internet site includes educational material, news and commentary, links to other ag- and farm-related Web sites, and connections to state Farm Bureau Web sites, including the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

"The impetus for PFB getting on the Internet is to provide the organization with a new public relations tool and to give members the information they need about the organization's programs and services," said Steve Snyder, PFB's computer services director. Nearly one-third of American households now own a computer capable of accessing the Internet. It has become a major force in providing information.

PFB's website is developed around the theme, "Farm Bureau Is . . ." Member benefits, services, programs, issues and answers, and news are the major features. A unique feature is a county directory, which offers a profile on agriculture in a particular county, along with leadership in the county Farm Bureau unit.

E-mail to PFB can be addressed as follows: the Public Relations Division — PubRel@PFB.Com; Governmental Relation Division — Government@PFB.COM; Member Relations Division — Member@PFB.COM; Farm Management Services — FMS@PFB.COM; FACCTS Support — FACCTS@PFB.COM; Members' services such as Visa, Heartland Drug, etc — Services@PFB.COM; the Health Services Group Medical Insurance Plan — BCBS@PFB.COM; and Safemark — Safemark@PFB.COM.

Dairy Economist Explains Missed Prediction

Larry G. Hamm
Professor and Extension Specialist
Dept. of Agricultural Economics
Michigan State University

This is one of those times that try dairy economists' souls. We are accustomed to mising dairy price forecasts. But when we miss them by a wide margin, everyone really notices.

In forecasts done last year, I predicted the February Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) price would be $11.20 per hundredweight (cwt). The actual M-W was $11.79. That's 59 cents higher than forecast. I could take solace in the fact that the consensus forecast by 57 dairy market forecasters from all parts of the industry predicted the M-W would be $11.10. Or, that if you blow a forecast, it is better to underestimate the price than to overestimate it. But when price forecasts are off by this much, the professional curiosity comes out. Why? What caused this market condition?

Dairy surpluses are gone. Market conditions are such that the milk surpluses of the past are gone— not only domestically, but also internationally. Without surpluses overhanging the market, the rigorous demandconditions in the markets will lift prices. This is precisely what happened.

For the last few years the USDA's CCC has been purchasing only butter. The butterfat surpluses have caused the CCC to adjust the price support purchase-price for butter and nonfat drymilk several times and have been driving the movement toward component pricing.

As the price of butter started going down, the continual slide in butter consumption stopped and started to reverse. As the market price for butter went up, the CCC did not have companies selling butter to the government. As the price of butter went even higher, the CCC started selling its stocks back to commercial markets.

USDA's cupboards are bare. At the end of February, 1995, the CCC has uncommitted inventories of butter of 24 million pounds. This compared to 213 million in February, 1994. If you took all the CCC's uncommitted inventories of all products and converted them to milk equivalent (milkfat basis), the total USDA surplus would be 530 million pounds of farm milk. Currently, U.S. dairy producers ship about 420 million pounds of milk a day. The current U.S. government surplus is, therefore, only about one-and-a-quarter days' milk supply. Even when commercial inventories are added, the reserve supply of milk in the U.S. marketing system is really quite small.

The U.S. was never a big factor in world dairy markets. The Oceania countries (New Zealand and Australia) and the European Union (EU) always supplied the world. The EU countries established quotas. If they have sold all of their products, there are no extra supplies to hold world prices. In the past government subsidies produced a few extra supplies in the former Communist countries. With changes to these economies, those dairy products supplies are gone. Weather conditions in Oceania cut milk production and available export supplies in those countries. The Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP) in the U.S. further tightened the available supplies of dairy products for export.

Tight world supplies mean that the U.S. can be a force in the world commercial export markets. The world price of butter has risen to the U.S. butter price. The United States will export unsubsidized dairy products this year. These commercial exports will not be large, but they do serve notice to the U.S. dairy producers, dairy marketers, policy makers, and the world dairy trade that the U.S. dairy industry is going to be a world dairy marketer in the future.

Only five years ago the U.S. butter price was twice the world price. Now U.S. product is being commercially exported. Who would have thought it? Certainly not the dairy economist who missed the M-W forecast by 59 cents.

Coalition To Coordinate Positions For Trade, Harmonization

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Manufacturers of animal health products in North, South, and Central America are joining forces to impact the future of the global animal health products industry, according to the Animal Health Institute, which represents the industry in the United States.

The Animal Health Coalition for the Americas, unveiled recently, brings together trade associations that represent manufacturers of animal health products in the United States, Canada, and throughout South and Central America. The coalition will provide solidarity among makers of animal health products throughout the Americas on issues regarding the international availability of health care products.

"This coalition will network AHI with its counterparts to the North and South," said Alexander S. Mathews, AHI's president and CEO. "It will provide the industry with a collective voice to discuss global policies that impact us."

AHI said the coalition, which will take an active role in discussions on global harmonization, will also impact producers and consumers of agricultural products

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — "When you're six feet under, what you did on earth doesn't matter—except family," said Eugene Hoover.

Coming from a self-professed workaholic with a never-ending workload of farming 500 acres and finishing 1,000 head of cattle, that statement clarifies Hoover's attempt to spend more time enjoying his family.

Hoover balanced 5-year-old Jody on one knee as he scooped up 21-month-old Cole.

"I just love this," Hoover said as he hugged his children. "I used to be so busy with my own life, I didn't take time to pay attention to the family. I put my wife through many hard years."

His wife Bonnie returned his smile and said, "I'm very proud of my husband. He's changed completely. He's open and caring. He talks about his feelings. He spends time with the children and shows affection. We're closer because of what we've been through."

The catalyst for bringing about a change wasn't less work for Hoover, but a change of perspective brought about by a nervous breakdown.

Hoover is very candid in discussing his breakdown and recovery. "It was the best thing that ever happen to me. I learned how to handle stress, to stop and take breaks. Instead of looking to the future and being overwhelmed, I take one day at a time," he said.

Looking back, Hoover believes the symptoms were evident of a massive breakdown long before it happened, but he was too busy to recognize it.

Of that time, five years ago, Hoover said, "I had a complete nervous breakdown. My fuel tank was empty. I couldn't even get out of bed."

He also lost about 30 pounds, a substantial amount for a man his size.

Hoover said that like many with agricultural roots, he grew up in a farm family with a strong work ethic. "I felt good when I worked and guilty when I rested," he said.

The problem was that Hoover's body couldn't maintain the seven day round-the-clock work that he thought necessary.

He was too busy to talk with his wife, too busy to play with the children, and too busy to enjoy life.

After admittance to a psychiatric hospital, Hoover was forced to take a hard look at his life.

"For 30 years I was taught one way, then total strangers told me to do things differently," Hoover said of the psychological help he received through his hospitalization at Philhaven Hospital.

That's when Hoover realized that he loved his wife and children but his actions were driving them apart. He began to express his thoughts to his wife. He became generous in giving hugs and attention to his children.

"It amazes me. The more I changed, the more my family seemed to change."

Since Hoover's breakdown, the couple had a son Cole, who is 21 months old.

"I'm able to see the youngest grow up like I've never saw the others," Hoover said of his two oldest children, Cody, 8, and Jody, 5. When Hoover marvels at the precociousness of his toddler, he is amazed when his wife tells him that the two older children accomplished the same feats at that stage of life.

He was too busy to notice.

"My attitude was 'take care of me first and you next.'"

But there was never time to care for anyone else because the crops needed to be planted or harvested, equipment repaired, or cattle tended.

"Now it's my family first," Hoover said.

That doesn't mean Hoover has become lax in his farm work. He still farms as much acreage as before and cares for as much stock.

He'd prefer to cut back a bit, but said, "Renting the place — it's an estate — comes as a package. To make ends meet, the barns must be full."

Hoover rents what local people know as Triple G Farms in Denver. Hoover had been farm manager for Triple G before he was given the option to lease it four years ago.

Although Hoover rents additional land, he said, "We can't grow enough to feed all the animals, but try to have enough forages, which include silage, hay, shelled corn, and fodder."

All the manure from fattening 900 steers and 100 heifers can be used on the land, which is another incentive for boarding animals.

Hoover has one full-time hired man and several seasonal workers. In addition, his brother and dad

Bonnie and the children often accompany Hoover to one of the four farms. Hoover built this chuck wagon to haul the paper egg cartons and newsprint that he picks up locally and uses for bedding.

Eight-year-old Cody holds a chicken that he is raising on the back porch. He loves all kinds of animals. His sister Jody and brother Cole share his appreciation for animals.

who farm along the same road also help out.

"I have exceptional help. I'm just one of the cogs in the wheel," Hoover said. "I'm the fill-in type of person. I go wherever I'm needed. I really don't do a lot of tractor driving except for spraying because it's easier to tell help to go plow than to fix something."

On the day of the interview, Hoover was trying to finish corn planting. One of the hired hands was plowing, another preparing the ground for planting, another planting, and Hoover was spraying. By working together, the team plowed, prepared, planted, and sprayed 150 acres of corn within two days.

With the type of farming he does, Hoover said there is never a slow time. Of the spring season, Hoover said, "Planting and seeing those little plants come up — I just love it."

The long winters are the toughest, especially those with heavy snows. It takes five hours daily to feed the cattle finishing in the barns. The cattle require a trailer load of feed daily.

"We feed candy and anything that is nutritional filler in order to cut the cost of feeding corn. But with corn prices up, everyone else is looking for cheaper sources too," Hoover said.

Hoover uses shredded paper products for bedding. He picks up used egg cartons and newsprint from sources at which he has handshake contracts. A bale chopper is used for shredding.

The winter months are also used to fix equipment. "We have lots of big equipment," Hoover said of that shared among he, his father and brother. Although all three work independently, they help each other whenever possible.

A few weeks ago, his brother had emergency surgery for appendicitis. "I sat on the corn planter for a whole week," Hoover said. In a few days, Hoover was planning to put in chickens for his brother. "He usually does it himself, but now with his surgery, it requires a group effort to get things done," Hoover said.

During the busy times of planting and harvesting, Bonnie serves "meals on wheels" to the men working in the fields. "In the spring and fall, we drive and eat," Hoover said.

"We have two-way radios on almost all the equipment, so I know what's happening everywhere although I can't always be there to help," he said.

Crops are harvested through custom farming, which his brother owns.

Fixing things is Hoover's forte. He relishes taking what others consider junk and making something new out of it. He has a truck made from concrete forms that didn't cost him a dime except for labor. He tore apart the concrete forms and built the stake body to use to transport feed from the barn to other farms. He also designed a chuck wagon, which is 24 feet long.

Before building wagons and truck beds, Hoover doesn't draw his plans. "It's an idea that I have in my mind. I just do it," he said.

He has a friend that has helped him rebuilt the motor. Although Hoover classifies all the facilities and equipment that he uses as old, he doesn't see it as a disadvantage. He believes in making the best use of what he has to work with and he has plenty of novel ideas.

"I'm farming big time with old equipment," said Hoover who derives lots of satisfaction from making something out of nothing. "If we had new equipment, we'd have a lot less to fix, less hassle, and less stress, but I'm kind of proud to have tractors with 10,000 hours on them and still running." Hoover designs much of the equipment to fit his needs. "This didn't cost me a dime in materials only my labor," Hoover said of this truck. He made the stake wagon from discarded concrete forms, which he tore apart and used to built a 24-foot long wagon at a lower height so that it will fit into the barns.

Because much the land that he farms is spread over a five mile radius, he uses more trucks than tractors for farming. He took the tank off an old feed truck and set it inside to grind shell corn, and inserted an auger into that system to have TMR mixed. The truck is used to haul silage from a central point to all the other farms.

"If we had new equipment, we'd have a lot less to fix, less hassle, and less stress, but I'm kind of proud to have tractors with 10,000 hours on them and still running," he said.

"He has lots of ideas to make farming more cost efficient. I think he inherited his mother's ability to make something out of nothing," Bonnie said.

"I'm proud of what I'm doing because I know I'm good at it, yet sometimes I wonder if it's all worth it because it takes so much time from the family," Hoover said.

Cody, standing nearby, piped up, "Yes, Dad, it's worth it."

Hoover said that he's learning to take time off to spend with the family. "I'm a workaholic. I work hard at not being one, but I know that I am. It's getting better, but I still feel a bit guilty when I know there is so much work to be done."

Hoover is also a staunch supporter of doing the least amount of work possible on Sunday.

"We don't get all our work done in six days, but the seventh is for the Lord, my family, and me. We look forward to that."

But emergencies happen in farm life. Hoover said, "I won't leave an animal in pain and agony. I'm the key person on this operation and if it's an emergency, I take care of it."

Because Hoover and his wife Bonnie believe that it's important to be involved in their children's lives, they took time away from work to talk about the upcoming benefit sale for the school that eight-year-old son Cody and Jody attend.

"Because school is important to Cody, I want to do what I can to be involved," Hoover said.

Bonnie heads the publicity committee for the Lititz Area Mennonite School, which will hold a two-day benefit auction on June 21 and 22.

Both husband and wife believe it is essential to school their children in a Christian environment.

Bonnie said, "We owe it to our children to give them every possible opportunity to succeed. I think being exposed to Bible teaching every day gives children a great foundation to handle adult life."

Hoover said, "I was raised in public school. I didn't like school — Cody loves it."

Bonnie is also the contact mother for second grade.

The school is only one of the activities that the Hoovers support.

"I love helping people and being neighborly," said Hoover, who has a reputation for plowing open neighbors driveways, sharing meat from butchering, and helping whoever is in need.

Hoover is a member of Ephrata Area Young Farmers.

Bonnie takes care of the bookwork on the farm and works part-time in bookkeeping for her dad who operates Mervin Zimmerman Inc. Plumbing and Heating. She also is on the committeed in charge of vacation Bible school for Hinkletown Mennonite Church and teaches a 4-H cooking club.

"We feel it's important to be involved where our children are and to be committed to do a good job," Bonnie said.

Balancing so many responsibilities is not easy for the family, but Hoover said, "We take one day at a time. We ask the Lord's help and keep at it."

When he's gone, Hoover said, people won't remember how much he farmed, but his children will carry on the influence he had in their lives.

Old-Fashioned July 4th Celebration

WESTMINSTER, Md. — A patriotic salute to the Historic Fourth will be celebrated at the Carroll County Farm Museum in Westminster, Maryland. The American holiday program will take place on Thursday, July 4, from noon until 9:30 p.m. General admission price is $3 for adults; $2 for ages 7 to 18 and 60 and over; six and under are free. The fabulous display of fireworks begins at 9:30 p.m.

Craft vendors will be selling hand-crafted treasures for souvenir seekers: dried flowers, leather and wood crafts, stenciled items, fabric crafts, jewelry, tole painting and other assorted crafts. The Farm Museum's General Store will be stocked with hand-crafted items, nickel candy, and souvenirs.

Other commemorative sights and sounds of this American holiday will fill your day with patriotic entertainment. The Maryland National guard will be on hand to provide and exhibit and demonstraiton for visitors. The Farm Museum buildings will all be open for tours including a firehouse exhibit which is new this year and the one-room schoolhouse exhibit which opened last year. The buildings will be open for tours from 12:00 noon until 8:00 p.m. Volunteer artisans will be demonstrating their skills as they were performed in the 1800s between 12:00 noon and 8:00 p.m. Stage entertainment will be provided including: Ray Owen, recording artist and entertainer, beginning at 12:00 noon. Freewheeling, a country music group, will take the stage at 12:45 p.m. Wherligig, an Irish/American Folk music band will follow at 1:45 p.m. Paddyfields and Johnny Dark will perform country msuic for visitors at 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. The Carroll County Cloggers will perform at 4:00 p.m. Other activities will include a kiddies pedal pull for ages 4 through 8 years. Mule wagon rides will be available from noon to 8:00 p.m. A demonstration of old fashioned games will be held from noon to 5:00 p.m.

In this hectic time of the gardening year, we find ourselves in a lull period. And, that's a mixed blessing.

For the most part, the rush to get things planted is over — even for those of us whose gardens were still oozing water in late May. One decent stretch of drying weather, several loads of winter-piled manure removed from my garden and some assistance from The Farmer got my very late vegetable patch tilled, planted, and mulched. Finally.

With the worst of the back labor over, now the garden looks to be in a stall. From past experience, I know the seeds and seedlings are actually busy growing sturdy underground root systems. Once they have those foundations in the soil, you'll almost be able to see the foliage swell from day to day.

Though a couple of late stalks of asparagus are still shooting up fat, thick stalks, most the patch is ready to be left to mature its fern-like top foliage strength toward next year's crop. Likewise the rhubarb, though only one stalk has survived in my planting. I always thought rhubarb was an indestructible sort of cultivar; mine is an embarrassment.

A few veggie plantings tucked here and there among the flower beds help satisfy my primeval need to yank up something fresh for our salads. The onions are beginning to fatten their roots, on their way from fingerling spring onions to those of more substantial maturity. And the small butter-crunch lettuces may never get to develop heads, since I keep lopping off their larger bottom leaves for use before they turn tough and bug-chewed.

But Mother Nature fills this void between the very early spring fresh things which are fading and the abundance of summer produce that begins pouring forth from gardens by late June and early July. And she does it in a most delightful, sweet way — with strawberries.

Our patch had gone belly-up last spring from a combination of factors, necessitating the establishment of a new bed of plants. Though I planted only a few dozen, they thrived, shot out runners and covered the raised, south-sloping location chosen to encourage early berry production.

When frost threatened (and destroyed some of) the areas' strawberry harvest, I tucked floating row cover over our little patch. And since the chill promised to hand around after the frost, the row cover was leftover the berries for a few more days.

Whether it was the southeran exposure or the row cover's extra warmth, the berry patch began to yield a few fruits before Memorial Day weekend. Having been forewarned by The Farmer to stock up on vanilla ice cream, which sometims becomes hard to find during the peak of berry season, we have been able to continuously enjoy the modest but steady flow of strawberries in our favorite way.

The energy boost from my favorite dessert is a plus in fending off our backyard gang of robins coveting the sweet, juicy, red fruits. They keep constant watch-over the patch, eyeballing the sweetest, fattest and reddest fruits, ripe for the pecking. Nylon net-wrap used on our large, round hay bales makes the perfect deterrent. But any time corner of patch left uncovered is instantly detected by these sharp-eyed, feathered strawberry thieves. Sort of strawberry patch radar.

Weather permitting, we'll continue to sweeten our June days with strawberries and ice cream, along with stashing away a few extra containers of berries in the freezer for off-season enjoyment.

And then drown our disappointment at their seasonal passing — with ice cream and raspberries.

'Got Milk?' Advertising Makes Headlines

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Two eastern New York daily newspapers featured the "got milk?" advertising campaign in recent articles reaching almost 200,000 consumers. The "Albany Time Union," the highest circulated paper in the Capitol region, and the "Oneonta Daily Star" picked up on the story after hearing that the "got milk?" ad campaign was named the best for 1995 by "Time" magazine and "USA Today's" survey of the country's top 20 advertising executives. Rick Naczi, Chief Executive Officer for the American Dairy Association and Dairiy Council, Inc. (ADADC), was interviewed extensively for both articles. In the "Oneonta Daily Star," Naczi said, "It's no accident that young people find the "got milk?" ads amusing. The humorous presentation of the commercials was designed for viewers between the ages of 12 and 34 - an age group greatlyk influenced by glitzy soft drink promotions. Almost everyone knows that milk is a healthy beverage, Naczi said, so the industry now is trying to conovince young consumers that milkd is a fun beverage, too.

The "got milk?" campaign originated about three years ago by the California Milk Processor Board and according to Jeff Manning, executive director, "Strategically this is the best campaign the dairy industry has ever had. It's a consumption-oriented strategy." He credits the campaign with increasing per-capita consumption there and expects it to make a difference across the country.

John Tauzel, part-owner of a 125-cow farm in Schenevus, New York, was quoted in the "oneonta Daily Star" to say, "I know my teen-age boys love the ads. I think that's a real good sign. That's your future."

And, if imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, "got milk?" has been complimented over and over by such popular television shows as Roseanne, Cybil and the Drew Carey Show.

Avoid 'Sour' Mulch

Lots of things are sour: grapes, cherries, bark mulch, etc. Even wood chip mulch can go sour if not stored properly. Decomposing within large (6-12 feet high) mulch piles occasionally sour. Without oxygen a toxic by-product results of various organic acids and alcohol. If mulch is spread in landscape beds these acrid odors are highly toxic to plants. These strongly pungent odors are released after breaking open the pile.

If you are buying mulch (shredded tree bark, old sawdust, mushroom compost or bark chips) and storing it for later use, keep these precautions in mind. Most bark mulch that was stored properly, should not go sour. Mulches that have not soured should have a fresh garden aroma. If the mulch smells like vinegar, sulfur or ammonia, it has properly gone sour and should not be spread in flowerbeds.

Finely shredded mulches are especially prone to 'sourness.' Often caused by compaction store mulch in several small piles rather than one large one. Mulch piles that remain intact for more than one week should be no higher than four feet.

Mulch piles that are used and replenished regularly can be higher than four feet. Shape piles so that water runs off and does not puddle into the center of the pile. Water fills pore spaces, displacing oxygen, resulting in sour mulch. Better yet, cover mulch piles with a tarp to prevent waterlogging.

Turn or mix piles if they are stored in one location for a long time. This allows any toxic byproducts to dissipate and incorporates fresh air to reduce further anaerobic decomposition.

If you do find your mulch went sour, spread the mulch out in a thin layer on a paved surface. Let the toxic vapors naturally dissipate for three to seven days. Then apply the mulch to a small area of plantings and wait for several days. If plants don't show wilting, discoloration or other abnormal growth indicative of sour mulch, the mulch is safe the use on the rest of your garden.

Avoid using sour mulch in containers, recently planted flower beds, or along the edge of landscape beds. Annual flowers planted prior to spreading sour mulch may die withing 24 hours. Plants affected often have chlorotic leaves, leaf scorch or plant dieback.

Another way to check for sour mulch is to check to pH. Sour mulch will have a pH of 1.8 of 2.5 which makes neutralizing with lime unreasonable.

Lastly, do no overapply any type of mulch. Dense mulches like sawdust should not be more than 2 inches thick while shredded bark a maximum of 2 to 4 inches thick.

Cambria Selects Dairy Princess

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Tammy Kuzar, daughter of Robert and Sandy Kuzar, wears the Cambria County dairy princess crown.

Crowned recently at the pageant held at the Cambria County Extension office, Tammy will promote the consumption and sale of milk and dairy products and create better relations between urban and rural people through her contacts.

In the fall, Tammy will be a senior at Cambria Heights High School, where she is a member of the Foreign Travel Club and SADD. After high school graduation, Tammy hopes to attend Edinboro University and major in education.

Tammy has seven of her own dairy animals on the family's Kuzar Dairy Farm. She is active in the county 4-H dairy club and has been a dairy ambassador for three years. She also enjoys reading and photography.

Dairy ambassadors who will assist in promotion are Carolyn Itle, daughter of Patrick and Karen Itle of Loretto; Stephanie Dixon, daughter of Gerald Hogue and Janet Dixon of Ebensburg; Jody Itle, daughter of Matthew and Elizabeth Itle of Loretto; Rachel Ralph, daughter of Robert and Marnita Ralph of Loretto, Lindsey Itle, daughter of William and Joyce Itle of Loretto; and Tom Sawyer, son of Dennis and Janet Sawyer of Mineral Point.

Udderly Dairy Delicious Recipes From Readers

TUNA-CORN SAUCE ON TOAST

¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon minced onion
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6½ ounces canned tuna, drained and flaked
1 cup whole kernel corn, drained
½ cup grated cheddar, American, or Velveeta cheese

In 1-quart saucepan, combine mayonnaise and flour. Gradually stir in milk, onion, salt, and pepper. Heat over low heat and stir constantly until mixture reaches a boil. Add tuna, cheese, and corn. Stir and heat until mixture is hot and cheese is melted. Serve over toast. Serves 3-4.

½ cup water
8 ounces mozzarella cheese, grated

Topping:
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup parmesan cheese

Beat first three ingredients until foamy. Mix flour and salt until smooth. Pour over meat mixture. Sprinkle with parmesán cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes.

This pizza recipe recently became a family favorite. Of course, anything pizza-related is a big hit in our house.

I enjoy cooking and baking, especially with dairy products. In fact, I can't seem to make a meal without using milk or milk products!

We live on a 140-acre dairy farm and milk 34 cows and raise our own replacement heifers.

It's encouraging to see the children grown in their responsibilities in caring for the animals, helping with the fieldwork, and at the same time taking pride in what is getting accomplished in making our farm a better place to live. We are thankful to God for being able to contribute in our own small way to the farming industry.

LEMON ICE CREAM

3 large eggs
2½ cups granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons grated lemon zest
1½ cups fresh lemon juice
1 quart half and half
1 quart heavy cream
½ teaspoon yellow food coloring
Chipped ice
Salt for freezing

Beat eggs in a large mixing bowl for 1 minute. Add salt, zest, and sugar, beating until well-blended and smooth.

Stir in lemon juice, then add half and half and cream. Stir in yellow coloring.

Refrigerate 3 hours until well cooled.

Pour into 1 gallon ice cream freezer can. Using ice and salt, crank up your freezer. When frozen, spoon into plastic container and place in freezer to ripen for at least 2 hours.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE SUNDAE DESSERT

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup butter
½ cup chopped nuts

Mix the above ingredients and blend until well mixed. Add nuts to mixture. Press in a 9x13-inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes.

Topping:
3 large boxes of chocolate instant pudding
5¼ cups milk
8 ounces whipped cream topping

Mix together pudding and milk and beat until smooth. Cool crust and put topping on. Put whipped topping on pudding mixture. May garnish with cherries, nuts, or coconut.

I enjoy this for a quick dessert. The wonderful thing about this recipe is that the ingredients are usually right in your kitchen.

My husband, brother-in-law, and father-in-law run a 600-acre farm. It consists of chipping potatoes and beef cattle.

My two sons, Marcus, 3, and Ethan, 1, have already helped out feeding the cows and riding around in the tractors. Although I was not raised on a farm, I have helped in the fields.

FRESH PEACH DESSERT

Crust:
½ cup butter, softened
1½ cup flour
½ cup chopped nuts

Mix well and press in a large 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes and let cool.

Filling:
Whipped cream
2½ cups confectioners' sugar
8 ounces cream cheese

Mix well and spread over crust. Lay fresh peaches over the filling.

Glaze:
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons peach Jell-O
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup water

Mix well and boil for 5 minutes. Pour over peaches. Refrigerate.

This recipe is very refreshing and fun to make.

My husband and I have two beautiful children. Rachel is 8 and Jacob is 7. My husband, Lorne, worked on a farm for 10 years. We live in a farm house but aren't farming at the present time. We want to get back into farming in the future.

Enjoy this recipe!

COCONUT CREAM DESSERT

Mix together and pat on bottom of cake pan:
1½ cups butter
1½ cups flour

Bake at 350 degrees until golden brown (15-20 minutes)

After crust is cooled, mix together and spread on top of crust:
8 ounces cream cheese
1 cup confectioners' sugar

Mix together and spread on top of above mixture:
2 small boxes coconut cream pudding
3 cups milk

Spread whipped topping on top. Sprinkle with toasted coconut.

My husband Mark and I recently purchased a farm in the Middleburg area, where we are raising crops and dairy heifers.

We have two boys, Jared and Aaron, ages 4 and 5, who love either farming or playing farm.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

4 slices bread, cubed and put in bottom of 13x9-inch cake pan
2 cups cooked chicken pieces
½ cup mayonnaise
Dash pepper
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped onion
1¼ cup milk
2 eggs
10¾ ounces cream of celery soup.

Mix together and pour over bread cubes. Add:
1 cup cubed potatoes, uncooked
1-2 cups peas uncooked
5 slices bread, cubed
1 stick melted butter

Stir and put on top of everything. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

HOT MILK SPONGE CAKE

1 cup milk
2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup butter
5 eggs, beaten until golden yellow
1 tablespoon vanilla
Pinch of salt

Add sugar, flour, baking powder, and salt to well-beaten eggs and mix. Measure milk and butter into a microwave-safe container and heat until butter is melted. Add to other mixture and mix well. Add vanilla last. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes in ungreased, oblong pan.

Topping:

As soon as removing cake from oven, rub ½ cup of butter on top until melted, then sprinkle with approximately 1 cup of confectioners' sugar.

CHEESE SPREAD

2 pound box Velveeta cheese
Two 8-ounce packages cream cheese
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
1 package dried beef, chipped fine

Put Velveeta cheese and cream cheese in a bowl. Place over hot water until cheese is soft. Add Worcestershire sauce, onion, and salt. Mix well with mixer. Stir in chipped dried beef. Mix again.

Place in small bowls or cups and sprinkle with parsley. Spread on crackers or celery. This will serve 8-12 people.

I am 9 years old and live on a dairy farm in Harford County, Md., with my parents Dan and Pat Magness. I have two brothers, Dan and Ben. I belong to the Harford County 4-H Dairy Club and show my heifers at 4-H shows. I also have a dairy steer to show this year.

FROZEN PRALINE PIE

¾ cup corn syrup, light or dark
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup butter, melted
⅓ cup brown sugar, packed
¾ cup milk

Mix well in mixer. Pour into 9-inch baked pie shell. Sprinkle ¾ cup chopped pecans or walnuts on top. Freeze 4 hours. Use whipped cream on top if desired.

We live on a dairy farm. I have five brothers: Derlyn, Arlyn, Kerek, Jalyn, and Kevyn. I have three sisters: LeAnn, Lynell, and Bethany.

PUMPKIN PIE

2 cups pumpkin
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons molasses
2 eggs
2 large unbaked pastry crusts
2 cups milk
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon browned butter
½ cup coconut (optional)

Mix everything. Bake at 350 degrees until middle is set.

LAYERED PISTACHIO DESSERT

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup melted butter
1 cup powdered sugar
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup whipped cream
2 packages (3¾ ounces) instant pistachio pudding
2½ cups milk
1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar

Combine graham cracker crumbs, sugar, and melted butter. Press into bottom of 9x13-inch pan.

Beat 1 cup confectioners' sugar and cream cheese until smooth. Beat whipped cream until stiff. Fold 1 cup of whipped cream into cream cheese mixture; spread over crust. Mix pudding and milk until thick; pour over cream cheese mixture. Cover and refrigerate until firm. Fold tablespoon sugar into remaining whipped cream. Use to top each serving. Serves 12.

My husband, David, and I have a dairy farm. Along with our sons David, 15 and Michael, 11, we milk 40 registered Jerseys.

We are just beginning to plant our corn because April and May have been such rainy months. This weekend was the first time in a long while that we have gone four days in a row without rain.

My family especially enjoys this dessert in the summer. It can be made with any type of pudding, so it can be varied to suit everyone's taste.

We are planning on visiting Lancaster County for a few days in July. We are really looking forward to it.

RASPBERRY VANILLA CLOUD

1⅓ cups graham cracker crumbs
1¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup butter, melted
¼ cup flour
1 package unflavored gelatin
1¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup heavy cream

Combine graham crackers, ¼ cup sugar, cinnamon, and butter. Press into serving dishes. Combine ½ cup sugar, flour gelatin, and salt. Add milk. Put in 2-quart suacepan. Bring to a 1 minute boil, stirring constantly. Chill.

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff. Gradually beat in ½ cup sugar and vanilla and whipped cream in to scald mixture. Turn into line graham cracker disk.

Thicken raspberries with clear fill put on top or any fruit: 2 cup juice (any kind), 1 cup water, ½ cup clear jell, ½ cup sugar, boil and cool.

I love this dessert. We take it to picnics and everyone loves it.

I live on a dairy farm. I help with milking when my brother is busy. I also have 25 layer chickens. We get 12-15 brown eggs each day.

I love the farm. I also help with the garden. I have seven sisters and three brothers. Five sisters and one brother are married.

My parents are Ivan and Marion.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, and cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Lynda Lamp, Baltimore, Md., would like a recipe that her mother's friend used to make about 20 years ago called Triple Chocolate Cake. She remembers that it was made with a chocolate cake mix, chocolate pudding, and chocolate chips. Instead of icing, the top was dusted with confectioners' sugar.

QUESTION — Mary Jane Rummel, Linglestown, would like to know how to make old-fashioned rivels used in chicken corn soup.

QUESTION — Alta Sensenig, Newville, would like to have a recipe for butter and egg dinner rolls, which are really moist.

QUESTION — Melva Baumer, Millmont, wants ideas for main course dishes that can be hauled to the field to be served to hired help.

QUESTION — A reader requests a recipe for macaroni fruit salad with a cooked dressing.

QUESTION — Ruth Virginia Erb, Beavertown, would like a recipe for the starter to Romtoph Friendship cake. She stored her starter in the freezer, but her husband though it was ice cream topping and ate it.

QUESTION — Christine Ayers of Clarks Summit would like a recipe for apple cider doughnuts and cabbage salad that tastes like that made at the Country Cupboard Restaurant in Lewisburg.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., would like a recipe for beignets, a baked pastry made in the deep South. Beignets were eaten with coffee or tea.

QUESTION — Deanna Cunfer, Lehighton, would like recipes for broiled scallops. She writes that when she makes them at home they lack that special something that makes them so tasty at good restaurants.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, N.Y., would like a recipe that tastes similar to Mrs. Smith's French Apple Pie made with raisins and confectioners' icing on top.

QUESTION — A faithful New York reader would like a recipe for an old-fashioned strawberry shortcake with a cooked frosting. Also, a recipe for quick cinnamon sticky buns and quick cinnamon swirl bread made without yeast. She would also like a recipe for Devil's food dark chocolate whoopie pies and for applesauce cake made with karo.

QUESTION — Lorraine Bannon, Waymart, would like a recipe for cider sauce to put on ham such as that served by Miller's Restaurant.

QUESTION — A York County reader would like to know how to pasteurize eggs at home.

QUESTION — Karen Hamilton, Mathias, W.V., would like a recipe for pumpkin ice cream and other ice cream recipes for one-half gallon or one gallon ice cream freezers.

QUESTION — Wakneta Wingert, Carlisle, wanted a recipe for coconut Easter eggs that doesn't take confectionery sugar but is more like a Mound's candy bar.

QUESTION — D.R. Newsom, Copperstown, N.Y., would like a recipe for moon pies.

QUESTION — Linda Ludwig, Reading, would like recipes for blueberry and cinnamon raisin bagels, and an apple tart with syrup topping like those sold by Ruppert's Bakery at the Leesport Auction years ago.

ANSWER — A reader from Dayton, Va., wanted to know how to char-boil chicken breast that tastes like Shady Maple Restaurant's. Thanks to Mrs. Ivan Huber, East Earl, who writes that char-boiled chicken breast can be bought at Weaver's Outlet Store located in New Holland, Ephrata, Manheim, and Lancaster or at any Sam's Club. That's where she purchases hers. The chicken only needs to be reheated and may be served on a bed of rice.

ANSWER — A Narvon reader wanted a recipe for macadamia cookies. Thanks to B. Light, Lebanon, for sending several.

Chunky Macadamia Nut White Chocolate Cookies

2 cups all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup unsalted butter, slightly softened
½ cup vegetable shortening
¾ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 large egg
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
8-ounces white chocolate chips
7-ounces whole salted macadamia nuts

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly grease baking sheets. Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, and salt. Set aside. In a large mixer, beat butter and shorting until lightened; add sugars, beat until fluffy and smooth.

Beat in egg and vanilla. Stir in dry ingredients. Fold in white chocolate and whole nuts. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls 2½ -inches apart; flatten top of cookie slightly.

Place in center of oven, bake 8 to 9 minutes until lightly browned. Remove from oven. Let stand 2 to 3 minutes, transfer to cooling rack.

Macadamia Nut Chocolate Chip Cookies

½ cup unsalted butter, softened
⅓ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
⅓ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup macadamia nuts, finely chopped
7½ -ounces semi-sweet chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cream butter and sugars, beat in egg and vanilla. Sift together and mix in flour, baking soda, and salt. Stir in nuts and chocolate chips. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls, 2-inches apart on lightly greased baking sheet.

Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until cookies are golden brown. Remove from oven. Cool 2-3 minutes before removing from baking sheets to wire rack to cool completely. Makes approximately 4½ dozen cookies.

ANSWER — Lisa Collura, Holtwood, wanted a recipe to make angel cream doughnuts. Thanks to Carrie Green, Ashland, for sending a recipe that she has used for more than 30 years and had been passed down through the family for about 100 years. Lisa promises that whomever makes them will think they are heavenly.

Angel Food Doughnuts

½ cup sour cream
½ cup sour milk
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspon vanilla
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups flour or enough to make a soft dough

Beat cream and sour milk together until foamy. Add sugar and beat again. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla. Sift 2 cups flour with the other dry ingredients and add to the first mixture. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Knead lightly. If possible, let stand at least one hour before rolling out ½ -inch thick. Cut with doughnut cutters and fry in deep fat at 385 degrees.

Some let it set the night before and bake the next morning. I never did. I bake it the same day after it sets one hour.

Sauteed Dandelion Blossoms

2 cups dandelion blossoms
⅔ cups cracker crumbs
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons milk

Combine egg and milk. Dip flowers first into egg mixture, then into cracker crumbs. Saute in oil for one minute on each side. Serve hot. Serves 3 or 4.

ANSWER — D. Newsom, N.Y., would like jam and jelly recipes made with flowers. Thanks to Clark E. Derr, Manheim, for sending a recipe, which, he writes, can be used with any non-poisonous blossoms such as violets, honeysuckle, rosa rugosa petals, or even unsprayed fruit tree blossoms.

Dandelion Jelly

Gather two quarts of fully open dandelion blossoms early in the morning while still damp with dew. Deposit these blossoms in a kettle with one quart of water and boil three minutes. Strain through a cloth to remove all bits of blossom. You should have three cups liquid; if necessary, add water to make three cups. Combine this liquid with one package of Sure Jell and bring to a boil; add one tablespoon of lemon extract and four and one half cups sugar. Bring to a rolling boil for three and one half minutes, then seal in sterilized jars.

MACARONI AND CHEESE PIE

2¼ cups shredded cheddar cheese, divided
1 cup uncooked elbow macaroni
4 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
2¼ cups milk
⅓ cup biscuit baking mix
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease a 10-inch, deep-dish pie plate. If you don't have a deep 10-inch plate, use a 9x9-inch pan.

Combine 2 cups cheese and the macaroni; sprinkle into the dish. Save ½ cup cheese and beat remaining ingredients in blender for 15 seconds or in bowl with mixer 1 minute. Pour over cheese mixture in pan. Bake for about 40 minutes or until knife inserted into center comes out clean.

Sprinkle with remaining ½ cup cheese; put back in oven for 2 minutes. Cool 10 minutes and cut into wedges or pieces.

This recipe is easy to prepare and you don't have to cook the macaroni first.

It has been a busy spring after such a snowy winter!

Just hunted my 1966 diary to see what our family was doing the week of June 1st. It certainly is quite different from our lives today.

June 1 — Nancy at rehearsal for graduation. Sold peas for 45¢ a quart and store then sold them for $1.38 a quart. Allen got parts in Lancaster for machinery. I hoed garden and Jeffrey rototilled. Allen and youngest at the doctor.

June 2 — My father recovering from a heart attack. Children left in four shifts this morning. I put houseplants in the garden and stored sweaters in mothballs. Allen helped a neighbor take clutch out of his tractor. He put silage on a wagon for hungry cows that got into newly planted corn field.

June 3 — Nancy got all A's on her report card again. She is sewing her prom dress and was upset with the style that the hairdresser chose for her. The boys baled 250 bales of hay. Our boys and a neighbor boy camped in our meadow and the cows were nosey and bumped the tent.

June 4 — Kenneth plowed all morning. I waxed the floor and spend $4.25 at the grocery store for shoestrings and adhesive tape plus food items. Nancy works at a drive-in near our home and Kenneth babysat from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. Allen and the two oldest boys drove to Chester County but missed the sale of beehives. Philip had practice for a program at church.

June 5 — We all went to church and Sunday School. Nancy didn't like my new dress. Jeffrey took care of two-and-one-half year old Cindy when we went to baccalaureate at eight o'clock.

June 6 — Started washing late as I picked 14 quart of sugar peas first. I phoned neighbors and sold them. Baler broke for Allen. My mother went along to Nancy's graduation.

June 7 — I starched the wash (I don't do that now). Allen went for parts and worked on the tractors. Jeffrey ran 660 yard dash faster then anyone in his class. Judy stopped taking piano lessons as she really hates to practice. I dug hundreds of plantain weeds from the front yard.

It surely was an active lifestyle with six children all going different directions.

Emily Metz Wears Huntingdon Dairy Tiara

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

JUNIATA (Huntingdon Co.) — Emily Metz of Allensville was crowned Huntingdon County's new dairy princess in a pageant recently held at the Juniata Valley Elementary School. The only contestant for the crown, Emily presented her skit and speech as part of the evening program.

Emily Metz is the daughter of Larry and Brucette Metz. Emily spends a great deal of time after school and on weekends working on her parent's dairy farm. Emily's school and community activities include Huntingdon Area High School Chamber Singers, Huntingdon County Chorus Festival, Ag in the Classroom presenter, National Honor Society, president of Huntingdon County 4-H County Council, 4-H Lamb Club, and Teen Leader. Emily is a member of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Allensville. She served as last year's alternate dairy princess.

Huntingdon County Dairy Promotion president Tom Eberle welcomed the crowd. James Palmer, agricultural education instructor at the Huntingdon Area High School, served as emcee.

Crystal Couch passes the Huntingdon County Dairy Princess crown to Emily Metz of Allensville.

ANY JOB, ANY PLACE, ANY TIME

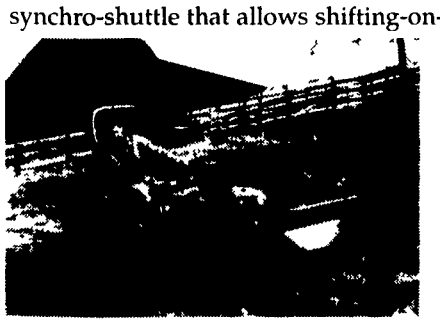
When not just any tractor will do, see the new Kubota B-Series or Grand L models at your local Kubota dealer.

Let them show you how a new B-Series, or the innovative Grand L-Series, can be the tractor for you in a variety of jobs, places or seasons.

Both the new B's and Grand L's feature Kubota's state-of-the-art E-TVCS diesel engines that deliver more power, with cleaner emissions. These tractors are designed for noticeably lower noise and vibration, while rear and mid-PTO's ensure that you will be able to use your Kubota B- or Grand L-Series tractor for all the jobs you do all year 'round.

The all new 13-18 PTO HP B-Series models give you bigger tractor features, in a compact tractor size. 2 or 4WD, power steering, optional Bi-Speed turn and hydrostatic transmission. The new sleek design enhances operator visibility and ease of operation, without sacrificing the rugged dependability you expect from a Kubota.

The Grand L-Series has a choice of transmissions: the new fully synchronized main transmission with synchro-shuttle that allows shifting-on-the-go through the 4 main gears, or the new GST (Glide Shift Transmission) which allows shifting-on-the-go through all 8 speeds. Both run smoothly and efficiently with the new larger diameter capacity clutch. A roomy operator deck is ISO-mounted to greatly reduce vibration. Tilt wheel, power steering and high back seat add to operator comfort.



Take a look today at Kubota's new B- or Grand L-Series for any job, any place at any time!

Slurping Ice Cream, Milking Cows At Dairy Festival

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

WARREN CENTER (Bradford Co.) — Kids of all ages celebrated the first day of June Dairy Month by traveling to Northeast Bradford County to participate in the annual dairy festival. Perfect sunny, but not too hot, weather painted the perfect backdrop for the day's festivities.

A parade was the first event on the agenda. Stuffed cows, cardboard cows, and cow crazy people graced almost every entry. Also participating in the parade were county officials, fire companies, a marching band and of course, the 1995 Dairy Royalty, Jodi Colton and her first runner-up, Ellen Keeney and the 1996 Bradford County Dairy Princess Contestants, Stacey Mattocks, Robin Wilson and Julia Wanck.

After lots of chicken barbecue, burgers, hot dogs, and ice cream was consumed, the day's festivities continued with a milking contest. The 1995 Dairy Princess challenged the three contestants for the first round of the milking contest, only to be out-milked by contestant Julia Wanck and contestant Robin Wilson. After the royalty had their opportunity to show their skill, the public was invited to take a turn.

Next on the agenda was the ice cream eating contest. All willing participants placed their hands behind their backs and their faces in the bowl of ice-cold vanilla and raced until they were finished. Everyone had fun while watching the best ice cream eaters dig in.

The seat of a pedal tractor was one of the favorite spots for many children at the event. Even before any competition, children ran from seat to seat trying to see which was the most powerful. Even with all the activity, many of the people who turned out for the day's events made it into the evening to attend the pageant where the 1996 Bradford County Dairy Princess and her court were named.

WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Mom dogs could adopt another animal, like a pig or kitten, but the chances of it happening are pretty slim.
Most mothering animals develop what our veterinarian friends at Ohio State call maternal instinct — a feeling that moms get to naturally care for their babies. The amount of maternal instinct a mother has depends of the species of animal. Baby dogs and pigs need their mom to care for them a lot, while other animals — like quail or guinea pigs — are more independent and could fend for themselves right away if they had to. Animal moms with youngsters that need a lot of attention turn their maternal instincts on high and would be more likely to take in another little one.
Knowing about this mothering instinct comes in handy at zoos. Say a gazelle won't take care of its baby for some reason. Zoo keepers may put the baby gazelle with a dairy cow instead. The dairy cow adopts the gazelle and raises it just fine.
Mothering instincts help moms take care of their kids. And in extreme cases, mothering instincts convince animals to adopt — just like in the movie Babe!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

Princess Speaks Several Languages — Including Dairy

ANDY ANDREWS

RUSSELLVILLE (Chester Co.) — Sarah Laffey thought she was prepared.

The former Chester County dairy maid, as a Rotary Club exchange student to Europe in 1994-1995, spoke Finnish, Swedish, and Spanish fluently. She could also speak Russian and German.

Sarah, then a junior at Octorara High School, had studied and prepared for the venture to new lands. She took along slides of her reign as a dairy maid.

But after she stepped off the bus in Stockholm, Sweden, she was ready to panic, because it all seemed so unfamiliar. . . .

So Sarah looked around and found a kind-looking lady, tapped her on the shoulder, and asked for some help.

The county's first dairy maid in 1992, Sarah, 18, was crowned the 1996 Chester County dairy princess last week during the Russellville Grange Dairy Night at the grange meetinghouse in Russellville.

The Octorara senior, who graduated last Sunday from high school, lives with her parents Michael and Kim Laffey in Cochranville. Her dad and uncles are in partnership with her grandfather, Norman Laffey. They milk more than 580 Holstein cows and crop farm 3,300 acres.

Because of her experience as an exchange student to Finland in her junior year in high school, Sarah said she plans to study international business at the University of Delaware.

Sarah said she plans to get a good education and perhaps serve as a translator in her career. Part of the work as an exchange student involved showing slides of Chester County dairy events — a real challenge, she said, because Finland is made up of mostly small dairies, "with 50-60 cows at most," she said.

When she showed slides of her experiences as a Chester dairy maid, the Finnish audiences were surprised at how large American dairy farms were.

Mostly, Sarah enjoyed the "opportunity to meet new people," she said, although it was somewhat of a challenge to learn the traditions and cultures of European countries.

"It took a long time for me to learn to adjust to the language," she said. The learning process took about eight months.

She misses Sweden and would like to return someday, perhaps in a career capacity.

"Sweden is beautiful and the people are different. They're more willing to help you," she said.

As a dairy maid, she enjoyed educating people about the benefits of milk and about how dairy farms operate. She enjoys meeting new people "and learning something new and different" about cultures and taking home those experiences.

At school, she was involved in track, chorus, yearbook, newspaper, and prom court.

At the coronation, four dairy maids were selected — Crystal Kolb, Erica Lloyd, Julie Sollenberger, and Michelle Windle.

Crystal, 14, is the daughter of LeRoy and Sara Kolb, Spring City. When not involved with her own cows, she spends time with friends and listens to music. She will be involved in the Penn State 4-H Dairy Bowl this year. In her spare

Mandy Stewart Reigns In Mifflin

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — What does Jack's adventures up the Bean Stalk have to do with dairy product promotion?

Plenty, according to Mandy Stewart, Mifflin County's new Dairy Princess!

Drinking lots of milk, Mandy explained in her skit presentation during the dairy princess competition, gave Jack the strength to climb the bean stalk, run from the gaint and chop down the bean stalk. Unfortunately, Jack had sold his cow for the magic beans. Now, Mandy concluded, Jack wants his cow back because good strong muscles and bones from drinking milk are worth more than golden coins and a singing harp.

Mandy's skit presentation helped her win the title of Mifflin County Dairy Princess at the pageant recently at Saint John's Lutheran Church in Belleville. A large crowd turned out to see three girls compete for the title. Each contestant presented a speech and a skit and were asked the same impromptu question

Mandy Stewart, 19, is the daughter of John Stewart of Lewistown and Lucretia Keister of Bellefonte. She graduated from Lewistown Area High School in 1995 and is now a student on the dean's list at Penn State, majoring in elementary education. A member of the Vira 4-H Dairy Club, Mandy owns and shows several dairy cows which she houses at Goss's dairy farm in Vira.

Marlene Smith of Belleville and Bridget Gearhart of McVeytown will serve as dairy princess alternates.

Marlene Smith, 16, is the daughter of Martin J. and Mary L. Smith. She is a sophomore at Indian Valley High School where she is a member of the German Club, the German student forum, the science club, and soccer team. She's also a junior librarian and a member of the Sacred Heart youth group.

Seventeen-year-old Bridget Gearhart is the daughter of Donald and Eileen Gearhart. A junior at Mount Union High School, Bridget plans to attend West Chester University to major in music and elementary education. She is active in many high school organizations, is president of her church youth group, and served as an alternate dairy princess last year.

Mifflin County's 1196/96 dairy princess Diane Yoder gave her farewell speech during the program. She made 183 appearances to promote dairy products, including 63 school presentations. Diane is a sales representative for Fisher Honey, Lewistown.

Natalie Byler, Candace Glick, Laura Peachey, all of Belleville, Megan Goss of Vira, and Bethany Wingert of McVeytown will serve as dairy maids. Alisha Glick of Belleville, Ashley Ranck and Stephanie Meinnert, both of Lewistown, will serve as Dairy Misses.

Anyone interested in knowing mower about the dairy princess program can contact the committee chairperson Mrs. Ed (Cheryl) Glick of Belleville.

Earlier in the month, Mary L. Smith entered her Black Walnut Cake with Buttercream icing in a dairy bake-off competition. Her real dairy recipe follows.

Black Walnut Cake

⅔ cup butter
1⅔ cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2⅔ cup flour
3 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1⅓ cup black walnuts

Mix all ingredients together and bake for one hour at 300 degrees F in a greased and floured 9"x13" cake pan.

Buttercream Icing

¾ cup butter
2-3 tablespoons solid vegetable shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups confectioners sugar (add 1 cup at a time
4 tablespoons milk

Blend butter, shortening, vanilla and salt together until creamy. Add sugar one cup at a time. Add milk to thin. Blend all until smooth. Spread on cake that has cooled.

Virginia Smith (seated) takes a bite of her mother's Black Walnut Cake with Buttercream Icing — an entry in Mifflin County's Dairy Bake-Off Contest. Her mother, Mary Smith (standing), is joined by Mifflin County's 1995/96 Dairy Princess Diane Yoder.

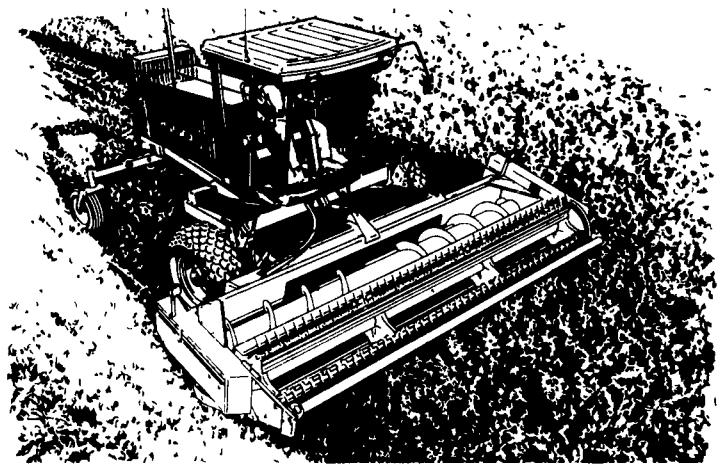
RETAIN THE QUALITY

New Holland invented the Haybine® mower-conditioner, and no one has ever made a better machine for retaining feed quality in the hay you grow. A full-width flotation header delivers the hay into rubber intermeshing rolls big enough to handle heavy, down, and tangled crop with ease.

Swath or windrow, choose a genuine Haybine mower-conditioner and save valuable time while you put up your best hay ever.



100-HP HAY SLAYER

When you need the best because you grow the best, don't settle for anything but New Holland's premier windrower, the 100 hp Model 2550. Easy to maintain and adjust, this high-capacity self-propelled windrower has a two-speed transmission for versatility and the same wide rubber intermeshing rolls found in all New Holland hay conditioners.

TROUBLE-FREE HAYMAKING

You don't sacrifice a bit of quality when you buy the affordable nine-foot Model 488 Haybine® mower-conditioner. This trouble-free hay conditioner has a clean-cutting header, rubber conditioning rolls, no-tools adjustments, and a choice of swath or windrow.

SMOOTH CUTTING, NO SHAKES

Cut those hard-to-reach places with the Model 456 trailing mower. It tilts below horizontal so you can cut in ditches, and it also tilts 35 degrees above horizontal to cut banks. Offset wheels give the "456" precise tracking and a smooth, clean swath. Choose either a seven or nine-foot cutterbar. Either way, the "456" is easy to hookup and a pleasure to use.

FLAN

2 cans evaporated milk
1 can whole or 2 percent milk
⅓ cup brown sugar (enough to suit your taste)
6 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
Dash of cinnamon, if preferred

Mix eggs, sugar, and milk and vanilla in blender for 2 minutes.

Pour into containers, set in pan of very hot water, filled to within ½ inch of the top of the container.

Bake at 350 degrees for one hour or until set.

My husband Luther and I live near York Springs in the house where I was born. We have been married 41 years.

We farmed there for 30 years. Now we just truck farm on a few acres, which keeps us very busy in the summer.

My husband is retired and has time to raise sweet corn, green beans, tomatoes, potatoes, and other vegetables.

I am still employed at Dallco Sewing Industry in York Springs, and have been working there 17 years. We have two sons and five grandchildren we both enjoy.

I enjoy the recipes each week and clip a lot of them. My friend Kay and I are both in Adams County Farm Women II and like to share our recipes with others. We are both cow-nuts.

CHICKEN AND BISCUIT CASSEROLE

Chicken and sauce:
¼ cup butter
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup flour
¾ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
3 cups cooked, chopped chicken

Melt butter and saute onion until soft. Add remaining ingredients except the flour. Mix flour with some water to make it paste-like. Heat ingredients and thicken with flour/water mixture. Pour into a 9x13-inch casserole dish.

Biscuits:
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
¾ cup milk
1 cup cheddar cheese

Mix everything but cheese. roll onto a floured surface. Spread cheese on top. Roll up like a jelly roll. Cut into 12 slices and put on top of chicken/sauce mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Can also freeze after baking.

This recipe was given to me by a former neighbor, Sylvia Good. I take this recipe to new mothers and anyone who needs a meal.

I am the wife of Jay Marvin Herr for the past 10 years. We sold our farm equipment and herd of Jersey cows 1½ years ago. My husband now works for a feed company, White Oak Mills, and enjoys seeing all the many farms and families on his job as a driver working second shift.

We have been blessed with three very busy boys: Jay Lamar, 9, who will be in 3rd grade at Lancaster Christian School; Joseph Paul, 5; and David Hans, 19 months old.

I enjoy gardening, cooking, and baking, in addition to going for walks, helping at school and at our church, Pequea Brethren In Christ. My three boys keep me busy, to say the least.

DRIED BEEF MACARONI

1 can mushroom soup
1½ cups milk
1 cup cheddar cheese, sharp and cut up
Medium size onion, chopped
1 cup uncooked macaroni

Stir all together and add ¼ pound dried beef, cut up. Cover and refrigerate 24 hours or overnight.

Our family lives in Cogan Station. We have three children: Seth, Sara, and Rachel.

We live on a dairy farm and milk 55 Holsteins. We raise corn, alfalfa, soybeans, wheat, barley, and pumpkins.

AUNT GLENNA'S SINFUL BARS

1 box lemon cake mix
½ cup butter, melted
1 egg
⅔ cup chopped pecans
1 cup chocolate chips
8 ounces cream cheese
1 box confectioners' sugar
2 eggs

Mix together cake mix, melted butter, and one egg. Spread in bottom of a greased 9x13-inch pan. Sprinkle nuts and chocolate chips over top. Mix together cream cheese, confectioners' sugar, and two eggs. Spread on top of nuts and chips. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool and cut in bars.

For variety, use any flavor cake mix or use different flavor chips (coconut with chips is good).

My husband Bobbie has lived on this farm in the heart of the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia for more than 60 years. We operate a small dairy with about 40 cows and 50-60 replacements. We crop between 80-100 acres, including corn, small grain, and alfalfa for haylage.

My Glick family members love family gatherings. It was at one of these that a niece named this recipe.

ORANGE SALAD

3-ounce package orange Jell-O
1 cup boiling water
2 cups miniature marshmallows
3-ounce package cream cheese
1 small can frozen orange juice
1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
¼ cup sugar
1 can mandarin oranges
1 pound small curd cottage cheese
1 banana, mashed
1½ cup whipped cream topping

Mash banana and drain oranges. Cream cottage cheese and cream cheese. Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water; add frozen orange juice and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, pineapple, oranges, and banana. Add cheeses and marshmallows. Mix well. Put in refrigerator until mixture starts thickening. Stir 3 or 4 times, mixing well. Fold in cream topping and refrigerate.

My husband and I are retired and live on approximately 10 acres in the northwestern area of Lehigh County. We enjoy gardening, traveling, and collecting antique gas engines and tractors.

We look forward to reading Lancaster Farming each week.

BAKED OATMEAL

Mix:
¾ cup oil
1½ cups brown sugar
3 eggs
Add:
4½ cups oatmeal
¾ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups fruit

Place mixture in two 7x11-inch greased cake pans. Bake for 40 minutes in 350-degree oven.

We live on a 90-acre dairy farm in Bedford County, right behind the small town of Woodbury. We milk 58 cows and have about 50 replacement heifers.

We have three girls: Annie, 4, Joyce, 3, and Rebekah, 1. I also have a large garden, so between the children and all the other work, there's never a dull moment! We love it on the farm. We also enjoy Lancaster Farming.

CHEESE SCALLOPED POTATOES

6 cups cooked, shredded potatoes
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons onion
3 cups milk
2 tablespoons flour
Pepper
1½ cups Velveeta cheese

Cook and shred potatoes. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, and milk by melting butter in saucepan. Then stir in flour and ½ of milk. Stir rapidly to remove lumps; add the rest of the milk. Stir until thickened. Add seasonings and 1½ cups diced cheese. Cook until cheese melts. Put potatoes in crockpot and pour sauce over top. Cook on low for 4 hours. Optional: sprinkle with paprika and cook on high for 2 hours.

I enjoy the recipes in Lancaster Farming!

FROSTED BANANA BARS

½ cup butter, softened
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1½ cups mashed ripe bananas
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
Pinch salt
Frosting:
½ cup butter
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
4 cups confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla extract

In a mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs, bananas, and vanilla. Combine flour, baking soda, and salt; add to creamed mixture and mix well. Pour into a well-greased 15x10x1-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes or until bars test done. Cool. For frosting, cream butter and cream cheese in mixing bowl. Gradually add confectioners' sugar and vanilla; beat well. Spread over bars. Yield 3 dozen.

POTATO SOUP

5 cups chopped, peeled potatoes
¼ cup chopped onion
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ teaspoon dried parsley
3 tablespoons flour
2½ cups milk
4 chicken bouillon cubes

Combine onion, potatoes, and water in boiling pan. Bring to a boil. Add bouillon cubes, parsley, pepper, and salt. Cook, covered, 20 minutes or until tender.

Combine 1 cup of milk and flour. Add to soup. Simmer until thick, stirring constantly.

Hello, Lancaster Farming readers. I live near Quentin in Lebanon County with my husband Dean and son Douglas, who will be 1 year old.

We are a June Is Dairy Month family as all of our birthdays are in June.

We hope to someday have our own farm, where we can raise our children as we were raised. In the meantime, we enjoy our old home along the Snitz Creek.

This recipe is one my favorites to make on cold winter nights. Enjoy!

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 pound ground beef
Chopped onion to taste
⅔ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1⅔ cup milk
¾ cup biscuit mix
Pizza sauce
1 cup shredded cheese

Brown meat and onion; stir in salt. Put in baking dish. Beat eggs, milk, and biscuit mix until smooth. Pour onto meat. Bake at 25 minutes, then top with sauce and cheese. Bake eight more minutes.

We like this as much as pizza and it is easier to make.

time, Crystal helps her mother at the flower shop.

Erica, 14, is a student at Owen J. Roberts. She is the daughter of Ron and Cindy Lloyd, who operate a farm. Erica owns and shows Jerseys, Holsteins, and Brown Siwss, and is president of the Tri-Community 4-H Club. At school, she is a member of the orchestra and band. She has begun work experience toward her future goals of becoming a veterinarian. She works part-time at Ryerss' Horse Farm for Aged Equines.

Julie, 14, is the daughter of David and Holly Sollenberger of Spring City. She is busy throughout the year, showing her own Guernseys and Jerseys at various fairs. Her 8th grade year at Owen J. Roberts included 4-H, State Guernsey Dairy Quiz Team, band, student council, and lacrosse. She's also a teen leader in her youth group.

Michelle "Shelly" lives on a 250-acre dairy farm in the Coatesville area with her parents, Don and Nancy Windle. She is a student at the Octorara Middle School, where she plays flute and bassoon in the band. Field hockey is her favorite sports activity, where she plays center/halfback. Shelly belongs to the church, youth group, and 4-H. Being an accomplished 4-H seamstress, she has won various awards in fashion revue. This is her first year as a dairy maid.

Karen Inhof, 1995 dairy princess, spoke about her memorable events as the dairy princess before crowning Sarah Laffey.

Charlene Ranck, 1981 Chester County and state dairy princess, spoke about the importance of the dairy promotion program to the industry and to those who serve in it. She said the dairy maids "will develop in ways they have never dreamed of before."

Robin Wilson Reigns As Bradford County Dairy Princess

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

WARREN CENTER (Bradford Co.) — After a day packed with fun, Robin Wilson, of Rome took home the biggest prize as she was crowned the 1996 Bradford County Dairy Princess.

An extremely excited Wilson could hardly believe her ears as Master of Ceremonies Senator Roger Madigan announced her name. Her smile could not be contained as she walked to the center of the stage of the Northeast Bradford Elementary School to receive her crown and banner.

"I'm enthused," said a thrilled Wilson, "and I just can't believe it. I want to scream!"

A junior at Northeast Bradford High School, 17-year-old Robin is a very active student. Her activities range from National Honor Society to the Envirothon team to Cross Country running. Some of her favorite activities include showing her cows through 4-H and FFA and working on the family farm, Wilson's Dairy, where she owns 20 of the 135 head of Holsteins. Wilson is the daughter of Gordon and Mabel Wilson.

Selected as alternates for the coming year are Julie Wanck and Stacey Mattocks. Wanck, the daughter of Merle and Margaret Wanck, of Towanda, is also an active high school junior. She is a member of SADD, the Forensics team, plays softball and is on the track team.

Mattocks, of Troy, is the daughter of David and Gail Mattocks. The family raises 175 Holsteins on their 300 acre Century Farm. Besides helping on the family's Laurel Park Farm, Mattocks also enjoys singing, plays basketball and collects frogs. She is a junior at Troy High School.

All three contestants underwent interviews and were observed throughout the day and evening by judges Carolyn Donnelly, of Tioga County, N.Y.; Cathy Young, of Cortland County, N.Y.; and Carolyn Moyer, of Tioga County.

In addition, they were required to present a skit for the audience and answer an impromptu question. Wilson's enthusiasm in promoting the dairy industry came through loud and clear as she transformed herself into Little Red Riding Hood for her presentation geared for elementary school students. In her story, Wilson said she met the "dullest eyed, scraggliest haired wolf" she had ever seen, on her way to Grandma's house. When she arrived at Grandma's house, she noticed that her grandmother had bright eyes, shiny hair and stood up straight. Her grandmother said all the good healthy characteristics were from drinking milk all her life. With the help of her grandmother, Wilson introduced the wolf to real dairy products so he too could have bright eyes and shiny hair.

"Dairy Products on Parade" was the title of Julia Wanck's presentation. "Attention!" shouted Julia Wanck, as she tried to lead a parade of junk food along the parade route. But when the imitation products would not participate, they were replaced one by one with real dairy products that were up to the task of marching along the long parade route.

Posing as a sales person, Stacey Mattocks confessed that she wasn't trying to sell a new product, but was trying to reintroduce a product that has been around for a long time — milk. In her skit, she praised the benefits of drinking milk and eating real dairy products.

Answering "the question" was also a highlight of the evening. In response to the question, "If you are selected as Dairy Princess, what qualities and knowledge will you gain that will enrich your life"? Each contestant highlighted different parts of their lives that would be touched, from Stacey's answer about getting to know herself better, to Robin's which included being able to share more knowledge with her future children, to Julia's which focused on her increased ability to speak in public.

As the evening drew to a close, Jodi Colton prepared to do what she described as the hardest thing she ever had to do.

"In everything there is a season. . . Tonight is my night, my time to say thank you very much for giving me the opportunity to live out my dream," she said.

The evening ended with an announcement by Arlene Wilbur that she will no longer be serving as the Bradford County Dairy Princess Coordinator but will be moving on to be the assistant for the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services.

Master Gardeners Set Tour

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Master Gardeners are presenting a garden tour on Saturday, June 22 from 10 a.m.to 4 p.m. The public is invited and there is no charge.

• Verna Beiler, 479 Queen Road, Gordonville. Charming 200-year-old homestead nestled in Amish country featuring established perennial beds and a new formal herb garden.

• John and Carol Bernard, 1917 Larchmont Lane, Manheim Township. Informal shade garden, wildflowers; a fountain and small statuary nestled among peonies, daylilies, perennials, and summer annuals.

• Mary Bitting, 434 West Walnut Street in the Historic District of Lancaster City. A charming old shade garden requiring very little maintenance. An iron gate leads to a vacation area for house plants, a wisteria arbor over the kitchen door, and blueberry bushes loaded with fruit. The raised bed was filled with soil dug from the foundation of the brick path. Bulbs, wildflowers, and perennials bloom from early spring to fall.

• Barb Chisolm, 25 Hilltop Road, Lititz. Many flower beds of perennials and annuals and a small vegetable garden.

• Michael and Mickey Haag, 1344 Stillwater Road, Manheim Township. Young gardens of sun-drenched sweeping beds; ornamental shrubs. perennials, annuals; shrub roses off the back door patio; daylilies, and newly planted carpet roses along the front of the house.

• Gertrude and Eric Habegger, 33 Wolf Road, Akron. A unique orchard of espalier apples and peaches; many varieties of apples grafted onto a single tree; perennial beds all on less than an acre of land; Eric is an expert on fruit tree grafting.

• Bob and Althea Harding, 240 South Windy Mansion Road, Denver. An empty site eight years ago . . . specialty is flowers for drying; water garden; vegetables; annuals and perennials; composting. Most plants were started from seeds.

• Charles and Pat McClure, 1729 Pioneer Road, West Lampeter Township. Perennials and annuals nestled along a stone wall skirting a slate patio.

• Kim Rineer, 2547 Speckled Drive, Manheim Township. A cottage garden in the front yard; in back a swimming pool engulfed in shrubs, vines, perennials, annuals and bulbs.

• Ken and Debbie Rhinier, 149 East Main Street, Lititz. A garden in the making to attract butterflies and to create a sanctuary with colorful scented perennials and annuals.

• Peg and Fred Walter, 525 Wabash Road, Ephrata (close to Stephens). A garden for everyone — greenhouse, newly built pond, a Nittany Lion Bed, raspberries, blueberries, strawberries, half acre of vegetables, perennials, annuals, shrubs.

MAY 1995 AIM IN AN ALL MILK PROTEIN MILK REPLACER

LESS SCOURS
BETTER MIXING
FASTER GAINS

We have been using Aim for 8 months and I have been very pleased with the results. The calves find it very palatable from the first bottle. It mixes very easily. (No Lumps) I find the calves putting on weight and flesh at a very good rate. I also see problems with scours as minimal.

Lights Shine Way To Improved Fall Lambing

DES MOINES, Iowa — Sheep may produce a more even flow of lambs to market by keeping the same hours as Jay Leno and David Letterman, according to South Dakota research.

The traditional image of lambs gamboling in the spring sunshine presents a unique challenge to the sheep industry, noted South Dakota State University Sheep Researcher Lowell Slyter. He noted that most lambs are born in the spring, making the supply of lamb to market subject to seasonal cycles.

"Sheep rely on a number of environmental cues including day length to trigger reproductive behavior. That means they are seasonal breeders and that puts most of our product on the market at a specific time of the year," he said.

Researchers have tried for years to override those environmental cues with hormones and other treatments, but have been stymied by unacceptably low reproductive rates and the unavailability of acceptable hormone products.

Slyter and his colleagues decided that perhaps the best way to trigger reproductive behavior was as simple as flipping a light switch. Researchers kept lights on in sheep pens until 1 a.m. in December and January, then exposed the sheep only to natural daylight beginning in February.

"That switch from long days to short days triggered breeding behavior that typically occurs naturally in the fall," Slyter said. About 84 percent of the ewe lambs exposed to the light treatment became pregnant in the latest year of Slyter's study. That compares to only 57 percent of sheep that were exposed to natural light only. "That 84 percent pregnancy rate for ewe lambs is very good even for a spring lambing season," Slyter said.

Ewes exposed to the light treatment also gained more weight and were heavier at breeding, a factor that may also contribute to the success of the program. Slyter said, noting that a heavier weight at breeding is correlated with a higher lambing rate.

"We also saw an average of 1.36 lambs born to treated ewes compared to only 1.2 lambs for untreated sheep," Slyter said, "That tells us that the treated sheep are also having a higher ovulation rate. Typically, we'd expect a lower ovulation rate than that for sheep producing fall lambs."

Slyter noted that producers must use all of the management techniques that they would use in a successful spring lambing system to make the most of this fall lambing system.

"This system should be easy for producers to implement, but a key will be to develop a schedule and stick to it," he said.

Graduate student Dana Hanson presented the results of the research to more than 1,000 researchers, extension specialists, and industry representatives at the recent joint Midwest meeting of the American Society of Animal Science and the American Dairy Science Association in Des Moines.

Slyter said the fall lambing system holds other benefits as well. He notes that sheep can be bred at a younger age. That means any animals that don't become pregnant can be sold as market lambs rather than as lower priced cull sheep.

Additional research is planned to fine-tune the system. Slyter says researchers also are looking at other factors that could improve fall lambing systems. "We're also studying genetics. We should be able to select breeding stock for improved fall lambing," he said.

To Farmland Protection Board

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced the appointment of G. Warren Elliott of Chambersburg, Franklin County, to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board.

The board is responsible for oversight of the state Farmland Protection Program.

"Mr. Elliott's understanding of local government and the community, combined with his interest in preservation, will be valuable as he serves on the board," Brosius said.

Gov. Ridge appointed Elliott to a four-year term that will end in April 2000.

Elliott, 41, was appointed to the Franklin County Board of Commissioners in 1987. He was elected to the position in 1995 and serves as chairman.

He also serves as director of the Franklin County Conservation District and the Franklin County Area Development Corporation. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and Franklin County Heritage.

Elliott has served as assistant executive director of South Central Community Action Programs, Inc., a $2.5 million nonprofit corporation serving Franklin and Adams counties.

From 1989 to 1993, Elliott taught state and local government at Shippensburg University.

For 15 years, Elliott has been a regional representative with General Code Publishers, a leading municipal legal publisher.

SUSTAINABLE SWINE PRODUCTION

Beginning this summer, Penn State Cooperative Extension embarks on a program to assist pork producers in the production of a residue-free product without risking the environment or the profitability of their operations. The program is entitled Sustainable Swine Production and includes four components in which you can participate:

- Improving Percent Lean
- Implementation of Pork Quality Assurance
- Dietary Modification to Reduce Nutrient Excretion
- Environmental Quality Assurance

Producers who successfully enroll in any of the components benefit from improved productivity and potentially enhance the quality of their product. Each producer will receive a certificate of accommodation for participating in the program and, if they agree, will be recognized publicly.

Penn State Extension Swine Specialist Ken Kephart and your local extension agent are prepared to work with you on all components of the Sustainable Swine Production Program.

In Lancaster County, Mark Tracy, extension summer assistant, and myself, will be contacting producers to explain the program. Mark, a junior in animal bioscience at Penn State, recently attended the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, Iowa and received extensive training in the Pork Quality Assurance Program. He has also visited Hatfield Quality Meats to become familiar with their weight and grade payment program and visited hog farms with concerns regarding odor reduction.

To participate in the program, contact your Penn State Cooperative Extension Office by Dr. Ken Kephart at Penn State University, (814) 863-3671.

Effective Fencing Tips

For effective animal control, wire spacing is more important than fence height. More animals go through and under fences than over them. Proper wire spacing makes your fences more effective.

Regardless of how many wires your fence has, always position one wire at the shoulder height of the animal to be controlled. This is the "nose wire" that your animals see and touch when they approach the fence. Other fence wires should be spaced according to the type of animal: 10 inches-12 inches apart for cattle and horses, and 6 inches-8 inches apart for sheep and goats. The bottom wires should be closer together than the top wires.

Fences taller than 48 inches aren't really necessary. In many countries, livestock fences are seldom more than 42 inches tall. Electric fences can be even lower — 36 inches for cattle and horses, and 30 inches for sheep and goats. Shorter fences also allow closer wire spacing.

When utilizing electric fencing, you can't have too many ground rods. Sometimes one will work, but three is better. When an animal touches the fence, the electricity must travel through the animal into the soil, then through the soil to a ground rod. The current then travels from the ground rod to the fence charger, where the circuit is completed. Only then does the animal feel the shock.

Therefore, the more ground rods, the more electricity gets back to the fence charger. That's why the best ground system consists of three galvanized ground rods, at least six feet deep, spaced 10 feet apart. For best results, install your ground rods where soil moisture is constant. Always use clamps to attach the ground wire to the ground rods. Remember, your electric fence is only as good as its ground system.

Hog Price Patterns

Pork producers know that hog prices have historically fluctuated in cycles, from the long periods which span three to five years, to the short periods which vary season to season. In recent years, many producers have suspected that the price swings have been less dramatic and perhaps less predictable.

Dr. Ken Kephart, Penn State Extension swine specialist, reports the following facts from a University of Nebraska study of monthly hog prices at Omaha from 1975-1994:

- The average price for the 20-year period was $47.17/cwt.
- Lowest prices, on average, have occurred in April ($44.72) and November ($43.85).
- Highest prices were in June ($49.61), July ($50.98), and August ($50.50).
- Average price for a particular month could be predicted most reliably for June, July, and August. Price predictions were least reliable for October and February. This is because the price varied a lot in these latter two months.

Additionally since 1975, market prices peaked every three to four years:

- 1975 — $49.35
- 1978 — $49.41
- 1982 — $56.16
- 1986 & 1987 — $52.34, $52.37 respectively
- 1990 — $55.67
- 1993 — $46.33

Note that the last high price we experienced was in 1993. At $46.33, that was the lowest peak of any recorded in the previous 18 years.

Safety Considerations

PTO shafts, perhaps the best known farm hazard, continue to maim and kill. Advances in shields and housing have reduced the danger on new equipment, yet thousands of old, modified, and unguarded shafts are used every day.

There is no reason to ever go near a powered PTO shaft. Remember these PTO safety points:

- Keep all shields in place
- Avoid loose, baggy clothing, drawstrings, and long hair
- Don't go near engaged PTO shafts.

Electrocutions rank among the hazards that claim farm lives every year. The more obvious incidents include making repairs on electrical equipment without disconnecting the circuit. But unexpected contact with power lines claims victims, too. Raised truck beds, grain augers, and raised tractor loaders can contact power lines with fatal results.

Lightning, too, is a hazard for anyone outdoors during threatening weather. Electrical safety tips on the farm include:

- Keep all farm wiring in good condition
- Disconnect circuits before attempting repairs
- Don't attempt electrical work beyond your abilities
- Avoid contacting power lines with equipment such as grain augers, raised truck beds, or tractor loaders.

SHOWMANSHIP TIPS FOR YOUR LOCAL FAIR

Mark Tracy
Summer Extension Assistant

Summer is here and along with it has come lemonade, swimming pools, and of course the local fair.

With the advent of the local fair, livestock exhibitors will be hastily ensuring that their projects are prepared for exhibition in the show ring.

Seasoned veterans will have become immune, or at least tolerant, of the nervousness that rookies and youngsters will feel as they step into the show ring under the careful scrutiny of the judge as they show their project and demonstrate their showmanship skills. Parents will try to instill the necessary training for showmanship, but nonetheless here are a few tips that all must know or occasionally be reminded of:

- The animal should be free from external and internal parasites and fed at the proper rate so it will demonstrate the proper weight for its age.
- The project should be thoroughly washed and groomed, as well as trained, for the judge looks for signs of care, attention, training, and preparation.
- Enter the show ring promptly, and be sure to look your best. This means no hats, and have your shirt tucked in.
- Always have the proper tools and equipment with you. Steers require a show halter, show stick, and pocket dressing comb, while hogs need a cane, a whip, and a small brush.
- Animals should be under control at all times.
- Know where the judge is at all times.
- Always be courteous to the judge, and do as he, or she asks.
- Never do anything that would distract from another exhibitor's animal.
- Parents should remember not to do any sideline coaching. The only way your children will learn in from experience.
- Most important of all is to remember that winning isn't everything. What's important is that you had fun!

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Corestates Promotes Two Lenders

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Agri-Finance Department of CoreStates Bank, N.A., has recently announced the promotion of two lenders.

R. Ted Bowers has been promoted to vice president responsible for serving the credit needs of agribusiness customers in southeast/central Pennsylvania with primary concentrations in Berks, Lancaster, Lebanon, and Chester counties. He has worked with CoreStates Bank for nine years and has 11 years of agricultural lending experience.

Bowers holds a bachelor's degree from Penn State University in agricultural business management and graduated with honors from the Central Atlantic Advanced School of Banking at Bucknell University. Bowers is involved with the Berks County Extension board of directors and has held the positions of president and treasurer in the past. He also is a member of the Berks County Chamber of Commerce Agri-Business Committee where he has served as the former chairman.

R. Ted Bowers

John J. Mattilio

John J. Mattilio has been promoted to assistant vice president responsible for serving the credit needs of farm and agribusiness customers in Pennsylvania and northern Maryland. He has worked with CoreStates Bank for three years and has a total of nine years of agricultural lending experience.

Mattilio holds two bachelor's degrees from Penn State University in both dairy science and agricultural education.

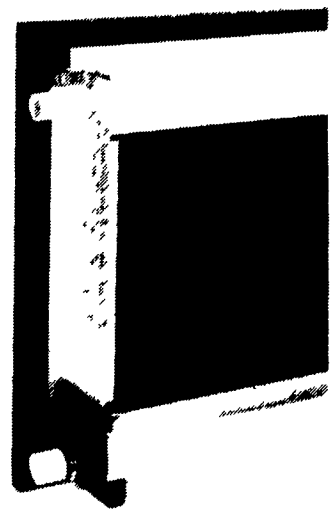
Aerotech Improves Cooling Panels

MASON, Mich. — Aerotech develops exclusive new connector joints and end caps to provide easier installation and reduced space requirements for their AeroCool evaporative cooling panels.

Rubber connectors join the footers on AeroCool panelized cooling modules for continuous pad runs greater that 14 feet. Rubber end caps feature a cutout for an end-mounted drain, eliminating the need for a bottom drain and permitting the mounting of cooling panels closer to the ground. A matching rubber-based sealant makes leak-free installation fast and easy. The new AeroCool panels are available for high-efficiency CELdek® pads and high-airflow, low-humidity MI-T-Cool® pads.

"The record heat of last summer dramatically emphasized the need for effective cooling systems," Bob Mitchell, Aerotech president said. "With these new AeroCool panels, it's now easier than ever to add efficient evaporative cooling to existing as well as new buildings."



New end caps and joints improve Aerotech's AeroCool panelized evaporative cooling system.

Tubes Eliminate Oxygen Movement

WARRENTON, Ore. — Recently updated from Ag-Bag International Limited is the MR5603 Flex-A-Tuber®. Designed for high-moisture or dry round hay bales, the MR5603 enables farmers short on time and manpower to operate it alone.

Using a remote control and an 8 HP motor with hydraulic pump, a farmer can fill a 100-foot Flex-Tube® in minutes. Fitting either 4-foot or 5-foot round bales, the Ag-Bag Flex Tubes® eliminate oxygen movement and help retain nutrient value of the feed. The machine stretches the plastic oversize. Then, the bale push bar slides the bales into the bag, which shrinks down around the bales.

Models are available without the remote control or motor.

Alfa Laval Agri To Integrate, Elevate Core Businesses

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — In a move to further strengthen its position as the leading provider of dairy equipment and supplies in the United States, officials of Alfa Laval Agri, Inc., announced plans to integrate Universal Dairy Equipment, Inc. into its operations and to structure a closer working relationship with West Agro, Inc.

From 1989 until this restructuring, Universal had been a wholly-owned company of Alfa Laval Agri. West Agro, acquired in 1984, will maintain its wholly-owned status.

Integrating Universal's operations into Alfa Laval Agri and the new relationship with West Agro will enable the companies' united dealers to offer a broader range of products and services and react more quickly to the rapidly changing needs of America's dairy producers.

Alfa Laval Agri has a network of 220 dealers in the United States. Universal, with its 100 dealers, had grown to be the nation's fifth largest dairy equipment and supply company. Many of the newly integrated dealers will sell and service both brands, while some will continue as they currently operate, according to Walt Maharay, Alfa Laval Agri's newly appointed executive vice president for sales.

West Agro manufactures and supplies cleaners, sanitizers and related products for agricultural and industrial applications and utilizes a variety of distribution channels in North America. West Agro will now have the opportunity to work in a united fashion with Alfa Laval Agri and Universal dealers in selected dairy markets, but will retain its own identity to continue to supply and service its current agricultural distribution and the industrial side of its business.

Bill Papineau will continue as West Agro's president and will play an instrumental role in the integration process. Employees of Universal will combine with employees of Alfa Laval Agri under a centralized operation. Management of field activities will be coordinated by Maharay to form one united sales force. Management of product development, marketing and sourcing will be headed by Don Calhoun, recently appointed Alfa Laval Agri executive vice president.

Mycogen, DowElanco Form Alliance

PRESCOTT, Wis. — Mycogen Corporation announced that its Mycogen Seeds subsidiary has signed a letter of intent for a collaboration with DowElanco Canada Inc. to investigate and develop high value traits in canola.

"We were discussing this arrangement even before Mycogen entered into a broad strategic alliance with DowElanco in the U.S.," said Carl Eibl, Mycogen's president and chief operating officer. "DowElanco Canada understands the Canadian canola industry and will bring excellent market knowledge and commercial capability to our plant biotechnology and breeding programs."

James Hopkins, vice president and general manager of Mycogen Seeds, described adding canola to Mycogen's existing line of corn, soybean, sunflower, sorghum, and alfalfa products as "a top priority."

"This collaboration will further and accelerate our long-standing efforts to help Canadian canola farmers increase the productivity and value of their crop," said John Oliver, president of DowElanco Canada.

Mycogen is a leader in plant transformation, Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt)-based insect resistance and oil seed technology.

V-Tank Spreaders Redesigned

WEST BEND, Wis. — A new series of Scavenger V-tank spreaders offer improved performance and enhanced durability.

Gehl Scavenger, the original V-tank spreader, has built a well-deserved reputation for delivering unmatched performance in a wide variety of materials. The new Scavenger line takes that performance to the next level with even better spreading patterns in the toughest heavily-bedded manures.

"The Scavenger spreader already had the best basic design in the industry," said Fred Kuhn, Gehl's V-tank spreader project engineer. "We took that design and enhanced performance with a unique new round-core auger."

The new auger features segmented paddles that are grouped in a spiral pattern. This flighting configuration delivers more material to the discharge expeller in less time for faster unloading.

"The padles are precisely positioned to deliver more uniform feeding to the discharge expeller," said Kuhn. "This design breaks up and blends all types of manure."

Mixer Produces Well-Blended Rations

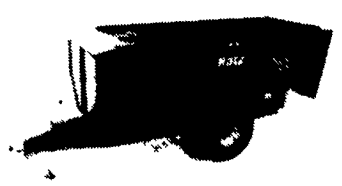
Sizes of 205, 305 and 380 cubic feet match many operations, making the Model 3000 useful for starting a total mixed ration (TMR) program or for a replacement machine. Choose trailer or stationary models.

Benefits include:

- More ration options by mixing and feeding up to 100 percent rectangular bales of dry hay
- Long service life from 3/8-inch thick bottom pan
- Easy service and extra service life with self-aligning auger bearings mounted outside
- Keep feeding on schedule with planetary gearbox and modified oil bath for chain and sprockets
- Cut maintenance with simple reduction drive

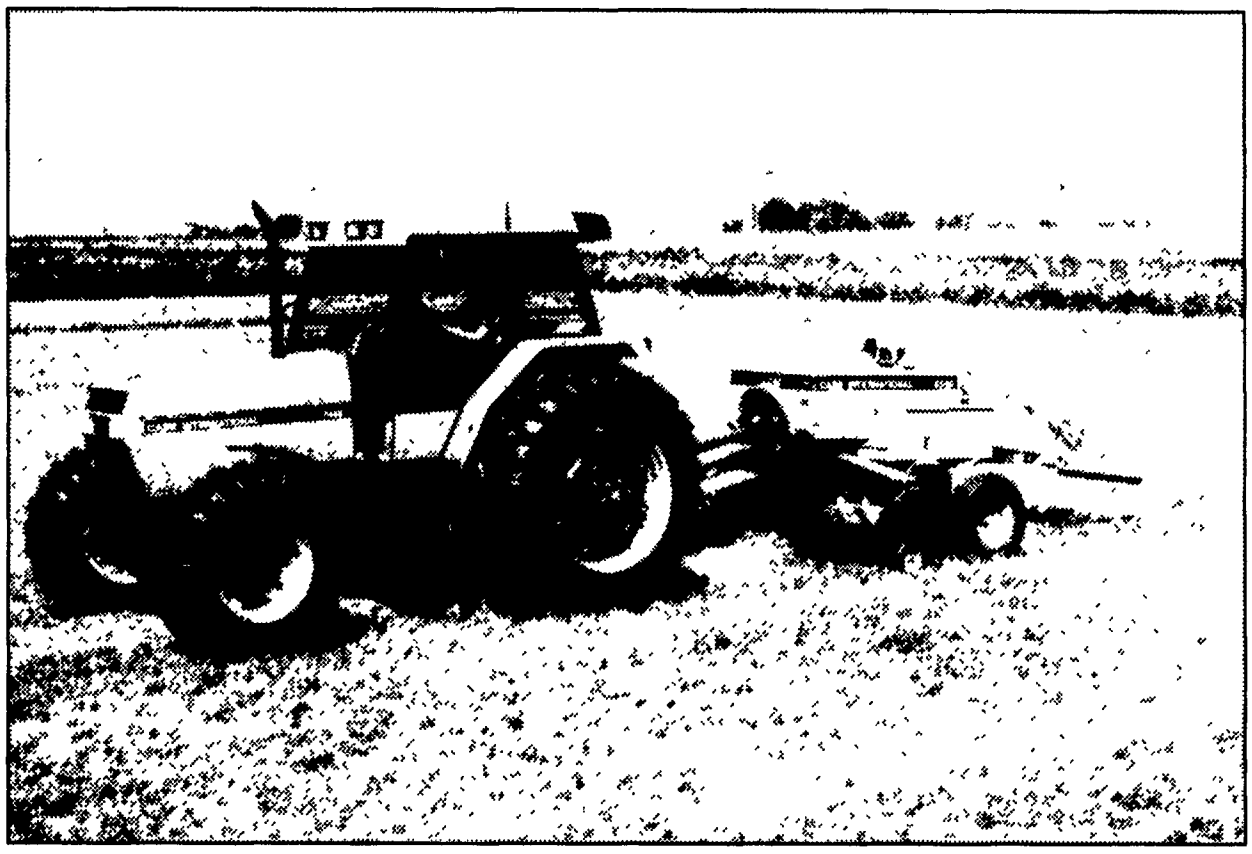


The new Patz 3-Auger TMR mixer offers several unique features for extra benefits.

- Low-maintenance, high-volume feed delivery with convenient, hydraulically driven belt discharge (trailer models)

For sizes up to 750 cubic feet, ask about the Model 9300. For tumble mixing, ask about the Model 9100.

TIE IT OR WIRE IT
DROP IT OR THROW IT



These are just a couple of the choices you have with a Case International 8545 center-line rectangular baler. .

This heavy-duty baler makes tight 14"x 18" bales. Whether you choose the twine or wire-tie system, the 8545 is designed to make bale after bale without a miss. With twine-tie, you can also add a hydraulic bale thrower with electric controls.

Don't let the compact appearance deceive you. The 8545 is heavy-duty throughout and built for performance. There's extra steel in the stuffer and plunger, bale case and tension rails. With the center-line feeding system, leaves end up in the bale and not on the ground.

Robert E. Graves, Prof.
James Hilton, Assoc. Prof.
Greta Martin, Res. Assistant
Ag and Biological Engineering Dept.

Farmers compost manure to produce a salable product, control odors, reduce fly populations, reduce the volume of material handled, change chemical forms, or a combination of these reasons.

Composting requires labor, equipment, space, and management. How these inputs are combined depends on the particular farm and its composting goals.

Composting to control odor during storage and spreading of manure requires less time and effort than composting to produce a completely stable and homogenous material for sale to homeowners or landscapers.

The Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department and Farm Operations unit at the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences have been learning about low input Passive Aerated Windrow Systems (PAWS) composting. The goal is to provide sufficient composting to control odors and flies.

A windrow of well mixed compost ingredients is built over 10-feet-long, 4-inch diameter perforated pipes spaced about two feet apart. These pipes provide an air supply under the compost pile.

After the windrows are built, this system "takes care of itself." No labor, machinery, or additional space is required for regular windrow turning or mixing.

As the compost heats, hot air rises through the pile and fresh air is pulled to the bottom of the pile through the perforated pipes. Providing an air supply across the bottom of the pile keeps more of the pile active and eliminates hot or cold spots that results from too little air.

The idea is to provide more complete and consistent composting throughout the pile without regular turning. Reports indicate successful composting without any additional turning of piles. If the raw material is left exposed, the surface of the pile will not reach optimum composting temperatures. If the entire pile is "blanketed" with a 6-16 inch layer of finished compost, more complete composting will result.

PAWS composting has been demonstrated around southeastern Pennsylvania in a cooperative project between Rodale and PSU under the leadership of Cary Oshins (Rodale) and Sally Pick (Penn State Extension, Montgomery County).

Working around the many pipes during pile construction and loadout can be a problem. After the pipes are laid out, material must be carefully placed on top without moving or damaging the pipes. The pipes also interfere with efficient removal of the material. Schedule 40 or stronger pipes can be pulled out of the pile with a hook, chain, and tractor before loadout. Lightweight pipes must be removed individually as material is removed from them.

Last fall, as part of a project sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, an alternative or modified PAWS method (APAWS) was compared to the traditional pipe method on the Penn State research farms. One windrow was built using perforated pipes and a second was built on a 6-12 inch layer of chopped corn fodder. The hope was that the corn fodder would remain porous enough to provide air across the bottom of the pile and also absorb excess liquid and nutrients.

When it was time to load out the compost, the fodder would be scraped up with the compost and spread. Both systems seemed to work satisfactorily. The cold, wet fall was not conductive to any outdoor composting method. This project will be repeated this summer to gain hot weather experience and to evaluate if flies are attracted to the piles. It was also demonstrated at Ag Progress Days in August.

If you want to learn more, contact the composters' researchers, Greta Martin, (814) 863-7710; Jim Hilton, (814) 863-1817; or Glen Cauffman, (814) 865-4433. To learn more about all types of composting, you can purchase the "On-Farm Composting Handbook," NRAES-54, for $15. National FFA Award Winners Tour Europe, Gain Global Perspective

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — As the agricultural community becomes increasingly global, it is crucial that young people considering careers in the industry understand the opportunities and challenges of international trade.

A group of 34 national FFA award winners will tour European agricultural sites this summer and see first-hand what the international marketplace has to offer. Following an orientation session in Washington, D.C., the group will leave on June 18 for a 12-day tour of Scotland, England, Belgium, and France.

"FFA and agricultural education use hands-on learning to supplement classroom education, and international issues are no exception," said Larry D. Case, national FFA adviser. "The global marketplace can be a difficult concept for students to grasp. Visiting agribusinesses and talking to industry experts overseas helps students see the similarities to U.S. agriculture and better understand how what happens in Europe can have implications back home."

During the seminar, the students will:

- Visit beef and sheep operations and a university research facility in the Edinburgh and Glasglow, Scotland, areas with the National Farmers' Union and the Scottish Young Farmers organization.
- Attend the Royal Highland Show in Edinburgh to see livestock shows, tour farm machinery exhibits, watch the Horse Guards perform and cheer on the national FFA and 4-H judging teams in the Young Farmer Stockmanship program.
- Visit cultural sites in Edinburgh, Scotland; London; Brussels; Ghent, Belgium; and Paris.
- Receive a briefing by the agricultural counselor at the American Embassy in London.
- Attend a discussion of European positions on the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT) and the World Trade Organization (WTO) at the Commission of the European Union in Brussels, Belgium.
- Visit the REO Veiling vegetable and plant auction and a modern plant nursery, tour typical area farms and see the famous double-muscled Belgian White-Blue horses in the Ghent area.
- Visit the Institut National de Agronomique at Grignon, France's premier agricultural college, for a meeting with students and tour of the farm.

The seminar participants were selected from the top national award winners named last November at the 68th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo. The seminar, in addition to cash awards and plaques, is made possible by business and industry contributions to the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

Seminar leaders are national FFA staff members Rod Duckworth and Greg Egan, teacher services team specialists, and Jennifer Conway, communications consultant; Merle Richter, high school agriculture instructor from Bloomer, Wis., past president of the National Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association and past consultant to the National FFA board of directors; Dennis Scanlon, professor of agricultural education, Pennsylvania State University, and past consultant to the National FFA board of directors; and Doug Pals, professor of agricultural education, University of Idaho, and current consultant to the National FFA board of directors.

Wenger To Receive Master Breeder Award

Reynoldsburg, Ohio — Ronald Wenger of Goshen, Indiana, has been selected to receive the 1996 American Guernsey Association's Master Breeder Award at the National Convention in Baltimore, Maryland.

Wenger, his wife, Arlene, and their four children, have operated a successful Guernsey breeding program on Valley Set Farm for over 30 years Proving his ability as a master breeder, Wenger has kept his herd of registered Guernseys at the top of Indiana's production charts and was their 1992 high producing Guernsey herd The family's success in the show ring is unequaled as well, winning many premier breeder awards at county, state and national levels

Wenger purchased the 310-acre farm from his father in 1974 Following in his father's footsteps and commanding the admiration of other breeders, Wenger has won 12 national premier breeder awards and over 20 premier breeder state awards He has also received awards for production, as well as grand champion In 1980, he was honored with the Outstanding Farm Family of the Year award in Elkhart County In addition, he was honored with the quality award from AMPI

Wenger has served on various Indiana Guernsey Breeders' Association committees He has been the chairman of the show committee for many years and also served on the board of directors In 1980, he was president of the Elkhart County Dairy Association Wenger was also chairman of the DHIA testing committee in Elkhart County

Indiana Guernsey Breeders' Association Secretary Carol Riggs said, "I feel that Ron Wenger exemplifies the successful traits we want to identify in Guernsey breeders "

Ag Groups Meet to Talk About State Trading Enterprises

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Members of the Dairy Trade Coalition (DTC), along with representatives from the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Barley Growers Association, the National Association of Wheat Growers, Women Involved In Farm Economics, and the Farmers Union Milk Marketing Cooperative (FUMMC), today met with Deputy USTR Jeff Lang to discuss major concerns about State Trading Enterprises (STEs) or export monopolies such as the New Zealand Dairy Board (NZDB) and the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB).

Mario Castillo, DTC executive director said, "Deputy USTR Lang agrees with our group that trade is the economic engine of America's economy. We reminded Mr. Lang that agriculture exports the product of one out of every three farm acres and that American agriculture is contributing a stunning $25 billion surplus to the U.S. trade balance."

Castillo continued, "We are pleased that Mr. Lang has asked us to formulate a comprehensive list of unfair STE trade practices to guide the Administration in future trade talks."

Judy Buhl, Board Member of FUMMC, a founding member of the DTC, said, "To grow and prosper at home, we must open the most lucrative markets in the world to U.S. exports of dairy and other farm products. Yet, most people forget that today's unfair trade practices include transfer pricing schemes used by STEs such as the unscrupulous NZDB and the CWB. Foreign governments that provide subsidies, tax breaks, statutory authority to act as a monopoly, or other measures which private sector competitors do not enjoy, should be targeted for retaliation by the U.S. in whatever manner possible."

Castillo said, "The impact of these unfair trade practices will be felt not only by America's family farms which produce our food and fiber. At the very least, they have the potential for impacting negatively upon our tax revenues and our system of jurisprudence. We were pleased to have a frank discussion with Deputy USTR Lang and outline our concerns and recommendations to him.

"We emphasized that the U.S. Government not grant any additional access into the U.S. for any commodity which is sold into the U.S., through monopolistic STEs such as the NZDB, until remedies that mitigate or eliminate the unfair trading practices of STEs have been formulated and are in place," said Castillo.

Buhl, a Browerville, Minn., dairy farmer, commented, "We will not rest until the monopolistic and unfair trade practices of the NZDB and the CWB have been thoroughly flushed out of global trade. We will continue to seek dialogue with like-minded groups as we go about the business of bringing to light those issues which were ignored by our negotiators during the GATT talks.

"I was thrilled to learn that the North American Export Grain Association has recently called for the elimination of STEs. This is an important voice in the growing chorus of outrage against the burden which is imposed on American agricultural commerce by STEs such as the NZDB and the CWB," said Buhl.

Owners Of Century Farms Honored

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that 31 families in 20 counties have been recognized by the department as owners of official Pennsylvania Century Farms.

"For more than 200 years our farm families have worked to make Pennsylvania the leading agricultural state in the northeast," Brosius said. "The Ridge Administration is firmly committed to the preservation of our family farms and farmland resources — the backbone of our state and nation."

The Century Farms Program was established in 1976 to publicize the strengths and durability of Pennsylvania's farm families and to help stress the importance of agriculture to all citizens of the commonwealth.

To qualify as an official Century Farm, the farm must be in the same family for 100 or more consecutive years, it must contain at least 10 acres of the original holding, or gross more than $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products. A family member must live on the farm.

A total of 1,723 farm families in 60 counties have been recognized for their long-term contributions to the commonwealth's economic and agricultural heritage. Listed by county, with the original purchase date by their ancestors, are the latest crop of Century Farm owners:

Wet Year's Corn, Soybean Yields Depend On Conditions

COLUMBUS, Ohio — This year's late-planted corn could still produce respectable yields, according to an Ohio State University agronomist.

Usually farmers expect lowered yields when excessive rains delay planting. However, Peter Thomison said historical data shows that late-planted crops can yield fairly well, depending on the weather for the rest of the summer.

"Weather conditions in July and August are probably the most important yield-determining factors for corn and soybeans," Thomison said.

As for soybeans, another Ohio State agronomist, Jim Beuerlein, said the crop still has time to produce yields above the state average of 40 bushels per acre.

Beuerlein said that late-planted soybeans will do best if planted in 7- to 7.5-inch rows at seeding rates of 200,000 to 225,000 seeds per acre. Farmers should then hope for rain in August and early September, which is critical period for pod-fill.

Thomison said that late corn plantings delay pollination until the most weather-stressed period of the summer, which is late July and early August. This year's corn will need slightly cool-to-average temperatures and average to above-average moisture during that time for a good pollination, he said. Otherwise, plants stressed by hot and dry conditions will have either a poor kernel set or won't complete grain fill to the fullest potential.

Foliage should grow fast once corn is planted late, giving the impression of an abundant crop. However, what can't be seen below ground counts, too, Thomison said.

"We've got to accept that root systems this year are going to present problems for us because they will be limited in size," Thomison said.

Thomison used data of the four longest-delayed corn crops during the past 15 growing seasons to support his position that respectable corn yields are still possible. These years were 1981, 1983, 1989 and 1995. Yields were no less than 73 percent of the previous five-year average in any of those years.

In the year of the longest delay, 1989, corn actually out-yielded the previous five-year average by 2 bushels per acre. That year, farmers had planted only 40 percent of their corn by May 30. This year, as of June 2, Ohio farmers had planted 65 percent of their corn, compared to 83 percent for this time last year, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The five-year average is 96 percent.

From another perspective, an early planting does not ensure a high yield either, although a late planting can contribute significantly to other problems during the growing season, Thomison said. In fact, the lowest-yielding year in recent memory was in 1988 when corn was planted earlier than usual, he said. Corn yielded an average 85 bushels per acre because of the drought during the growing season.

Although farmers are past the original corn planting dates, those with livestock may likely continue planting through early June in order to have cheap feed for their animals, Thomison said. Farmers in parts of the northern half of Ohio can continue to plant mid- to short-season varieties through June 10, while southern farmers have until June 15.

Beuerlein said many farmers have likely switched their corn plantings to soybeans after facing the rainy June 1 weekend. He expects farmers will sow soybeans in "every bit" of unplanted corn ground now.

Indiana farmers are in the same boat as Ohio's farmers, with rainy weather putting their corn planting way behind. USDA reported that Indiana's farmers had 58 percent of their crop planted as of June 2, compared to 67 percent last year, and to 92 percent for the five-year average.

The situation in the eastern Corn Belt is a stark contrast to the national picture. U.S. farmers have 86 percent of their corn planted, compared to 78 percent for this time last year, and to 91 percent for the five-year average.

As for soybean plantings, Ohio's farmers had planted 24 percent of their intended acreage by June 2, compared to 52 percent for this time last year and to the five-year average of 84 percent. Nationally, 45 percent of the crop is planted compared to a 63 percent five-year average.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

At SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. we know a lot about feed storage and handling... we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call... we'd like to contribute to your success!!

"IT'S NOT WHAT YOU HARVEST, BUT WHAT COMES OUT OF STORAGE THAT COUNTS." QUALITY AND QUANTITY...

JAMESWAY DIRECT XPRESS SYSTEM

NEW BELT FEEDERS & CONVEYORS

Big Capacity Delivery With All The Advantages Of Dependable, Efficient, Low Profile Direct Drive Design!

That's what farmers really appreciate about the new Jamesway family of Direct X-Press Feeders and Conveyors. All models feature a dependable and efficient heavy duty industrial drive, with enclosed oil bath and standard 1, 2 or 3 H.P. C-faced motors. Our direct drive design eliminates pulleys, jackshafts, sprockets chains, V-belts and shields, the low profile motor and drive can be mounted on either side for added installation versatility.

Best in the Country

Centurydrain is the roofing and siding to use for a strong, tight structure that'll carry you through the years of heavy snows, driving rain, and ripping winds.

The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative:

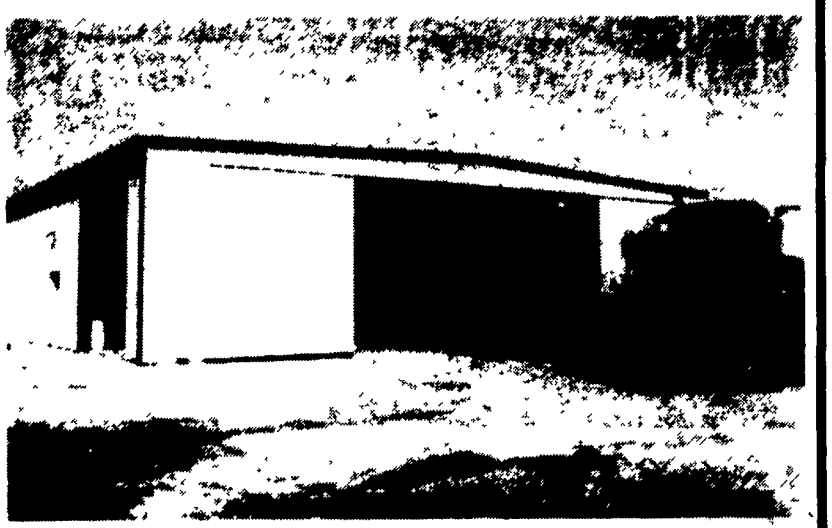
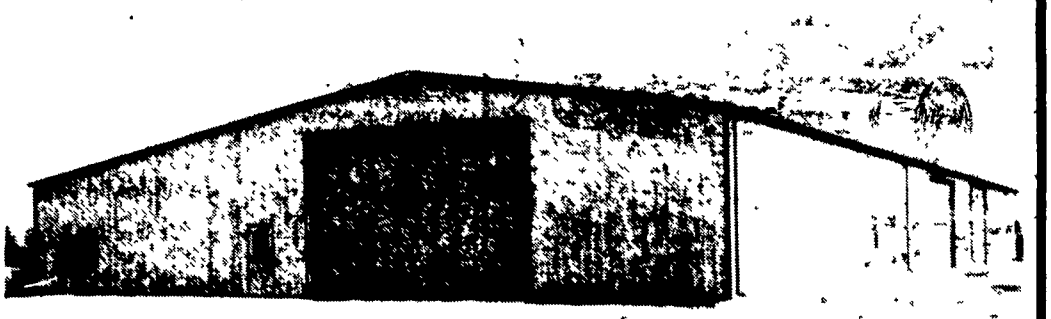
BUTLER™ RURAL-BUILDER

No matter what type of building you're looking for shop, retail store, community building or storage facility - we build durable Butler® rural steel buildings with attractive architectural appeal.

Butler shop buildings are built to give you years of high-use value, low maintenance and maximum comfort. Solid, practical design and rugged steel construction make Butler buildings durable and functional for years to come.

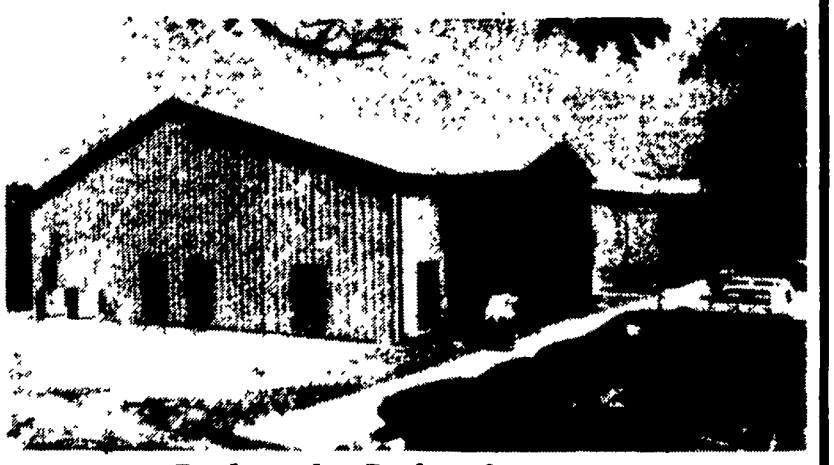




Outside: Your Choice

The appearance of your new building is a critical factor. You just tell us what you'd like and we can build it!

Our structural systems are designed to give you complete freedom in planing the size and shape of your building.



Products that Perform from the Building Systems Industry Leader

You can count on Butler to provide the best materials available.

For example, our standard exterior coating for painted panels is Butler-Cote® 500 FP finishing system, a full strength, 70% Kynar 500® & Hylar 5000® coating. Our coating will resist chalking and fading better than industry standard coatings.

Our fasteners represent another area where Butler offers more for your money. The Scrubolt™ fastener by Butler, available on the Butlerib wall and roof systems and the Shadowrib® wall system, is larger and more resistant to the pull-out forces of wind than industry standard fasteners.

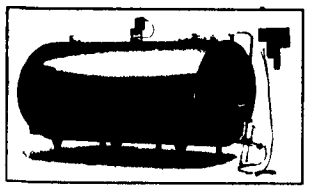
MUELLER® DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$ [illegible]	$ 8,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk daily for 10 years	$[illegible]	$[illegible]
Total operating cost for ten years	$18,350	$ 0,350
Savings	$ [illegible]

Vegetable Lasagna

16-ounce lasagna noodles
4 cups ricotta cheese
8-ounces cream cheese
¾ cup milk
½ cup minced onion
1½ teaspoon dried basil
1 teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon oregano
2 cups broccoli florets
1 cup shredded carrots
1 cup sliced mushrooms
4 cups shredded mozzarella cheese
¾ cup parmesan cheese

Cook lasagna noodles as package directs. Lay flat to dry. Combine ricotta cheese, cream cheese, milk, onions, basil, garlic, and oregano. Mix until smooth. Add broccoli, carrots, and mushrooms. Mix until blended.

Spread ¾ cup mixture on bottom of 13x9-inch baking dish. Add layer of noodles. Alternate layers of mixture and noodles, placing mozzarella and parmesan cheese on top of mixture. End with cheese as top layer. Bake for 50 to 60 minutes at 375 degrees.

For the health conscious, use 16-ounces low-fat ricotta cheese and 16-ounces cottage cheese.

You may skip precooking the noodles, but make sure dry noodles are thoroughly covered with sauce. Add a little extra water to sauce if necessary and bake for 60 to 70 minutes.

ANSWER — Jean Kline, Ephrata, wanted a recipe for sour cream pie. Thanks to Mrs. Ivan Huber, East Earl; A. Hoover, Stevens; Cathy Anusesky, Stillwater, N.Y.,, and Lynda Lamp, Baltimore, Md., for sending recipes.

Sour Cream Pie

1 cup sour cream
1 egg
1 cup sugar
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice

Mix all together and bake between two crusts. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce heat and continue to bake for 30 minutes. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Sour Cream Apple Pie

3 cups tart apples, chopped
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Pastry for 1 (9-inch) crust

Combine sugar, salt, and flour. Add sour cream and beat until smooth. Add chopped apples and mix thoroughly. Pour mixture into unbaked crust. Mix 1½ tablespoons of sugar with cinnamon and continue to bake for 35 minutes.

Sour Cream Berry Or Cherry Tart

2½ cups elderberries or blackberries
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup sour cream
Pastry for 9-inch crust

Wash berries or seeded cherries and place in an unbaked crust. Combine sugar and flour. Add sour cream and blend thoroughly. Pour mixture over fruit. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce heat and continue to bake for 30 minutes. Makes 9-inch pie.

Sour Cream Lemon Pie

1 cup sugar
3½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
¼ cup butter
1 cup sour cream
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine sugar, cornstarch, lemon rind, juice, egg yolks, and milk in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat until thick. Stir in butter and cool. Stir in sour cream and pour into pie shell. Cover with whipped cream.

QUESTION — J. Hykes, 321 E. King St., Shippensburg, Pa. 17257-1424, is looking for old photographs of Christmas trees, which were taken before 1950.

QUESTION — M. Stoltzfus from Maryland would like to raise turkeys, chicks or other fowl for a company or person. Who should he contact for infomation?

QUESTION — J. Loren Yoder, Belleville, would like information about three different milk bottles from the following: Weaver's Dairy of Malvern; Spicklers Dairy of Elizabethtown, and Supplee — Sealtest Dairy Products.

QUESTION — A Reinholds reader would like to purchase a used flat beater and 12-quart bowl for a Reynolds Electric Company commercial mixer serial number C37129.

QUESTION — Mrs. Cindy Eshleman, R.D.3, Box 7957, Jonestown, Pa. 17038 would like to correspond with anyone who has or has had a child with selective mutism (children who won't speak to adults other than their parents).

QUESTION — Betty Sterner had a set of 12 plates limited edition 1979 Franklin Mint Porcelain by Peter Banett, but the January plate broke. Can anyone help her find a plate to replace the broken one?

QUESTION — Frances Krall, Myerstown, is looking for a craft book with directions for five-strand rug braiding.

QUESTION — Peggy Gordon, Sykesville, Md., is searching for Achimenes bulbs, which are small and resemble small pine cones. Achimenes is sometimes called the warm water plant because it is thought the plants are more easily started by immersing them in warm water. The plants only grow and bloom in the summer. As fall approaches, they simply die off and must be stored until the next summer. The flowers are somewhat trumpet-like. She has purchased some through seed catalogs but hasn't been able to get them to grow.

QUESTION — Roman Peters, Port Trevorton, would like to know where to purchase miniature horseshoes that are approximately 1½ -2-inch widths measured from the outer edges.

QUESTION — Lois Babcock would like to know where to buy brown tweed men's socks with a red heel, which are used to make cloth monkeys.

QUESTION — Lois Babcock would like to know where to buy Raggedly Ann and Andy candy or candle molds.

QUESTION — Eva Burrell, Glen Gardner, N.J., writes that her local Senior Center makes loom and crocheted small-sized rugs from strips of cotton, cotton blend, or polyester knit material. Their material supplier from Allentown has gone out of business recently. Does any one know of another source for the strips of material?

QUESTION — Linda Gorman of Wayland, Mass., requests directions on how to make salve for cuts and wounds of livestock. She had requested this earlier and someone had given her a phone number for the Haffer's Salve recipe. They wanted $50,000 for the recipe. She didn't want it that badly.

QUESTION — Doug Bunnell, Endicott, N.Y., would like to know where to find replacement bags for older types of hand-cranked cyclone seeders. There are replacement bags for the newer plastic seeders, but they will not fit the old wood base seeders.

QUESTION — Wayne Lewis, York, would like to know if somebody has a book titled Gunsmiths of Penn. Marva by William Bowers would be interested in buying. Call 717-755-5128 or write to Lewis at 4850 Tracy School Rd., York, PA 17406.

QUESTION — A reader from Loysville would like to know where to buy black wool knit World War II Navy caps.

QUESTION — Milton Haines, Tabernacle, N.J., would like to know where to find transmission gears for a Midland garden tractor model # MR30, Serial #1017.

QUESTION — Marlene Hurst would like the recipe for old lime or white wash used to cover stone walls in cellars. Also, how do you apply it to partially stripped walls?

QUESTION — Mae Stancill, 2344 Pennington Rd., Bel Air, Md. 21015-1204, wants a source for plain white and printed feed bags in which animal feed was sold. She also wants a source for the tissue iron on embrodiery patterns of yestery-ear. Also, does anyone have an old cookbook from Rumford or Clabber Girl baking powder company that they would like to get rid of? She will pay postage.

QUESTION — J.R. Peppler, Glen Mills, would like to find a source for ram horns. He wants to make shepherd's crooks from them as they do in England. The horn is softened and bent into the top end.

QUESTION — Mary Jones, Compton, Md., who would to purchase a used book, "1001 Knitting Stitches."

QUESTION — Ray Garrett, Hanover, would like to buy a used 20-quart White Mountain ice cream freezer for a local church. Call him at (717) 632-9383.

ANSWER — D. Newsom, N.Y., wanted an address for a company that sells grange, community, and church cookbooks. Karen Kinnane writes that Dietrich's Meats, 660 Old 22, Lenhartsville, Pa. 19534 has an excellent selection of cookbooks.

ANSWER — D.R. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., wanted out-of-print cookbooks: "The Neighbor Lady Cookbooks" and Bob Allison's Ask Your Neighbor Cookbooks. (These were from radio stations). A reader suggests contacting Cookbooks by Morris Press, P.O. Box 1681, Kearney, NE 68848-9985.

ANSWER — Mavyn A. Gehris, Leesport, needed an instruction book for a Necchi sewing machine purchased in 1953. Thanks to the readers who sent the information.

ANSWER — Terry and Shirley Womer, R.D.#4, Box 45, Middleburg, PA 17842, write that they collect veterinary antiques. Recently they acquired two business cards, one dated 1862, for J.S. Nixon & Son, Chambersburg, Pa. They wanted to know the history of this business? Thanks to a Shippensburg reader who wrote that according to Boyd's Chambersburg Directory for 1882-83, Jacob S. Nixon is listed as a druggist on the southwest corner of the public square in Chambersburg. His home is at 305 E. Market St., and William Nixon is listed as a clerk at the same address.

ANSWER — Thanks to Clark Derr, Manheim, who answers Bryan Hoover's question. Styrofoam egg cartons by the bundle can be purchased from wholesalers and retailers of eggs. Derr purchases his from Sauders in Lititz.

EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables PTO and ground drive models available

THE EUROPEAN LEADER OF BALERS AND BALE WRAPPERS

THE MOST COMPLETE RANGE FOR FORAGE HARVESTING

Straw: balers which enable harvesting broken straw in the hottest hours and ensure a high density.

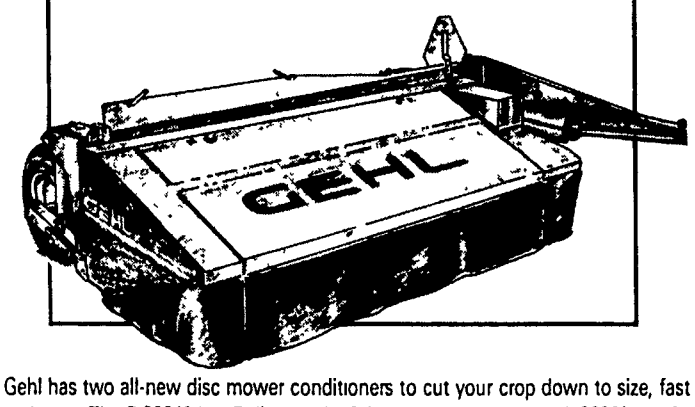
GEHL®

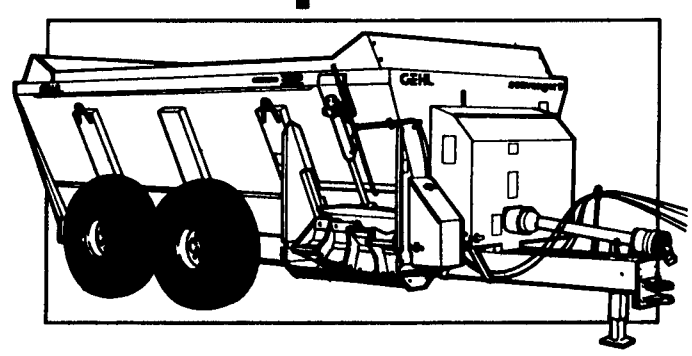
CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width.

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat

North America's #1 V-Tank Spreader



The Gehl Scavenger® II is the "original" V-Tank spreader and still the best. It delivers outstanding performance in all types of manure, from liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed manure.

- Patented square-tube auger - Hydraulically powers up and down to break up solid material
- Varilio discharge - Spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control
- Five models - From 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacities to match your operation
- 10-Year warranty - Against rust-through on the tank for peace of mind
- Options include - Truck-mounted units and hydraulic lids.

NAAB Prepares For 50th Anniversary Convention

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The 50th Anniversary Convention of the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) will be held August 28-30, at the Cheyenne Mountain Resort, Colorado Springs, Colo. This year's host is ABS Global, Inc., DeForest, Wis.

Colorado Springs boasts three of Colorado's most popular tourist attractions, the U.S. Air Force Academy, Pikes Peak Cog Railway, and the sports activities related to the U.S. Olympic Training Center.

In addition to anniversary celebration highlights, there will be great excitement and fun for all members, guests, and families. Starting with a gold tournament on Wednesday, August 28, the fun continues with a host reception that evening and the kickoff of the convention the following morning. Other highlights of the convention will include award recognition, a keynote speaker, business sessions, an educational program, and more. The convention will adjourn Friday noon, August 30.

Attendees at Thursday morning's general business session will hear the annual address by NAAB Chairman of the Board, Bruce Bean. AI technicians who have serviced more than 100,000 cows, as well as industry sales people who have sold over 500,000 units of semen, will be recognized with a plaque presentation ceremony. After a break, spouses will be offered a choice of shopping and/or tours of the area.

The latter part of the morning session will focus on the business at hand with the call to order, call to the meeting, and the reading of any proposed resolutions which may come before the assembly. The chairman of the Nominating Committee, Roger Ripley, will report on candidates for the NAAB board of directors.

Speakers at the afternoon educational session will feature discussion on current and potential sire health issues. Officials from USDA will present results from a recent survey of the health of dairy farm animals and summarize BSE prevention measures in the USA. Dr. Don Monke of Select Sires will give an overview of emerging health issues concerning the AI industry. The session will be topped off with a presentation from Dr. George Siedel of Colorado State University. He will talk about the impact of new animal breeding technologies with specific emphasis on fine tuning semen processing.

Thursday night's banquet guests will enjoy an anniversary tribute, besides the NAAB awards ceremonies. This year's recipients are Donald P. Solberg, 21st Century Genetics, Distinguished Service Award; Hubert Goode, Tennessee/Select Sires, Member Association Director Award; Dr. Fred I. (Irv) Elliott, ABS Global (deceased), Pioneer Award; and Dr. George R. Wiggans, USDA/AIPL, Research Award.

At Friday morning's business session NAAB voting delegates will elect three directors to fill the three vacant positions. Those whose terms expire this year are Jon Mast, Noba, Inc., Richard Chichester, Select Sires, and Ken Leick, 21st Century Genetics. Both Chichester and Leick are eligible to serve a second three-year term.

Registration deadline is July 5 to avoid late registration fees. Hotel registration must be received by ABS Global no later than July 29 to guarantee rates and availability. For convention registration information, contact Alice Langer, P.O. Box 459, DeForest, WI 53532, (608) 846-6203.

Vegetable Industry Funds 10 Research Projects

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program and the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association will be giving $32,000 to help fund 10 vegetable research projects in 1996.

The Marketing and Research Program is contributing $19,000 while the Vegetable Growers Association is contributing another $13,000.

The Marketing and Research Program is a statewide marketing order for vegetables growers and is funded by annual grower assessments. Each grower pays $25 a year plus $1.50 for each acre over 10 acres (or $1.50 for each thousand square feet of greenhouse space used to grow greenhouse vegetables). The Vegetable Growers Association is a voluntary grower organization which earns its research funds from its food booths at the Pennsylvania Farm Show and Ag Progress Days.

While most of the projects are at Penn State University, the board did approve one research grant for Cornell University that has an ongoing research program that would be helpful to Pennsylvania growers and two with a private consulting firm.

The 10 projects and their objectives are listed below:

• Disease Control for Snap Beans and Tomatoes, A. MacNab, Penn State, $8,000, to evaluate soil treatments for root rot control, to assess the value of resistance to early blight in tomatoes, to maintain and operate a tomato disease forecast system in several areas of Pennsylvania, and to evaluate processing tomatoes varieties for tolerance to ripe fruit rots.

• Sweet Corn IPM for Pennsylvania, S. Spangler, S. Fleischer and D. Calvin, Penn State University, $4,000, to maintain and improve the existing infrastructure that monitors pests of sweet corn ears and provide this information to growers in a timely fashion through the Vegetable Insect Newsletter and the 1-800-PENN-IPM line with a FAX-on-Demand option, and to emphasize the pheromone based approach to ECB monitoring using commercial lures as much as possible.

• Evaluation of the Potential of Trichoderma as a Biocontrol Agent in Snap-Bean Root Rot, T. Bjorkman, G. Abawi, G. Harman - Cornell Univ., $2,500, to evaluate the use of the Trichoderma to control root rots in snap beans.

• 1996 Processing Sweet Corn Variety Yield Trial, M. Brubaker, Brubaker Agronomic Consulting, $2,000, to record and document yield and key agronomic traits for processed varieties of sweet corn.

• 1996 Processing Pea Variety Yield Trial, M. Brubaker, Brubaker Agronomic Consulting, $1,000, to record and document yield and key agronomic traits for processed varieties of peas.

• Development of Strategies to Utilize Biocontrols with Insect Growth Regulators in Greenhouse, vegetable production, M. Orzolek and C. Thomas, Penn State Univ., $1,000, to develop a strategy to use Amblyseius cucumeris in conjunction with Azadirachtin to control western flower thrips.

• Maximizing Quality Pumpkin Production: A Comparison of Bare-Ground, No-Till and Plasticulture Systems, M. Orzolek, Penn State, $4,000, to evaluate the effect of raised beds, two different plastic mulches and drip irrigation on pumpkin yields and quality, to evaluate the effect of a no-till system (pumpkins transplanted into annual ryegrass) with drip irrigation on pumpkin yields and quality, and to evaluate for comparison the effect of a conventional bare ground production system with drip irrigation on pumpkin yields and quality.

• Nonchemical Weed and Insect Management in Cabbage, M. Orzolak, Penn State, $3,000, to compare white clover, annual ryegrass, a mixture (2 pounds clover and 5 pounds ryegrass per acre), and bare ground treatments for their effects on growth and yield of cabbage transplants, and to compare treatments for their effects on insect damage and disease incidence.

• Nitrogen, Phosphorus, Potassium and Gypsum Rates for Tomatoes as Related to Nutrient Balance and Efficient Production, C. Smith, Penn State University, $4,000, to determine the most effective rates of nitrogen and phosphate for optimum growth and yields, to determine if higher potash rates are a major factor in restricting calcium uptake, to evaluate several rates of gypsum, and to study the role of gypsum in increasing yields.

• Development of Cold Tolerant Tomatoes for Pennsylvania, M. Foolad, Penn State, $3,000, to evaluate chilling tolerance of approximately 40 tomato genotypes at different developmental stages, to construct genetics and breed populations by intercrossing between chilling tolerant and chilling sensitive genotypes, and to eventually develop new tomato germplasm which are chilling tolerant and adapted to Pennsylvania conditions. Other important horticultural characteristics such as disease and insect resistance, earliness and fruit quality will be incorporated in the new germplasm.

New Farm Policy Shifts Farm Risk

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Its creators call it "Freedom to Farm."

Pessimists call it "Freedom to Fail."

Big spenders call it "Freedom to Buy a Pickup."

Whatever you call it, most economists agree that the new "hands-off" U.S. farm policy means farmers need to take a fresh look at risk.

"Risk management is the name of the new game," said Allan Lines, agricultural economist at Ohio State University. "The risk is already apparent this planting season. Farmers better be ready to deal with it."

Eligible farmers who enroll in the program will receive government payments for the next seven years, regardless of what crops they plant (provided they're not planting fruits or vegetables for the first time) or what prices they receive. The government will no longer step in to control production, and its role in moderating prices is greatly reduced.

Risk will hit from several fronts, Lines said. Legislators have promised that they will no longer bail out agriculture during crop disasters. Unless there's a widespread catastrophe (such as the 1988 drought), they'll probably stick to their word, Lines said.

"While the new policy doesn't require farmers to buy crop insurance, some of the risk could be abated that way."

Lines also expects increased price variability. "Big Uncle is getting out of the business of managing prices. Producers must take a more active role," he said. "Knowing and understanding when and how to properly use futures, options and other contracts to fix prices, put floors under prices and manage basis risk, takes on a new sense of importance."

The increased risk also means farmers should pay down their debt, Lines said. "They need to use this opportunity to get their financial house in order. They will be required to take on a higher level of risk under the new policy, so they should be in a less leveraged position."

That doesn't mean that investing in farm machinery is a bad option, said Luther Tweeten, another Ohio State economist.

"Keeping the debt-to-asset ratio low and keeping liquidity up is important. But farmers could also use these final government payments to purchase needed farm machinery. Farmers often use transitory dollars to buy big-ticket items that can serve them over the long haul. It's a smart way to invest," he said.

The new policy will not increase the total amount of risk in farming, but it will shift the nature of the risk, said Carl Zulauf, also an Ohio State agricultural economist. "A lot of people are talking about increased risk, but getting the government out of farming will actually reduce some kinds of risk," Zulauf said.

"We won't have the risk of the government releasing crops from public stocks or changing the amount of acres which a farmer needs to set aside. At times these and other government decisions created a large uncertainty in the marketplace. So, to say uniformly that there's a lot more risk with the new policy, I don't know that that's true," he said.

One significant change in risk comes as farmers pull their planters out of the machinery shed.

Farmers will now need to take a more active role in making decisions for planting. To a large extent, past farm policy dictated how many acres of each crop farmers could plant. Now farmers will need to make these decisions based on expected prices and other factors.

The resulting uncertainty for users of grain will create risk for another sector of agriculture, Zulauf said. "Users of field crops are as concerned about quantity risk as price risk. Their businesses depend on maximizing 'throughput.'"

Crop and livestock farmers may borrow a page from fruit and vegetable growers who have long depended on production contracts to, in part, address quantity risk, Zulauf said.

Livestock farmers may begin to establish contracts with local farmers to lock up supplies for the coming year, Zulauf said. And crop farmers may start thinking of large livestock farms as another processor of their grains, the way sweetener manufacturers and ethanol plants are considered.

Financial risk will continue to loom for agriculture, and in some ways, more so in these times of high crop prices, Zulauf said.

"I don't know many farmers who went broke because of decisions made in times of low prices. It's the decisions made in good times that get people in trouble," he said.

"Ultimately the market will reward those who keep a lid on the cash cost of production. If anything, the withdrawal of farm programs will only underscore the importance of managing cash cost of production."

Fruit Specialist Joins Extension

CLAYTON, N.J. — Dr. Robert Belding has joined Rutgers Cooperative Extension as a specialist in pomology, or fruit science.

Belding comes to New Jersey from North Carolina State University where he received his master's and doctorate degrees in horticulture science.

He was an agricultural research technician at North Carolina State working on many aspects of horticultural management on apples and peaches. In his new position he will be working on pre- and post-harvest physiology of fruit, primarily peaches.

Specialist Belding will be located at the Rutgers Research and Development Center in Upper Deerfield Township on Northville Road near Bridgeton. he is part of a trio of fruit scientists and their staff being located at this station to help the valuable peach industry in New Jersey.

"Dr. Belding and his colleagues Dr. Norman Lalancette ad Dr. Peter Shearer are sorely needed by our industry in southern New Jersey," said Jerry Frecon, agricultural agent with Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Gloucester County.

Gloucester County is the largest peach producing county in New Jersey and the seventh largest in the nation.

"The center is only 20 minutes from Gloucester County's industry and the conditions for fruit research are very similar to most of the growing regions in the southern part of the state," said Frecon.

"The hiring of Dr. Belding completes an 18-month search for the right tree fruit people to staff the center," said Frecon.

School Kids Take Part In Science Adventure

BERNVILLE (Berks Co.) — The Tulpehocken School District's third graders had a real treat along with enjoyable tidbits of knowledge recently.

The Tulpehocken High School Agriculture Department sponsored the third annual Elementary Agriculture Science Adventure.

Under an overcast sky, the weather was ignored as 156 third graders bounded from station to station learning how practices in conservation, resources, soils, animals, plants, water, and community practices in businesses and agriculture work to preserve natural resources in the nation.

The "Agriculture Science Adventure" was held at Mor-Dale Farms, Myerstown. Managed by Ralph and Crystal Moyer, this beautiful family homestead is home to 85 Holsteins, milked in a parlor-freestall setup. The modern dairy farm also boasts many labor-saving buildings and practices.

According to Christine Williams, Tulpehocken High School Agriculture Education teacher, this program was developed through materials from the National Livestock and Meat Board and distributed by the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

"Caretaker All" is the central theme of the materials. This "Agriculture Science Adventure" was initiated by the Tulpehocken Agriculture Advisory Cou8ncil, expanded by the Tulpehocken Education Department, including the Tulpehocken FFA and Young Farmer Program, and the transportation was sponsored by the Tulpehocken PTOs.

This concentrated effort of joint cooperation was also evident in the key resource people from the community, agencies, and extension who manned the six different educational stations geared to the elementary level to introduce "easy-to-learn" facts.

"We are trying to protect the water," said Carl Brown, representative from the BFI Conestoga Landfill, Morgantown, as he was explaining the proper method to dispose of wastes. Brown was assisting David Varone, Berks County recycling coordinator, at the "Caretaker of Resources" station. With graphics and prizes for correct answers, Brown introduced the "landfill sandwich" to the youth who eagerly listened for a chance for a recycled pen. They learned that leachate is liquid pollution, felt the thickness of a landfill liner, viewed diagrams of a landfill piping system, and discovered what goes into the compaction of a "landfill sandwich." "Landfills recycle the land," Brown stated as he asked for uses of the "new" land. Answers of parks, golf courses, and ski slopes earned rewards.

Randy McCormick, Caretaker of Soils "Grass holds the soil."

Acting as "Caretaker of the Soil," Randy McCormick, NRCS, and students from the Introduction To Agriculture Science class in the Agriculture Department provided students with experiments exploring soil types and erosion. "Which type of soil does water go through faster?" he asked students as he poured water into containers holding clay soil, sand, and loam, a mixture of sand, silt, and clay. Tying in with the previous discussion from Brown and Varone, McCormick said, "Grass holds the soil.

"Erosion is any earth moving that moves the soil around and leaves runoff," he said.

station, Buzz Frances, Berks County Conservation District, introduced students to condensation, evaporation, precipitation, and an informative walk around the pond. Armed with a burner to produce the heat to change the water, Enviroscape model and a microscope, Frances kept the youth enthused while learning about the water circle.

"Germinate means to sprout and to grow," began John Falter, Berks County extension agent, as the "Caretaker of the Plants." He had many eager hands all day long as he taught about different plants while planting a garden. Assisted by several Master Gardeners, Falter covered planting techniques and beneficial garden arrangements.

In the large freestall barn, the veterinarian team of Chris and Staci Hytrek, DVM, Willow Creek Animal Hospital and Hershey Medical Center respectively, covered pet care as well as large animal husbandry. Students were able to handle a stethoscope, nail clippers, hoof trimmers, aspirin, pill gun, and many other veterinary items as they listened to the professionals.

As "Caretaker of the Community," Tammy Weaver, Beef Council Industry representative, educated the students on crop rotation, efforts to save wildlife areas, and pesticide and herbicide responsibilities. She used a video to tie the day together and reviewed concepts with the youth.

At the end of the day students received educational activity books to finish and ice cream treats. The following day a quiz was given with two questions from each presentation to remind students of the facts they have learned today.

"This year we needed a little more," said Chris williams, as she talked about expanding the program to make it better and increase the exposure of the students to the many career, science and agriculture applications and concepts.

"We called on more resource people," she said, referring to the volunteerism of the Master Gardeners and several representatives from the businesses who added their talents to this year's program.

Others included Jill Vail, Kelly Peifer, Melanie Kersener, and Michelle McMichael, 9th grade students.

Move To Cut Ethanol Tax Credit Short-Sighted

DENVER, Colo. — The National Farmers Union (NFU) is blasting a congressional proposal to do away with tax incentives for the production of corn-based ethanol. NFU says the current spike in energy prices points to the need to develop alternative energy sources, not do away with them.

NFU President Leland Swenson said a proposal by Washington freshman Republican Randy Tate and a bipartisan group of cosponsors is "short-sighted and reactionary.

"The problem is the Tate bill is exactly the wrong reaction," said Swenson.

Tate is urging the House Ways and Means Committee to eliminate the motor fuels excise tax exemption for ethanol and scale back the excise tax credit for ethanol at the same time the committee considers a repeal of the 4.3 cent motor fuels tax increase passed in 1993. Both moves infuriate Swenson.

"First of all, the higher gas prices we have today have nothing to do with the 4.3 cent tax increase. It's been three years since the increase went into effect. Fuel prices have gone up as much as 40 cents — not four cents. This is a cheap shot by those in Congress who want to use this consumer hardship for their own political ends," said the farm leader.

Swenson said the Tate proposal is an "opportunistic effort to do away with a program just for the sake of doing away with it.

"This is a time when we're again paying the price for not having a national energy policy that would promote alternative energy development and energy conservation," he said. "This measure represents exactly the wrong reaction to the current energy price problems.

Swenson's organization has long supported the idea of tax incentives and other measures to promote the development of alternative energy sources. NFU believes such development, coupled with voluntary energy conservation, will make the U.S. less dependent on foreign oil.

While the ethanol incentives have come under fire as "corporate welfare," Swenson said the measures have allowed a lot of "mom-and-pop" ethanol producers to get started.

"Ethanol is good for the environment, good for corn producers, and good for our country's energy supply. The motor fuels excise tax credit is an incentive for consumers to use ethanol to help protect the environment. This ploy by Representative Tate and the others is just designed to grab headlines. It's not in the best interest of consumers, taxpayers, or farmers," Swenson said.

Farm Bureau Adopts Interim Policy On PennDOT Funding

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau has gone on record in support of increased revenue for the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, provided certain conditions are met.

A concern over the deplorable condition of Pennsylvania's rural roads and bridges and a special session of the General Assembly to deal with further damages inflicted by this past winter's snows and floods prompted a special meeting of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's board of directors on March 15.

PFB President Keith Eckel called the meeting to consider the immediate need for policy on the question of a possible state fuel tax increase to repair storm damaged roads. PennDOT surveys show about 1,000 bridges which were subjected to flood waters and ice this winter suffered measurable damages. Fifty-six bridges were closed and await majro repairs or replacement costing more than $67 million.

PennDOT estimates total storm damage to the state highway finances, putting it $30 million over budget for winter maintenance.

All this has led Gov. Ridge to call a special session and ask the General Assembly for a 6.5 cents per gallon fuel tax increase to pay for repairs during the upcoming construction season. Pennsylvanians pay 22.35 cents tax on every gallon of gas and 46.75 cents tax per gallon of diesel fuel. Both taxes should increase by 6.5 cents under the Ridge's plan.

PFB board members tackled the issue in a session which lasted several hours at the PFB office in Camp Hill to come up with interim policy for the organization. In supporting a revenue increase for PennDOT, the PFB board stipulated that the agency must undergo some belt tightening, exploring every possible way to improve efficiency, eliminate waste, and cut operating costs before seeking additional funding.

The board also agreed that the state should look at other possible sources of revenue for needed highway repair funding such as floating a bond, expanding the toll highway system, or using revenues from other taxes, instead of raising the fuel tax.

Furthermore, the board reaffirmed PFB's policy that any increased revenues PennDOT receives must be shared proportionately with local governments for road maintenance or rebuilding. All extra revenue going to PennDOT should be used for the repair of existing problems — not new construction projects — with rural roads and bridges receiving top priority, the board agreed.

With these stipulations spelled out, the board adopted interim policy putting PFB in support of increased revenues for PennDOT to repari and maintain the highway system.

"It is never easy to call for increases in government spending for any reason," Eckel said in a letter to county farm bureau leaders following the board meeting. "However, Pennsylvania faces a difficult task in maintaining roads and bridges under normal circumstances, and this year's snows and floods have caused advanced deterioration of our road and bridge system. We feel it is crucial for the state to act now to develop a reasonable financial plan to stop further impairment of our roads."

Your Source For Quality Grain Handling Equipment

Mayrath introduces the all new "InLine Drive" series of portable grain augers. Mayrath has combined operational efficiency with long term dependability providing you with a high quality, GALVANIZED auger at a very affordable price. The revolutionary "InLine Drive" system minimizes the number of moving parts... greatly reducing costly downtime and maintenance in the future.
The unique "InLine Drive" design features an internally mounted gearbox inside of an expanded, bell shaped tube housing. Auger flighting is positioned to allow a high volume of unrestricted grain flow around the internal gearbox. A new intake design utilizes double flighting and a cupped intake guard to offer a high capacity, complete cleanout operation. A specially engineered hopper bolts directly to top of the intake guard, further enhancing the augers capacity.

Special Offer Expiring July 31, 1996

YOU'LL LIKE HOW IT TURNS. AS WELL AS WHAT IT TURNS INTO.

One thing you'll appreciate about Case skid steers is how well they maneuver. Thanks to their responsive steering and overall compact size, they have the agility and the power to get the job done. Especially in limited space. Even more impressive is how many jobs they can master. Every Case skid steer is designed to power a long list of profit producing attachments. So whether the task involves lifting, digging, spreading or cutting, Case machines get it done. And our quick-change coupling systems let you switch attachments fast. Plus, all Case skid steers, from our rugged 18 horsepower gas model to our 56 horsepower diesel, provide the ultimate in power, durability and reliability. In fact, we offer more horsepower than the competition in almost every class. And every model is backed by the best parts, service and financing in the industry. Because our feeling is that dealer support should be every bit as strong and versatile as the machines themselves.

So visit your Case dealer and find out more about our full line of skid steers. You'll like them for what they are. And especially for what they become.

HOOBER is YOUR HEADQUARTERS for

THE TARGET OTHERS SHOOT AT ... BUT CAN'T HIT!

It doesn't matter how you define AXIAL FLOW PRODUCTIVITY:

1) How many ACRES you harvest per day?
2) How many BUSHELS you harvest per hour?
3) How Many HOURS per year to harvest all your crops?

A 2100 SERIES AXIAL FLOW COMBINE PUTS MORE QUALITY GRAIN IN THE BIN AND LEAVES LESS IN THE FIELD per HOUR, per DAY, or per YEAR than ANY COMPETITORS COMBINE!

At Last...

- 24 ft. one-side boom that allows for 50ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn.
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 15 GPM diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

With the high cost of chemicals, the right Sprayer is needed

Sale of the Week

"New" Hesston 540 Round Baler SAVE $3000
"New" Hesston Forage Wagon w/10-Ton Running Gear SAVE $2000

The New White 6045 ROPS. When you're working in and under low overheads, this low profile 45 PTO hp tractor is a great value for today's farmer. The 6045 gives you a low profile straddle mount and a 12F/12R synchronized reverser transmission to change direction in any gear. For reliable power, there's a liquid-cooled diesel engine. And its true center line power front axle with a 50-degree turning angle helps you get around the tight spaces. Plus, the 6045 has a 2-year/2000-hour AGCO warranty on 100% parts and labor, with no deductible. Climb into a 6045 at your local White dealer. And ask about flexible Agricredit financing plans, offering low rates and waiver of interest contracts.

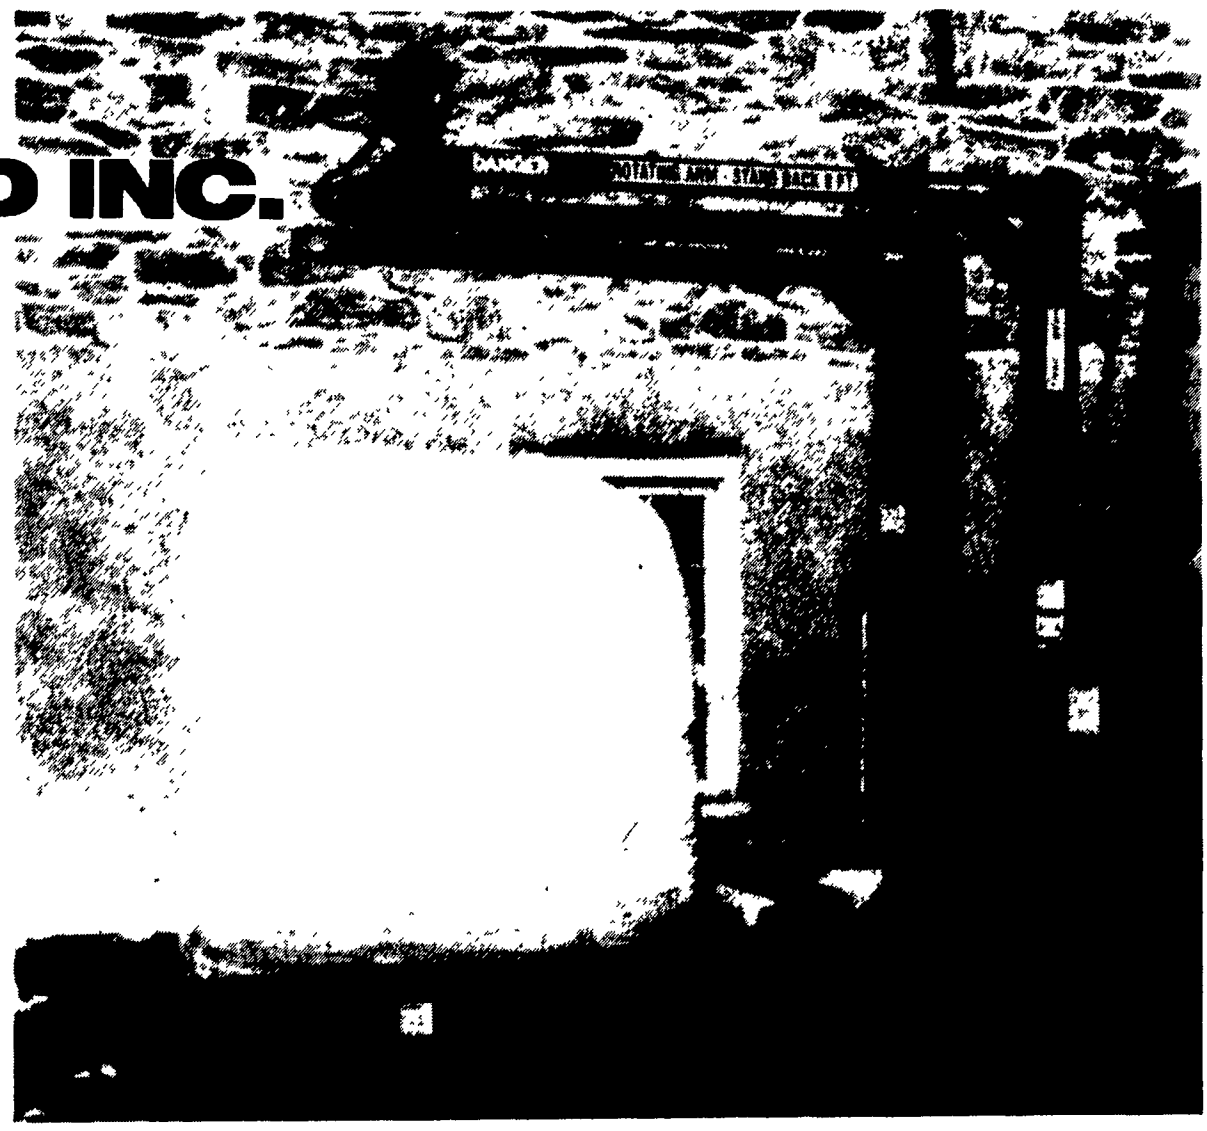
ROUND BALE WRAPPER And MOVER



"Two machines in one", this three point hitch, hydraulic bale wrapper not only wraps bales fast but can be used to move the bales to the barn or feed lot. A one man operation at its' best for feeding high quality balage.

BASIC MACHINE FEATURES:

- 3 Point Hitch
- All Hydraulic Driven
- Plastic Cutter Operated From Tractor Seat
- 2 Sets of Hydraulic Hoses
- Cleated Lower rolls
- Adjustable Flow Valve
- Pioneer Hose Ends Included
- 3 Point Hitch Pins Included
- 20" Film Tensioner
- Film Tensioner Adjustment
- Horsepower Requirements 65+
- All Parts Made in USA

2 Squeeze roller arms together lifting bale into position for wrapping
